

MEN PREPARE FOR ENCAMPMENT

Army Officers Begin to Arrive Here on Their Way to American Lake.

OREGON GUARD GETS GOOD CAMP GROUND

General Finzer Pleased With Distinction Shown State's Citizen Soldiers—Encampment Will Open on August Eleventh.

Everything is "American lake and the coming encampment" with the military officials who are stopping at the Portland hotel today. General Fred Finzer and several staff officers arrived from San Francisco this morning on their way to the camping grounds, while General A. W. Greely came in from Seattle and American lake. General Greely inspected Fort Lawton while in the sound country. He is accompanied by Captain Winn.

As a result of a conference with General Finzer this morning General Finzer, adjutant-general of the Oregon National Guard, announced that the Oregon troops would be camped at Murray station. This is one of the best spots on the grounds and General Finzer feels highly elated over the choice position which General Finzer allotted to the Oregon boys. No name has been selected for the Oregon camp and it is doubtful whether one will be chosen until the soldiers arrive on the field, August 11.

General Finzer said that the engineers were staking out the camp and that a few companies of regulars were on the grounds to protect the supplies that have already arrived.

"The troops will begin to arrive about August 10 and the drilling and practice will commence the following day. All efforts will be made to have the troops work and live in the most rigid military style. We want the body ready at all times to be in such condition that they could enter into a war fully ready to stand its rigors and hardships. The camp will be a school where such lessons will be taught."

Accompanying General Finzer are the following staff officers: Colonel Clem, Captain Clanton, Captain Hann, Lieutenant Long, Lieutenant Mitchell and Captain Wildman. Jack Clem, a son of the Colonel, is also a member of the party, although he is not connected with the army. General Greely and Captain Winn spent the day at Vancouver barracks and will leave for San Francisco tonight.

Why Pabst Malt Is The Perfect Malt

PABST has proven by scientific experiments and sixty years of practical brewing that eight days are required in making malt to bring about those necessary chemical changes by which the perfect predigested malt is produced. In many breweries the old four-day process is still used and the malt is of forced, unnatural development. It lacks in nutrition and is in all ways inferior, much of the vital nutriment of the grain being lost. Beer brewed from Pabst eight-day malt retains in predigested form all of the nutritious life-giving elements of the grain.

It is the exclusive Pabst method of brewing with Pabst eight-day malt that makes Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer superior as a nourishing tonic and a delicious beverage.

MAY BE EXCELLENT AWYER BUT CANNOT SAFELY OPERATE LAUNCH

Assistant Attorney-General E. C. MacDonald of the state of Washington, and of Spokane in particular, who has been in Portland this week as counsel for his state in the boundary question that is pending between Washington and Oregon, took a pleasure party out in a launch Wednesday evening and while steering the vessel ran afoul of a hawser of the steamer Barracouta, which is lying in the harbor. The result was that the pilot-house of the pleasure boat was nearly torn off and thrown into the river with the bold navigator who had received his marine knowledge on the Spokane river.

Attorney MacDonald was anxious to conceal the knowledge of the disaster from the public and especially from the pilots and marine men he had been grilling in the past week while they were testifying as to channels, lights and depths.

The story was too good to keep, however, and Harrison Allen, district attorney of Clatsop county, took the matter up after all the testimony had been handed in at the close of the session of the boundary commission yesterday afternoon.

MOTHER GAZES INTO FUTURE, TELLING SON TO BEAT WIFE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Albany, Or., July 27.—Because his mother is a fortune-teller and a portrayer of the future, Eli Aunspaugh of Crabtree beats his wife and mistreats his children, he says.

For 17 years Eli Aunspaugh and wife have lived together and have eight children to be sent out into the world penniless in care of their worn and weak mother. Realizing that she could no longer agree with her husband nor bear the taunts and ill treatment heaped upon her, Mrs. Aunspaugh has taken her belongings and together with the children will leave the log cabin home in the wilderness of the Santiam country.

It is due largely to the influence of his mother and the agitation of neighbors, who have sided against him, that this was brought about. The recent husband that he loves his wife, and were it not for the influence of his

In a solemn tone he asked that Mr. MacDonald be sworn. The gentleman referred to looked up in surprise and was about to make a remark when he was interrupted by the stentorian tones of the district attorney, who thundered: "Swear the gentleman."

"After the formal process had been finished Mr. Allen continued in the same solemn voice: "Mr. MacDonald, have you ever had any practical knowledge of navigation?"

"No sir."

"You appear here, sir, in this case simply as counsel for the state of Washington?"

"Yes sir," replied the bewildered official.

"Well, Mr. MacDonald, suppose you were entering the Columbia river from the ocean toward Sand Island, what would you do in case lights appeared, steer for the blue light or the red one?"

Mr. MacDonald saw, and stated that if the gentleman from Oregon would allow the gentleman from Washington to make a suggestion, the matter of lights would be a subordinate question in the matter that would follow.

A few days ago the woman appeared at the courthouse, rushed into the sheriff's office and asked for the protection of the law, saying her husband was "after her and would kill her. Shortly afterward he appeared with a dangerous-looking knife in his hip pocket. This he explained he had for self protection, but his brothers had threatened his life. With the assistance of an attorney, the county judge and sheriff the matter was adjusted. It was agreed to make an equitable division of all property and that she take one half.

BANK ROBBERY IS BELIEVED WORK OF EMPLOYE

Efforts Being Made by Detective Hartman and Police to Catch Guilty Man.

An investigation by Detective Hartman of the mysterious disappearance of $2,000 in currency from the Mercantile National bank several days ago shows that the theft was undoubtedly committed by some employee of the bank. The fact that the doors of the institution had been locked at the usual closing hour and the clerical force was absent, leaving the safe open, precludes the possibility of any crook having entered from the outside.

President J. Frank Watson, when seen this morning, refused to discuss the matter beyond stating that it appeared as if the money had been taken by someone in the bank.

"I'd give $100,000 to discover the rascal," said Mr. Watson.

The banker was wrathful over the publication of the matter and declared that since the theft had become public it would seriously interfere with the detection of the thief.

The circumstances surrounding the crime are exceedingly mysterious. The mailing clerk had made up the bills into a package for mailing and left his desk to secure the necessary stamps. During his brief absence the package of currency was taken. Although the police deny having any clue to the identity of the thief, yet it is believed they have suspicions, and arrests may follow.

ADOLPH WEBER WILL NOT LIVE TO BE HANGED

Murderer of His Entire Family Fast Wasting Away Say Prison Authorities.

(Journal Special Service.) Sacramento, July 27.—The opinion is freely expressed by visitors to Folsom prison that Adolph Weber, the Auburn murderer who killed his father, brother and sister, will not live to ascend the scaffold September 12. His condition is that of a man who is fast wasting away.

Although it was given out by the officials that he stood the journey from Auburn as a matter of fact he seemed more dead than alive when he reached the prison. He totters about rather than walks. His stomach will receive no food except milk and his system will not assimilate even that. In consequence there is a drain on his vitality and his weight is no more than 100 pounds.

The belief is general at Folsom that Weber will die a natural death before his execution.

CITY EMPLOYEES WILL NOT LOSE SALARIES

There is about as much chance of city employees failing to be paid because of the technical illegality of their civil service examinations as there is of the city hall walking across to the east side of Fourth street. The men who have been doing the work will be paid whether 8, 13 or 14 days' notice of the examinations was published or not. There won't be any wholesale discharges. Some men may have to take extra work home against Supreme court orders. A number of states long ago decided that an executive officer cannot be held responsible for the wages of others technically employed by him.

Except in the case of Bruin and also of Tom Kay, against whom a suit will probably be brought, it is doubtful if any changes will be made in the city payroll.

RAIDS GAMBLING JOINTS

Included a sensational hand-to-hand encounter with a Chinese of giant stature, who acted as lookout for the gambling establishment, after which he held at bay for over an hour at the point of his pistol a score of Oriental gamblers.

His suspicions were aroused by the actions of the Chinese at the door, and as he walked in the giant Chinese guard attacked him with a club, but when he knocked the guard down, running upstairs Gibson found 30 Chinese gambling in a room. He rushed in and closed and locked the doors, but not until half the Chinese had escaped. With his back to the door and a loaded gun in his hand he held the fort. The Chinese rushed at him, but dropped like tennies. Each blow sent a son of the Flowery Kingdom to the floor. The crowd finally retired to one end of the room, where many carried their battered heads. Their conqueror waited for aid, but none appeared. Finally he wrote a note and dropped it from a window and yelled to a small boy to phone for a patrol wagon. The boy summoned the police and 17 Celestials were gathered in.

PRISON SENTENCE FOR STANDARD OIL OFFICIALS

Chicago, July 27.—Two letters have been received, one, it is said, from the president and the other from the department of justice, which have changed the tenor of proceedings against the Standard Oil company. It is said new facts brought to light warrant a more active method of attack. It is estimated that evidence will be introduced before the federal grand jury next month for an indictment with a good chance of conviction, with imprisonment.

JOBBER'S DISCUSS OIL TANKS

East Side Merchants Declare Standard Oil Disregards Law and Menaces Neighborhood.

INSURANCE RATES HIGHER, THEY SAY

Proximity of Tanks to Other Buildings Dangerous, Say Those Interested, and Cause of Insurance Companies Increasing Rates.

Emboldened, perhaps by the absence of any representative of the Standard Oil company, jobbers on the east side who want the oil tanks removed this morning hammered the "octopus" on every tentacle showing how the near vicinity of the tanks and tank cars had raised their insurance rates, endangered their property and was losing money for them in many ways from the tanks.

The health and police committee of the council was considering the measure to force the tanks' removal to Portsmouth.

"It is characteristic of Standard Oil to disregard every municipal, state or national law," exclaimed E. M. Brannick, manager of the Studebaker Bros. company of the northwest. He led the protesting impatient dealers. He told of the long fight against the oil tanks on East Madison street and declared that things are getting worse and worse.

John S. Beal, a dealer of Hawthorne avenue, one block away from the tanks, told how his insurance rate had been $11.50 before the first fire at the tanks. After that it had been raised to $2 and to $2.50 after the second blaze. He couldn't blame the Standard Oil for the last raise, to $4.50, after the San Francisco conflagration. It was a fact, nevertheless, he said, that the neighborhood of the tanks and cars was forcing some of the patrons of his warehouse to call in their accounts.

L. E. Trent, Portland manager of the Parlin & Orendorff company, and J. J. Ross, Portland manager of the Molins-Bain company, told what the tanks had done to them, as did also a representative of Mitchell, Lewis & Staver.

The cars leak oil and the ground is saturated with it. Gas constantly arises and danger is always there it seems. Chief Campbell suggested that the members of the committee go under the tanks where the company says there is enough space to hold the oil should it explode. "You'd never want to send men down there, for you'd think they'd never come back," said he. Both Campbell and W. R. Roberts, deputy fire marshal, called attention to the presence of thousands of cords of slashwood a short distance to the west of the tanks.
