TRAILING OF ILLEGAL VOTERS BEGINS; JUDGE SEARS WILL ORDER GRAND JURY

EVIDENCE OF FRAUDS BY SELLWOOD VOTERS WILL BE WORKED OUT

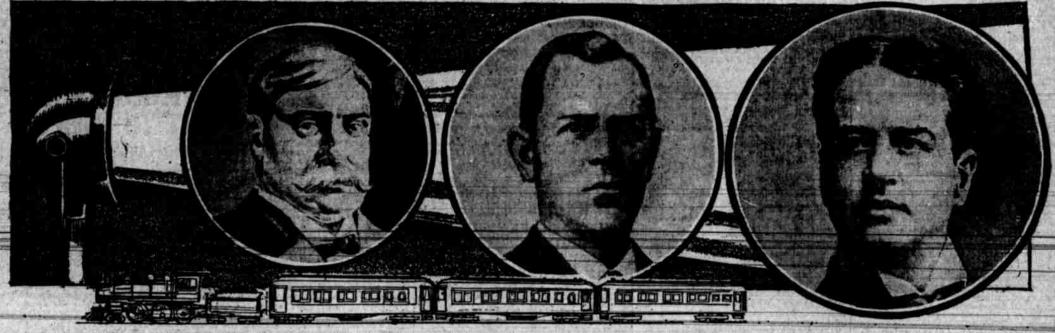

Clues Obtained From Copy of Sellwood Polling List Will Be Investigated-Judge Sears Promises to Call Grand Jury to Investigate Illegal Voting as Soon as Possible-People Demand Action

With the polling list of Sellwood precinct as a source of clues, the trailing of illegal voters is now well under way and sensational developments are sure to follow. This list, a certified copy of which was obtained from the county clerk by the Democratic county committee, shows that 134 affidavit votes, nearly a third of the total vote, were polled in Sellwood. It is not claimed that all these votes were illegal, but the investigators are certain that a large percentage of them were cast by non-residents who were sent or taken into the precinct to help out the liquor interests in their fight against the prohibition measure which threatened to make the Oaks a dry summer resort.

Evidence of concerted action is furnisher by the fact that of the 124 affidavit voters 55 went to the polls in bunches of three or more. The poll list reveals one group of 11 who gave their names as follows: J. R. Duvali, Charles Aigner, Fred Hartley, J. Wettle, Joseph Erkhard, A. M. Osgood, O. E. Thurman, H. E. Vincent, H. C. Gethens, Charles

[Ruhudorf and Charles Adams, Another group, this one of 14, gave the following names: M. Schiell, H. Messing, Cosar Shear, W. J. Kling, E. G. Bowens, S. Hayes, E. H. Bollinger, R. L. Whitcomb, C. A. Austin, W. J. Balley, Oscar Shear, W. J. Balley, Oscar Shear, W. J. Balley, Oscar Shear, W. J. Balley and W. S. Collins, who registered at the Hotel Sellwood with 22 others the night before election, M. Smith, another of the transient guests, voted just a few minutes before the quartet mentioned. The lodgings of the 26 were paid for by a check bent find the proposed and the proposed

MILLIONS IN GRAFT FOR NEW YORK CENTRAL

Philadelphia, June 12.—The hearings before the interstate commerce commission have developed astounding revelations of graft in the methods of the railroad companies and coal companies. The officials of the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania roads kept the graft themselves, but in the case of the New York Cenfral the railroad profited to the extent of millions, the company receiving shares in fuel concerns for discriminations made against opposition companies and favors shown to the trust.

Testmony was produced to show that instead of Vanderbilt officials merely grafting personally, the New York Central itself pocketed $1,500,000 in graft coal stocks, besides owning two or three coal producing companies outright.

This specific $1,500,000 in stock of the Pennsylvania Coal & Coke company is held Vice-President E. V. Rossiter, as he admitted on oath. It was originally presented him in behalf of the New York Central as $500,000 in stock of the Beech Creek Coal & Coke company.

What the New York Central got free from its coal business: Five thousand shares Beech Creek Coal stock, par value $500,000. This by merger grew into 5,000 Pennsylvania Coal & Coke common, $500,000; 5,000 Pennsylvania Coal & Coke preferred, $500,000; Pennsylvania Coal & Coke 5 per cent bonds, $500,000. What the coal companies got out of the Central: Plenty of cars or a fair distribution whenever there was

Buzzing of Presidential Insect in Speaker's Room Can Be Heard All Over Washington-Is Really a Candidate

(Joursal Special Service.)

Washington, D. C., June 12.—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon of Illinols is not going to let grass grow under his feet in chasing the presidential bee. At the present writing the buzzing of the best in the speaker's room can be heard all over Washington. When congress adjourns the speaker's room can be heard all over Washington. When congress adjourns the speaker will let it out with a string tied to it and chase it all over the country.

CORINTHIAN IS WRECKED; LIFE SAVERS RESCUE CREW; TWO LOST, TWO INJURED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Eureka, Cal., June 12,—Two more victhose claimed by the sea in these waters last night when the gasoline schooner Cerinthian grounded on the beach north of Humboldt Bar. Carlson and Andrew McCarry were the ill-fated members of the crew who met death in the cruel breakers off the beach.

It was during a heavy sea that the Corinthian attempted to put out of the harbor. The bar was crossed safely but the craft failed to get beyond the surf of the beach and was thrown upon the rocks.

There were nine men in the crew of the ill-fated vessel. Two were drowned, the other seven being rescued by the life savers.

With the breakers dashing madly over the wrecked schooner, sweeping it from stem to stern, the work of rescue was most hazardous. Had it not timbers.

Italian Child-Wife Who Stabbed to Death Her Uncle and Aunt, Finds a Home.

(Journal Special Service.)
New York, June 12.—Mrs. Josephine Terranova, the Italian girl who stabbed to death her uncle and aunt, who had treated her with a degree of violence that cannot be described in print, has been released from custody. She was acquitted of the murder of her aunt and will not be tried for killing her uncle.

The girl will be educated by Countess Annie Leary, the Newport society leader and philanthropist, who has long-taken a lively interest in industrial settlement work among the poor Italians of this city. It has also become known that the countess supplied the Italian girl with the funds needed for defense at her trial. that cannot be described in print, has

Save Those Aboard

Cola Carison, one of the men who lost their lives, was a Swedish sailor. Andrew McCarry, his companion in death, was a University of California student, who was shanghaled and placed aboard the steamer North Fork. He had shipped as an able seaman on the Corinthian to work his passage back to his home in Berkeley.

Yessel Is Lost,

When the Corinthian struck she was thrown high upon the beach and unless she is floated by the next high tide she will go to pieces within a few hours. It is seen that the craft will be unable to stand the buffeting of the waters for more than a very short time and efforts

BY NEW POSTMASTER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pendleton, Or., June 12.—James Brown will be the next postmaster of Pendleton, having been appointed to that position yesterday by President that position yesterday by President Rooseveit. The nomination was made at the suggestion of Senator C. W. Fulton and Congressman-elect W. R. Ellis. The announcement was a complete surprise. It was known there was a fight on as Postmaster Livermore's term expired July 1. Both are Republicans. Brown has been water super-intendent for years in Pendieton and his selection is commended by all. The salary of postmaster at present is $2,400 a year; the 1st of July it will be advanced to $2,500.

Noose Is Adjusted and Thirty Cowboys Were About to Swing Wife-Beater Into Eternity When Stopped.

(Journal Special Service.) Sloux City, Iowa, June 12. Had De Burser arrived one minute late at a se cluded spot on the Bad river, west of Pierre, South Dakota, Joseph Languer of Yankton, South Dakota, would have been hanging from the limb of a tree out over the water.

The noose was adjusted, and 30 cow-boys were about to pull the cringing. pleading victim from the ground, when Burser came. The latter insisted that the frail wife whom Languer had brutai-ly beaten would recover and persuaded the frail wife whom Languer had brutaily beaten would recover and persuaded the determined men that they were about to commit wanton murder. They dispersed after giving Languer a scare with bullets, which has apparently drives him from the country.

Languer and wife were driving cattle from Pierre to a ranch near Meers, and the woman, who is in delicate health, was compelled to trudge barefoot along the road after the cattle. She fainted from exhaustion, and Languer, in rage, took a board from wagon and beat her brutally. Taking her to a rancher's cabin he said indifferently:

"Til go on with the cattle, and come

'I'll go on with the cattle, and come back tomorrow for the old woman. If she is alive I'll take her home, and if she is dead, all right."

This speech angered the cowboys who heard it, and they organized a party of 30, overtook Languer and came near hanging him.
