

The Market Basket

Have you put up your strawberries yet? Most housewives have not. Those who neglect purchasing this season's crop during the next few days will be sorry, for there is every indication that by Monday or Tuesday the big run will be at its very height and then—its too late, for prices will begin to advance. Those that remember the action of the market last season were among the first to purchase this week. A year ago strawberries went in and out of season with almost a single bound. Those who waited for cheaper berries failed to secure any at all, for instead of going down the prices began to climb alarmingly fast. There's no use, however, in denying the fact that quality is somewhat lacking this season. It's the rain and lack of sunshine. Too much water in the berries to suit some people, but even as it is quality is better than that given by other states not more than 1,000 miles away.

There is very little possibility of raspberries getting very low in price this season. The production promises very light at this time. Some few crates are about in the market, but 20 and 25 cents a single pound box they are too high to even think about at this period of the year.

Oranges are getting very scarce for best quality and while this has been decreasing the price has been increasing. Bulk works both ways.

It's time to think about warm weather and lemons. The price is now quite high on account of the enormous demand from the east, but here it has been too cool for extensive sales.

Ten cents for a single pear—and a small one at that. That's a pretty stiff price for a retailer to be asking for pears in Oregon, where so many of them are produced that even with the enormous demand from the far eastern states tons and tons go to waste annually because of the lack of a demand. Of course, these pears that dealers are asking 10 cents each for are not from this state. They're from far away Australia, and there's about two bites to a pear and not very big bites at that. Several small shipments of these pears have been received here of late and some one can always be found to pay the price.

New vegetables of all kinds are now in the market. New beets, turnips and others of that ilk are now coming in abundance from California. Garden peas from local points and string beans from California are getting considerably cheaper. The markets are now showing extensive displays of Oregon cabbages, and this means the disappearance of the California article, for this season at least. California cabbage will not sell when Oregon can be secured. Asparagus is reaching the end of its season and already there is a deficiency in quality.

Chickens are about 3 cents a pound cheaper on account of the lower prices ruling in the wholesale markets. This is at retail. Supplies during the past week showed a considerable gain.

Creamery butter is about 6 cents a roll higher than a week ago. There is a very heavy demand for Portland butter from Alaska points and this is keeping the heavy production cleaned up in the markets. Tighter prices elsewhere caused the advance here. In line with the advance in creamery butter, the dairy product is higher about the same amount.

Good, fresh ranch eggs are now selling in all markets at 25 cents a dozen and present prospects are that the price will go no lower than this during the present season. That's at retail of course.

region. Evidently he knew what neighborhood chickens can do.

Finally the committee went into executive session. After two hours' debate no decision was reached.

A. Shapiro, the proprietor of three saloons in the city, presented a complaint against Captain Bailey, who has the second night relief at the police station. Owing to the excitement of a fire, Shapiro had left his front door open a few minutes after 1 o'clock. When arrested and taken to the station, Captain Bailey had someone hold a 100 ball or an alternative of a cell for the night. Shapiro stated that the captain knew he was entirely responsible for bail money, but at that hour had only $27.50 on his person. He was in jail for half an hour and considered that he had been treated unfairly. Captain Bailey was not present and the committee announced no decision.

DRAWS REVOLVER AND RECEIVES KNOCKOUT

W. Johnson, representing himself to be a salesman for the Zimmerman-Wells-Brown company of 42 Second street, became engaged in an altercation in the Keystone saloon, Fourth and Flanders streets, last night, and upon drawing a revolver was promptly knocked out by one of the habitués of the place. Upon the arrival of the police, Johnson had disappeared and no one was found who would swear to a complaint against him. At the establishment of Zimmerman-Wells-Brown company it is stoutly denied that there is anyone in the employ of the firm named Johnson.

FATHER JOHN'S ARGUMENT

Then it seems that the policeman's father, who is over 70 years old, took a hand on hearing the commotion, and the two old men fell to fighting. This was more than John could stand, so he landed one or two on his neighbor, who, while the officer was trying to handcuff him, had slashed him with a knife. All this time Beam was calling John and his father hard names and speaking of the chickens as nuisances.

At this juncture Mayor Lane leaned over to R. L. Sabin of the committee. "I had to plant those peas four times, and every time those chickens—but the rest was lost. The Berri family lives at 1341 Chase street, and Mayor Lane is also an inhabitant of the suburban

WILL OBSERVE FLAG DAY IN SCHOOLS OF PORTLAND

Flag day will be observed in the public schools of the city next Thursday, June 14. As school closes June 25, and both teachers and students are rushed with work during the last two weeks, the day is hardly welcomed.

"There are so many holidays now you can hardly keep track of them," said Frank Rigler, city superintendent, this morning.

Corvallis Flouring Mills

MANUFACTURERS AND EXPORTERS,
 Highest Grade of Bakers' and Family Flour

THE HIGH STANDARD OF EXCELLENCE WHICH FOR MORE THAN THIRTY YEARS past has made "CORVALLIS MILLS BEST" a household word in the families of discriminating housewives is the best guarantee that the same high standard will be maintained in the future.

OUR BRANDS

"Corvallis Mills Best" and "Pride of the Waldo Hills"

the former manufactured at our mills at Corvallis, the latter at our Silverton mills, are made from the choicest grade of selected winter wheat. Our plants are equipped throughout with the most new and modern machinery.

On November 1st, 1936, we installed in our Flouring Mills what is known as the Alsop Process, which is an entirely new system for improving and sterilizing all grades of flour manufactured by our plant. It is done by the use of electricity which is made with a 500-volt dynamo and from the connection of two carbon points which develop and makes a large electric spark, or a gaseous air known as ozone, then pumped through a coil of metal pipe into a large gyrator. Here it comes in contact with the flour, osoning same, which leaves it in a much healthier condition; strengthening the quality, also making it absolutely free from germs, taking from same a certain portion of the oily matters, or, in other words, leaving the flour in the same state as the atmosphere would be after an electric storm.

A trial will convince you of the results. This is considered the most wholesome flour on the market, and every sack is guaranteed.

Many mills use a combination of sulphuric acid and stic for bleaching their flour on account of its being cheaper than the electric process. These being of a poisonous nature are highly injurious to the health of the consumer.
