CORNELL FAVORITE IN BOAT RACE

Ithaca's Crew in Splendid Trim for the Annual Events Today.

THOUSANDS GATHER TO CHEER THE DARSMEN

Syracuse, Pennsylvania and Georgetown's Friends Have High Hopes of Their Favorites Crossing the Line Pirst-Tenth Annual Affair.

(Journal Special Service.)

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 23.—Everything is in readiness for the annual intercollegiate regatta. The weeks of training are over, the crews are as fit as, under the circumstances, their caches can make them. All they ask a good, quiet water and no favors. They'll get the latter. As for the former, the wind gods will decide.

All three races which make up the say's program will be pulled off late this afternoon, when the sun is declining over the western hills that fringe the Hudson. The four-cared argument at two miles is down for decision at the hour of 4, while three quarters of an hour later the two-mile affair between the freshman eight-cared crews will be decided. The principal contest of the day—the heart-breaking pull of four miles for the six 'varsity crews—comes off promptly at 8 o'clock. As assual, all three races will be rowed 50 wmstream.

The Cornell crew, as usual for the garded in the hig race, and Wisconsin.

Pennsylvania and Georgetown are expected to fight it out for third place.
The Pennsylvania crew this year is regarded with considerable favor because it was the only one that defeated Annapolis on the Severn this spring.

Tonth Annual Affair.

Today's races practically mark the tenth anniversary of the big Pough-keepsie regatta. Various attempts were made to establish an intercollegiate regatta that would be worthy of the name as far back as 1875, but with little success, and it was not until 1896 that the present intercollegiate association comes off promptly at 6 o'clock. As usual, all three races will be rowed downstream.

The Cornell crew, as usual for the past five or six seasons, again is regarded as almost inevitably the victor. It is practically almost as certain that the margin of victory will be nothing like the 22 lengths that separated the Cornell and Syracuse eights first year in the big race. Not only is it likely that some crew may give Cornell a particularly hard race, but it looks as if several colleges would be well up at the finish. There is even hope that an other such grand finish as that which marked the race five years ago may be forthcoming this afternoon.

One thing that lends an exceptional interest to the race this year is the fact that it is likely to signalize the list appearance on eastern waters, for some years at least, of the plucky oarsmen from Wisconsin. The Badger eight is well thought of by the critics. Every man in the Wisconsin shell is a Pough-keepsile volcan. This means a great deal, and there are few experts today who would be surprised to see the Wisconsin shell one of the first three to pass the line at the judges boat.

Syracuse has sent one of the best crews that ever wore the orange. Unless all signs are misleading Syracuse will furnish the crew that will give Courtneys men the race for first place. Columbia's crew has so often been a disappointment that it is not much re-

MULTNOMAH LOOKED UPON AS A SURE WINNER

That Winged M. Men Are Certain of Victory.

Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Spokane. Wash., June 23.—The generally expressed opinon points to a victory for Multnomah today. Spokane and Seattle athletes are dizzy trying to figure out where they can possibly win the meet, but only an accident, it is believed, will rob Multnomah of the honor. Many think that Hayward's men will get as many points as Spokane and Seget as many points as Spokane and Scattle combined. Mulinomab's strength is best manifested in the sprints, half mile, pole vault, jumps and weights. Spokane is generally conceded first in the 440 dash, with the chances of winning the hurdles and mile. Seattle looks strong in the mile and high jump.

today. They cannot get out without losing forfeit money, but that agreement lasts only this season, for which we are all thankful, and Seattle will be where it rightfully belongs next year, and Bull Perine can work in the California State league, where he will be right at home among the native sons. Seattle does not want the best of the umpiring, but after getting the worst of it for four years, it is about time to register a good, strong kick. It was a mistake for this time to ever hook up with California in baseball, and the men who spent their good money on the experiment know it now, for the northern end of the circuit has had to take what was left after the Californians got what they wanted. Walter McCredie and Russ Hell are both authority for the statement that in the last two months of the season, when the northern clubs are in Catifornia, if they win at all they have to do it so, decisively that the umpire has no change to swing it either way.

The haughty Giants were humbled exceedingly yesterday by the wary Seals. From the locals' standpoint the game was a farce. The Giants could not connect with Hitt's curves, and to make the matter worse, Essick and Smith were tied for the honor of hooting the ball all over the field. It was one of those games that a person sees several times during a season that produces a very tired feeling. Wilson and his men were on edge for a spirited engagement. Hitt was especially effective. He had a choice assortment of curves and shoots and kept the big sluggers reaching and guessing throughout nine long and tiresome innings. During the matinee he allowed but two hits, one by Moore in the second inning that scored Lister from second, after the clever first baseman had received a base on balls, and one by Sweeney in the ninth that did not count towards run getting.

the ninth that did not count towards run getting.

The Senis got off on the right foot in the second inning, two hits and a bungle preducing two runs. There was nothing more floing until the sixth, when a couple of hits sent another Seal across the plate. Then Essick, Smith, McCredie and McHale took turns at kicking the ball around, and six hits scored as many runs in the last three innings. There was no hope for the Giants and no one seemed to care. Essick showed no cunning, there was no life to the locals' work and the crowd simply prayed for the end. San Francisco played errorless ball and never missed an opportunity to take advantage of Portland's missed and the countries.
