

WOMAN TRIES TO SLAY TREPPOFF

Female Russian Nihilist Assumes Name of Princess to Assassinate General.

IS SEVENTH ATTEMPT
ON COMMANDER'S LIFE

Disarmed by Guard Who Seized Her Weapon Before She Has Time to Use It—Is Hurred to Cell in Russian Prison to Await Punishment.

(Journal Special Service.)
St. Petersburg, June 27.—Posing as the Princess Alexandra Marishkin, a woman nihilist attempted recently to assassinate General Treppoff, commandant of the palace. The police deny this report, but everybody believes it.

Princess Alexandra Marishkin.

By means of forged letters and documents the woman sought an interview with the czar. In order to carry on her negotiations it was necessary that she should see General Treppoff. She waited for him in his office, and as he entered the woman arose, drew a revolver and aimed it at him.

A guard who was standing close by her side sprang at her and forced the hand holding the revolver into the air.
In another moment she was disarmed and then hurried to prison. She had been unable to fire a shot.

Had she been less precipitate her attempt might have been successful. General Treppoff, believing that he was about to meet the Princess Marishkin, was without suspicion, and would have approached her unsuspectingly.

This is the seventh attempt made on Treppoff's life.

WITNESSES TELL STORY

are naturally prominent, protruding noticeably.

Whether this was a shrewd move to give the impression of insanity, or whether it was adopted to keep his mind from the proceedings could only be guessed.

Story of Crime.

Nicholas Stokes, a wealthy coal dealer, was foreman of the coroner's jury. Lionel Lawrence, manager of the show at Madison Square roof theatre, was the most important witness. He testified that immediately after the shooting Thaw turned to the crowd and remarked: "That fellow ruined my wife.
I fixed him for it." Other witnesses told of the scenes immediately following the shooting.

The first witness was Dr. Timothy D.
Lehan, the coroner's physician, who performed the autopsy on White's body.
He declared that death was caused by a gun-shot wound in the right eye.
Edward H. Conway, foreman of the laborers at the Madison Square Garden, said that he saw both White and Thaw the night of the murder. He described Thaw's movements, saying Thaw passed himself by the shooting and from his table at which White sat. The second time Thaw approached White's table he saw Thaw extend his arm and then three shots followed in quick succession.

Shot Murderer.

White fell and a fireman seized Thaw, who was walking away, and took his revolver. He told of Thaw's arrest and described the shooting, saying he was as he was being taken down the elevator.
Conway said that he noticed Thaw particularly that night.

"His eyes were bulged and dilated," Conway said, "and his face was very white. After the shooting I heard him say: 'He ruined my wife, and I did it.'"

Paul Bruden, the fireman who seized Thaw after the shooting, had very little to add to what Conway had said, except that two men went down the elevator with Thaw and Mrs. Thaw.

Warner Faxton, the engineer, testified that he accompanied the prisoner Mrs. Thaw down the elevator, and when asked as to what conversation passed between Mr. Thaw and Mrs. Thaw he said:

"The woman said: 'Look at the fix you have pushed yourself into now.'"

"What did Thaw say?"

"He said: 'It's all right, dearie; I have probably saved your life.'"

"He said the prisoner was not excited, but appeared cool and calm."

Mrs. Thaw was before the grand jury for 16 minutes, but was not forced to answer questions. Attorney Gary asked if she accompanied her husband the night of the murder. She refused to answer. He asked what her acquaintance with White was. She refused to answer this question.

All the witnesses before the coroner will be examined. Six were examined today, one said to be May Mackenzie.
From the criminal courts buying Oyster Niblets Thaw was taken to the court and saw her husband for hand-an-hour.
She left him smiling.

IS NOT INSANE.

Chances Are That Thaw Will Stand Trial for Homicide.

(Journal Special Service.)

New York, June 27.—Physicians and alienists who have examined Harry Thaw think that he is not insane, though he may have been at the time the crime was committed. The Tribune today is commenting on the feature that Thaw is pronounced sane, says:

"This fact, it is now believed, will change the defense and will cause Thaw eventually to be brought to trial under indictment for homicide."

"It is the belief of the defense that Thaw has an excellent chance of acquittal. Various episodes in the life of Stanford White, quoted yesterday, indicate that the defense of justifiable homicide will be entered, and that Thaw may be able to prove that the shooting was justifiable. It is understood that the famous case of Major-General D. S.
Sickles, who shot Barton S. Key in Washington, will be held up as a precedent.
Sickles was acquitted without the jury leaving the box, it being held at the time that he was absolutely justified."

"A statement, the meaning of which the police were unable to fathom, was that Stanford White, John Delaney, corporation counsel, and his daughter, incorporated today, a close business associate of Mr. White, were booked to sail on La Provence, the new flyer of the French Trans-Atlantic line. Not only were they booked to sail, but it is understood on an excellent authority that Harry K.
Thaw and Mrs. Thaw were also to be passengers on this boat. Owing to the statements of Mr. and Mrs. Thaw against White, the fact that they were all to be passengers on the same boat puzzles the police."

PLANNED DESERTION.

Thaw Left for Europe After Quarrel
With Wife, But Returned at Once.

(Journal Special Service.)

New York, June 27.—It is learned that Thaw sailed for Europe April 24, last, on the Kaiser Wilhelm II, after a quarrel with his wife, with the avowed purpose of never returning to her. On the same boat with him was his sister, the Countess of Yarmouth.

According to a report made to the agents of the line, Thaw said several times in the smoking saloon that his life had been ruined and that he had left that woman for good and all. It was reported aboard the boat that his sister pleaded with him to return to his wife on the next boat from the other side, which he did.

Detectives are now trying to find out where Mrs. Thaw spent the time between her husband's departure for England and his return. Her friends say she did not leave New York City.

THAW'S WIFE REFUSES

two months he was under surveillance, as will be shown by these reports, for not only was White shadowed, but the woman was constantly watched.

Father Doubtful Saniety.

A perusal of the will of William Thaw, the father of Harry Kendall Thaw, disclosed the fact that the father did not consider his son just right mentally. A codicil attached to the will, bearing the date of July 5, 1899, shows he was doubtful of the ability of his son to properly manage his one eighth share of the estate of $25,000.00 and directed that he be paid but $24,000 per annum "until in the discretion of the executors said Harry Kendall Thaw shall display proper discretion and fitness."

The estate is now worth $40,000.00 and it appears that ever since his father's death Harry has been drawing about $7,000 annually. This has been paid by his mother from her three shares of the estate. His own share meanwhile has been reverting to the estate.

There is no record that the executors ever satisfied themselves that Harry has become "settled in his character."

MAD PLEA WITHDRAWN

the time he shot White, or is now insane, the district attorney could have him committed to the asylum for criminal insane at Mattewan.

There Thaw would have to remain indefinitely, and whenever he was pronounced sane he would still have to be tried. Such a move on the part of the district attorney might result in the practical imprisonment of Thaw for several years, even though he might ultimately be released upon the trial that would have to follow.

Sure of Acquittal.

It was learned today that Thaw's counsel feel so sure of a speedy acquittal before a jury that they would regret to see the district attorney have him committed to the asylum for criminal insane at Mattewan.

A man connected with the Equitable Life Assurance society said tonight that Stanford White's life was insured in that company for $189,000 by policies taken out at various times in the past 29 years. During that period White paid to the Equitable $90,000 in premiums. All policies are made payable to his wife.

It is believed that White was heavily insured in other companies as well.

CANNOT KEEP POOR MAN IN JAIL TO PAY FINE

United States District Commissioner Has Power to Grant Prisoner His Freedom.

In spite of the fact that a United States district judge can remove a United States district commissioner from office, John V. Shillock, attorney for P. J. Ganno, contended in court this morning that the commissioner has the right to set aside the judge's decision.

The point in question was in the case of the United States against Ganno for sending scurrilous and defamatory matter through the government mails. Ganno was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $200. The fine has not been paid and Ganno has been in the county jail since May 22, the day he was sentenced. There is a federal statute which says that a poor person cannot be held in jail solely for the purpose of paying a fine, providing that the prisoner is not the owner of property exceeding $10 in value.

The prisoner in such cases has a right to appear before a United States commissioner and ask for his freedom and the commissioner has the right to grant the prisoner his freedom upon the latter taking an oath that he has not property to exceed the sum of $10.

Judge Wolverson was surprised upon hearing the contention of Attorney Shillock and asked for a reading of the section several times. He later took the case under advisement.
