

OWL CAR DEMAND INCREASES

People in All Parts of City Signing Petitions and Sending Signed Owl Car Coupons to The Journal—Seattle Has Them

That Seattle has streetcars running all night while the Portland tracks are still and silent for about five hours on the 24 is not a flattering commentary on Portland's up-to-date-ness.

So Portland people have been signing for the past two days.

The fact that an efficient streetcar service is a necessary adjunct to the life and progress of a city is recognized. It is argued that the town burdened with an insufficient street transportation department is handicapped in its race for supremacy to that extent.

Owl coupons continue to come into the Journal office with every mail. And reports of petitions being circulated indicate that they are being signed willingly wherever offered. One petition left at the county clerk's office, for example, has now appended to it 54 names, among them being the signatures of Joshua Cleland, Gantenstein and Webster and County Clerk Fields. Among the coupons sent in is one signed by Mekia Kwalak, a member of the Royal Hawaiian band, who incloses a letter in which he states that the members of the glee club and orchestra are unanimously desirous of an owl car.

All Want Owl Cars.

Another letter is sent by J. Oliver Stewart of Belmont street, who incloses a list of 19 signatures appended to one signed by Mr. Stewart writes:

"It is my opinion that 90 per cent of the people in the residence district of Portland are in favor of an owl service. Portland is not a country village any longer and the companies which franchise it should not be allowed to treat it as such."

A Willamette Heights resident incloses an argument not heretofore more than merely touched upon in these columns. The text of the letter is as follows:

"For two years I have worked at a vocation that compels me to remain down town until 2 o'clock in the morning and if I live in any other city in the union as big as Portland I would have the pleasure of riding home on a streetcar at that hour. Not so here, however. While the Portland Railway and Navigation Company has the demand made upon it by the public, in the matter of owl cars it has absolutely ignored the wishes of those who have a right to expect something better.

"President and General Manager Fuller excuses the company by stating that there has never been any great demand for owl cars. He should know that good and adequate service should precede and create the desire to use late cars and not be the result of that desire, as he now contends. Just as fast as good service is furnished, just so fast will the desire of the public to use that service increase. Some of our greatest public servant organizations today were formed years ago for the purpose of creating a demand for their goods and services and not for the purpose of supplying any want existing at that time.

"In conclusion let me say that I do not live on any branch line, but on one that would furnish sufficient passengers to warrant owl car service, namely, the Willamette Heights line."

Portland people who wish an owl service are given an opportunity to express themselves by the coupon printed at the bottom of this page. Cut out the coupon, sign it with your name and address and mail it to The Journal. Remember to write "Owl cars" in one corner of your envelope.

To the Editor of The Journal:

I am in favor of an all night streetcar service for Portland and vicinity.

UMBRELLA JIMMY BAITED BY CROWD OF BRAVE YOUNGSTERS

Old Umbrella Jimmy was happy at noon today.

He was involved in a street corner altercation with some leading youngsters and there is nothing he likes better.

Jimmy, looking grouchy and full of wit, was wandering along Fourth street near Yamhill just about noon. Some small boys who knew his ways and craved the excitement of a row with him began to whistle as he passed.

Jimmy turned upon them fiercely, and the fun began. He is of small stature, but his vocabulary is a thing for all mankind to marvel at, and he looks as warlike as a diminutive Japanese soldier chockful of hatred of a Russian when he glares at his tormentors.

Of course a crowd gathered in no time. If Jimmy wasn't looked on as a nuisance by a great many, the boys would have been sent flying, but the old man's predilection for a row is too well known.

"Oll! Hek the hull bunch of yer," exclaimed James.

"Aw, yer can't do nuthin' of de kind," retorted the youngsters.

"Wallop ye one by one," cried Jimmy in what he intended to be a real bull-bull-bull.

"It 'd take a man to do it," yelled the most impudent of the boys, and he continued to torment. And while the crowd laughed the old man tottered off with the boys still jeering.

Jimmy might inherit the crown of the most impudent of the boys, but the street character were it not for his love of a fight of some kind, verbal preferred very much. As it is, Julius' mantle will never fall upon his bent shoulders, for Julius' great virtue was his good nature. The boys never bothered Julius.

MYSTERIOUS MESSAGE PUZZLES H. D. WAGNON—WHO IS LIZZIE?

"What are you going to do with Lizzie's remains?"

That was the telegram received by H. D. Wagon this morning in the absence of his brother, to whom it was addressed. He knows Mrs. J. W. McCurran of Chicago, who signed the message, but knows nothing of any "Lizzie" to whom it could possibly refer. The message came in care of the chief of police, as his brother's address was not known.

A search of the records of the health office was made this morning after the receipt of the mysterious message. There was no record of any death which could have any connection with the inquiry.

Much puzzled, Mr. Wagon is asking Mrs. McCurran for an explanation. It is evident the people in Chicago think of his relative as dead here, but it is as much in the dark as any one.

DID NOT HEAR GONG RING AND LIFE WAS PENALTY

William Mathewson Dies From Injuries Received When Streetcar Struck Him.

As the result of injuries sustained in a streetcar accident at Grand and Hawthorne avenues Saturday night, William Mathewson of 169 East Ninth street, died at Good Samaritan hospital yesterday. He is believed to have been mentally unbalanced at the time of the accident.

Dr. A. E. Hockey was called after the man had been removed to the Good Samaritan hospital, but seeing the man's condition was hopeless did not perform an operation. An autopsy was held by Dr. A. C. Sheldon and Dr. Beaman, who gave first aid to the injured man. The physicians found evidence of an old case of meningitis and also found an extensive adhesion of the brain. It is believed that at times the adhesion caused mental aberration and that Mathewson was not aware of what was going on about him.

It was because of his affliction, it is believed, that he did not hear the ringing of the gong of an approaching Mount Labor car Saturday night, nor the shouts of bystanders. Mathewson was employed as a switchman.

THOMPSON SCORED GREATER NOT GUILTY

Seattle Judge Does Not Approve of District Attorney's Stand in Mitchell Case.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Seattle, Wash., July 16.—The opinion of John Manning, district attorney of Multnomah county, in the Mitchell case was denounced by Superior Judge Frater, who presided over the Mitchell trial from the bench this morning. The remarks were made while Judge Frater was passing a sentence of 10 years on Robert H. Jones, convicted of murder in the second degree for killing Arthur Gregson, aboard a ship in Seattle harbor.

"Human life is too cheap in this community," said Judge Frater. "It is not only held too cheap by those who recklessly murder others on our streets and in the victim's own house, but by the public in general.

"The demonstration made by the spectators in this court room when George Mitchell was acquitted was a disgrace to any law abiding community. When a jury of twelve men returned a verdict of not guilty in a case where it was clearly proved that the defendant was the author of a cold blooded murder under the laws, the spectators applauded their act.

"They made a hero of a man guilty of murder in the eyes of the law and demonstrated their approval when a jury failed to do their duty and freed a murderer.

"I am glad to say, however, that this public approbation for murders is not publicly expressed by our public officials.

"Men sworn to uphold the law as counselors do not share in the clamor for the acquittal of murderers.

Official Interposed.

"An extraordinary anomaly was presented in the case I just referred to in this court, a jury returning a verdict of not guilty in the case of a sister state interstate in this county and attempting to shield a murderer from punishment.

"I rejoice that our public officials do not come forward and make pathetic pleas that criminals be not dealt with according to the law.

"When an officer of the law in a neighboring state takes such action it shows that a deplorable spirit of lawlessness is abroad."

AUTOISTS SHOOT UP TOWN FOR AMUSEMENT

Men in Hack Also Fire Promiscuously and One is Arrested.

Ralph Burns was arrested at Fourth and Couch streets at 2 o'clock this morning by Patrolmen Humphries and Mallet and booked on a charge of disorderly conduct shortly before the arrest a crowd of men riding in a hack fired a fusillade of shots near Seventeenth and Washington streets. Patrolmen notified headquarters of the matter and the policemen in the north end were ordered to be on the lookout for the offenders.

A hack answering the description was halted by the two patrolmen at the streets named and the occupants searched. A revolver which had been recently discharged was found on Burns and he was taken into custody. Upon the calling of the case in the municipal court this morning Burns failed to appear and his bail of $20 was forfeited.

Patrolman M. M. Rudolph reported to Chief Gritnamacher this morning that a crowd of automobilists had fired eight shots on the road near the site of the American Inn. The car was going so fast that he could not ascertain its number or make out the driver. Authorities are determined to put a stop to the practice of "shooting up" the town by bibulous autoists and Judge Cameron has promised his active support in all those found guilty.

FATHER IN JAIL; NOBODY TO CARE FOR SON

Lorenzo Joseph Dame's Boy Left Without Home by Father's Alleged Crime.

The juvenile court will determine this afternoon what is to be done with the 12-year-old son of Lorenzo Joseph Dame, the man who is being held in the county jail charged with polygamy. This is the son of Dame by his first wife, who is said to have died several years ago.

When Dame married the daughter of H. Sutcliffe, about two years ago, the boy went to live with them and he said that a strong attachment grew up between him and his grandfather-in-law, Mr. Sutcliffe. Later Dame and his wife agreed to separate and the boy was sent to Newburg's board with a family there, Dame sending money to them every Monday.

The first Monday after his arrest on the polygamy charge the money was not sent and the family was unable to board the boy, having read of Dame's arrest, sent the little fellow to the city.

On arriving here the boy went to the home of Mr. Sutcliffe at 414 Salmon street and has since lived there. Last Saturday Sutcliffe notified Chief Probation Officer Marion R. Johnson of the juvenile court that he would not keep the boy any longer, as he did not consider that he had any claim on the boy.

Dame cannot support the boy and there is no one in this city who wants to keep him. His grandmother lives in Walla Walla, but no one seems to be willing to pay for him to live there. The case will be disposed of by Judge Fraser this afternoon.

LABORER DIES WHILE RESTING UNDER TREE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Salem, Or., July 16.—An unknown individual, found dead on the Tilmon Ford property, near the county poor farm, yesterday afternoon. The man was discovered by Conrad Dilman and his son of this city, who were on their way to the river's bank to rest. The dead man was reclining under a large tree, his head rested on his hat, which he had used as a pillow, and a pipe was at his side. Evidently the man was resting at the time of his death.

Coroner A. M. Clough was summoned immediately, but he did not think an inquiry necessary and brought the body to the undertaking parlors.

The man was of German descent, about 45 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighed about 150 pounds. He had a round head and sandy hair and mustache. He could not be identified as he had no papers upon his person, all that was found being a few matches, a knife and a tin of chewing tobacco. The body had been there cannot be ascertained as the place where he was found is away from the main highway and could not be seen by those passing by. The dead man was dressed in the garb of a laborer.

LOSS HERE TO BUY STOCK FROM EVANS

It was arranged today by C. E. Loss and his attorneys to carry on negotiations with the estate of John B. Evans and W. T. Muir for their holdings of stock in the United Railways company. The accident in which Mr. Evans was injured yesterday may delay the matter for some time, but it is believed to remain a week or two and expect to get the railway projects thoroughly organized and resume construction of the Front street line and possibly complete plans for further interurban railroad construction.

It is understood from well-informed sources that Mr. Loss is a close associate of Abraham Reuf, one of San Francisco's millionaires who was lost financially from the earthquake and fire and who, with a number of wealthy friends, has been regarding Portland favorably as a location for investments.

TWO SISTERS FAINT WHILE AT THE OAKS

Rapid-fire faints prevailed among the fair members of the Howe family at the Oaks last night. Florence Rowe fell to the floor in the dance hall and had to be carried out and revived. Her sister accompanied her and aided those working over her prostrate sister in their efforts to bring her to.

Florence was no sooner revived and walking about as usual than May suddenly fell over on the bench upon which she was sitting and was unconscious for 15 minutes. A large crowd gathered at the scene and watched the efforts of the people in bringing the girl out of the faint. Despite their efforts she could not be revived until strong stimulants were used. She was later taken to her home, where she is reported much better.

Both girls had been dancing and were overcome by the heat and fatigue. They were their residence as East Morrison street.

CENTRAL AMERICAN WAR IS NEARING ITS CLOSE

Merry says he is in negotiation with the Salvadoran authorities in an effort to stop hostilities, and Brown, in charge at Guatemala, says that Honduras promises to cease fighting as soon as Guatemala withdraws its troops from the territory.

It is believed with Presidents Roosevelt and Diaz both working for peace, the war will not last long.
