

WATSON'S PAST RECORD SEPARATE CHURCH FROM STATE

Details Gone into by Government in Trial of Defendant for Perjury in Connection With Land Frauds Near Town of Fossil

A jury in the federal court is now being furnished with data sufficient for a three-volume story of what seven years brought to Charles A. Watson. It was in 1915 that Watson filed on a homestead; it was in 1914 that he proved up, and as he at present faces a charge of perjury growing out of his sworn statements on final proof, the government files it necessary to turn the searchlight on those intervening years.

Therefore the jury is hearing all about Watson—that he broke horses for one man and hauled lumber for another, followed and harvested, went home to the funeral of his grandmother, ran a saloon, turned logger and hurt his foot, often complained of his health, but made a trip to Missouri did a hundred head things that might have been forgotten if he had not filed on a homestead in that portion of Wheeler county where the Butte Creek Land, Livestock & Lumber company had been granted the earth and all the tenants thereof.

Occasionally there is mention of the big pasture which included 18,000 acres of government land. This morning Judge Bennett tried on the examination of Robert Kennedy, a long and spare wheeler who with an immense "K" on his necktie, said that Watson's claim furnished no part of the chain of fence around the pasture mentioned, and on the admission that further in there was another fence which was well supplied with openings.

Kennedy Gives Testimony. Kennedy testified that he had been on Watson's place "lots of times," but had never seen any one living there. When asked to describe the cabin on the land, he said:

"It didn't look like much of a house; it looked as if it might have been used for a combing house."

Through James S. Stewart, who succeeded Hamilton H. Hendricks as United States commissioner at Fossil and still holds the appointment, United States Attorney Brinkley brought out that Watson's list of witnesses on final proof and a description of the land were taken to Stewart by Hendricks. It developed from Stewart's testimony that final proof was not made on the date advertised. The defense asked that all evidence of the transaction be stricken out on the ground that at the time final proof was made Stewart had no jurisdiction, but Judge Hunt overruled the objection. According to government authority, claimants are allowed 10 days of grace.

James King, a cattle raiser, testified that in 1913 Watson worked for Cor D. Burman, eight or nine miles from his claim. Watson did some haying for King that year, brought him the news of the Hepper flood and told him he had gone back to his old home in Missouri and spent a year there.

MRS. LEDOUX DROPPED BY DEATH SENTENCE. Woman Hears Court Without a Tremor—Mother Weeps Over Daughter.

Stockton, Cal., Aug. 7.—Without a tremor slight Mrs. Ledoux received her death sentence this morning. The little woman stood the coolest and most collected of all in the crowded court room while Judge Nutter passed the sentence. After the court proceedings were over Mrs. Ledoux reddened a bit, but after a few moments her face resumed its usual expressionless appearance.

After all was over Mrs. Ledoux joined her mother-in-law, Mrs. Ritten, and throwing her hands above her head uttered a little cry and rushed into her mother's arms. Mrs. Ledoux sobbed, but Mrs. Ritten shed no tears. Mrs. Ledoux was led back to the jail.

This morning Attorney Farrell for the defendant introduced more affidavits to show the good reputation of witnesses who had sworn that Juror Ritten declared during the trial that the jury intended to hang the woman. Judge Nutter, in denying the motion for a new trial, announced his belief that the affidavits, Murphy and Smith, had testified falsely about Juror Ritten and directed the sheriff to deliver the woman into the custody of the warden at San Quentin prison within 10 days.

WIFE SAYS HUSBAND IS GUILTY OF THEFT. Upon complaint of Mrs. Cora Snyder of 124 Malloy avenue, warrant for the arrest of her husband, Gregory Snyder, was issued this afternoon by Judge Cameron, charging him with larceny. It is alleged by the complainant that her spouse had decamped for parts unknown with $3,500. According to Mrs. Snyder's story to the police her former husband upon his death left $3,500 in trust to her daughter and it is claimed that this is the money stolen by Snyder.

Under the provisions of the will Mrs. Snyder was appointed the trustee and after her marriage with her present husband he induced her to sign over the money to him. After securing the coin it is claimed that he commented upon his wife's ill-health and advised a trip to Seaside. During her absence at the beach it is alleged that Snyder disappeared.
