OREGON MEN NOT FOR PARTY

Citizens of This State Vote for Best Man Regardless of Politics.

HISTORY OF THE STATE REVEALS THIS FACT

Men of Oregon Think and Then Vote for Candidates They Know to Be Best Qualified to Fill the Offices to Which They Aspire.

Study of the political records reveals that the average Oregon voter is not tied hand and foot by party ties. As a rule, when a citizen of this state decides for himself who is the best man for an office, whether that office be president or constable, he ignores the cry of the spellbinder and votes as a conception of his duty as a citizen directs.

In national politics Oregon is Republican, but from 1868, when it was carried by Horatio Seymour, a Democrat, until 1900, the Republican majority was not large. It fell as low as 571 in 1880, and in 1892 the fusionists succeeded in winning one of the presidential electors. The Republican majority in 1900 was in excess of 12,000 and in 1904 it was almost 43,000, but in both these years many thousands of Democrats showed their independence of party ties by supporting the Republican presidential candidate.

Multnomah county is particularly independent. In June, 1904, Frank A. Moore, Republican nominee for supreme judge, carried the county by 7,528 votes, yet at that very same election Tom Word, Democrat, was elected sheriff by a plurality of nearly 2,500 and John Manning, Democrat, was elected district attorney by more than 2,400. In the following November the county gave Roosevelt 11,000 over Parker, which meant that Roosevelt carried Multnomah by 4 to 1, but in the city election of June, 1905, half a year later, when it was declared that the election of a Republican mayor of Portland was necessary to President Roosevelt's happiness, the city turned round and gave Dr. Harry Lane, Democrat, 1,265 majority.

Other counties have shown the same kind of independence. The cry that the president just before election sleeps with the eye wide open and fixes on Oregon is always heard in campaign time. That cry saved Binger Hermann twice, but the people are now convinced that President Roosevelt's only desire is that the people of Oregon shall recognize honesty and merit wherever they find it. Therefore James Withycombe and various other candidates who are raising the "windmills" the president appeal are likely to find that their own worth will be considered by the great mass of independent voters. The indications are that all faithful officials will be rewarded next Monday, and that the list of victors will include the names of Senator Gearin, Governor Chamberlain and Sheriff Word.

MAX SMITH GETS LEASE ON CALUMET RESTAURANT

Forced to Give Up Present Quarters to Make Way for New Building.

Max Smith, who recently received notice to vacate the present quarters of his restaurant at the corner of Fifth and Morrison streets to make way for the construction of a new office building, has secured a lease on the Calumet restaurant on Seventh, between Alder and Washington streets. He will move between June 15 and 20. He said: "I received notice to vacate the present quarters several weeks ago. I understand the owners of this corner will erect an office building immediately. The Calumet restaurant will be overhauled and put in first-class condition for me. The dining-room is about 40 by 75 feet and will afford capacity for enlarging my business. I shall try to move by June 15.

Plans are being completed for a six or eight-story brick building to occupy the ground 100 by 100 feet at the southeast corner of Fifth and Morrison, now occupied by the old Multnomah building, a frame structure, and the low building in which is the Savoy restaurant, managed by Smith, fronting on Fifth street. The other tenants of the present structures have been provided with other quarters. It is said the new building will be put up this year.

MODERN WOODMEN WILL HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

A simple memorial service will be held this morning at 10:30 o'clock at Taylor street Methodist church by the six Portland camps of Modern Woodmen of America and their auxiliary order, the Royal Neighbors. An attendance of nearly 1,000 is expected. This is the first time the Modern Woodmen have undertaken to hold a general memorial service in this city, although the order has been in existence in Portland many years with a large membership. The members will meet first at state headquarters, 319 Chamber of Commerce building, at 10 o'clock sharp, receive badges and form into line, after which they will march to the church. The service will be conducted by Rev. F. Burgette Short. Committees from the various camps will then proceed to the cemeteries and decorate the graves of deceased members.

Consider This. If ever a man were entitled to re-election that man is Sheriff Tom M. Word. He has done his sworn duty by the people and no man can be challenged on a record like that. He has cleaned the grafters out of Portland, closed up the gambling dens and in doing so drove a horde of thieves and licensed highwaymen out of the city. He has saved the taxpayers money and enforced the laws. He's the first sheriff this county ever had who made the office count for something. The people have tried him and know what he is. They will not turn him out of office for a man supported by everything Tom Word doesn't stand for.
