MAIL TRANSPORTED SIX MILES TO LUMBER CAMP IN FLUME

A novel scheme for sending mail to the postoffice at Oak Point, on the lower Columbia river, has been discovered by the loggers of the Northwest Door company's camp, back in the hills six miles from the postoffice. Instead of the old and slow method of packing it on foot or on horseback it is placed in an ordinary tin can, put on a piece of lumber and shot down the long flume conveying the product of the mill to the river front.

STOLEN WILL CAUSES POLICE TO BEGIN THOROUGH SEARCH

Wanted—Information that will lead to the capture of the one-legged man who stole my last will and testament. Liberal reward. Notify W. D. Tyler, Toka Point Oyster company. It would not be particularly surprising if the above advertisement appeared in the classified ad columns of The Journal, for of all the freaks of police in some time the complaint made by W. D. Tyler certainly heads the list. He notified the authorities this morning that while coming to the city on a Vancouver car at 10 o'clock last night his grip containing two bank books and his last will and testament, was stolen from under his seat. A man, shy on legs, is alleged to have been seen alighting from the car with the grip in his hand, but no trace of him can be found.

PEEK-A-BOO WAISTS SIMPLY RIDICULOUS, SAYS MRS. ADDITON

The California W. C. T. U. at its annual convention held last week put its stamp of disapproval on the wearing of peek-a-boo waists. It is quite likely that the example will be followed by the Oregon sisters. "I think it's about time somebody should take up those horrible things," said Mrs. L. H. Additon, the Oregon state president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, yesterday.

"Our state convention does not meet until September and so of course we cannot take up the matter before that time. But the W. C. T. U. stands for purity in the strictest, strictest sense and anything that tends in the slightest way to immorality we protest against. I believe those waists are simply ridiculous. I don't see any reason for any such kind of dress. Yes, our state convention might take it up, but it's too far away to say for sure."

VAUGHN DEMANDS SOME ACTION

Councilman Wants Railroad Petition Taken From Hands of Judiciary Committee. WILL MAKE REQUEST OF COUNCIL TOMORROW

Committee Refuses to Take Action on Petition Though Vaughn Has Been Trying for Several Months to Compel Recommendation.

When the council meets tomorrow evening it is probable that a lively fight over the tracks of the Southern Pacific on Fourth street will develop. This will be caused by the request of Councilman Vaughn that the petition of a number of prominent property-owners and merchants near the Harriman tracks be taken out of the hands of the judiciary committee.

Vaughn tried in vain yesterday afternoon to get the judiciary committee to take some action on the petition. He has been trying for several months, but the other members will not make a recommendation of any kind. The contention of the petitioners is that the tracks up the steep grade of the street constitute a danger to their property and business. Vaughn holds that the franchise should be a source of income to the city. It was granted in 1888 and the Harriman officials now claim the right to revoke it at any time. "They've used that street for 40 years without paying the city a cent," said he today. "No, I won't say that the committee has jobbed me, but it does look mighty queer. I have asked time and again for a report of some kind on the petition, but the answer is that I'm simply wishing the chance to make a minority report. I don't want anything of the kind; I want the ordinance levying a tax upon the franchise to pass."

Mr. Vaughn also declares it isn't the business of the city as to where else the tracks of the west side system shall be located. "That is up to the railroad people," says he. "We will simply do our duty and make the railway company pay for that franchise."
