

ATTORNEYS FOR THE GOVERNMENT GATHER DAMAGING EVIDENCE WHILE ATTORNEYS FOR DEFENSE TRY TO HAVE THEIR PROTEST RECOGNIZED

The Blue Mountain reserve land fraud case is to go to trial Monday morning with State Senator Franklin Pierce Mays, William N. Jones and George Willard as defendants. The case is being handled by Attorney General Henry and the defense is being handled by Attorney General Henny.

The big fence of the Butte Creek Land, Livestock & Lumber company is now being wound around Clarence B. Zachary, whose trial for perjury has already taken three days of the time of Judge Hunt and a jury. At every turn of the case Special Assistant Attorney-General Henny brings in a string of harped wire and the defense vainly objects, for the court holds that such evidence is admissible to show Zachary's motive when he made affidavits that Charles A. Watson had complied with the requirements of the homestead law.
