LARRY SULLIVAN TELLS ABOUT GANS CONTRACT

Portland Magnate Has Confidence in Colored Fighter and Will Back Him From Start to Finish-Baltimore Boxer Means Business.

(Special Dispatch by Lessed Wire to The Journal)
Geldfield. Nev., Aug. '18.—'All right,
$500 and expenses."

That is the answer to George Siler, and it makes him the referee of the Nelson-Gans fight to a finish. Both of the fighters express their entire satisfaction with the selection, for the very good reason that any objection would not make any difference anyway. The only mistake Siler made in his acceptance was the price. He could have had $1,000 just as easily as $500. The articles of agreement allow that sum, but of course the club isn't throwing money to the birds. It was clear from the moment the meeting opened that Siler would be the man. Some Siler men had been at work during the day, and at the first throw from the box Tex Rickara virtually announced that he would not have any other man. From any other director that would not have made much difference, but as Rickard comes near being the whole thing, it was not long before it was settled for Siler. None of the club had ever heard of either Welch or McBride, but to make the thing look like a contest they were nominated. A minority was for anybody but Siler, but now that it is settled everybody is satisfied.

Everybody Wanted Biler.

There was really no objection to Siler from anybody, but the report had gone around the camp that Gans would rather have anybody than filer, because he was the referee in the fight when the Baltimore black lay down to Terry McGovern.

Gans denied that he objected to Siler, although some members of the club did not hesitate to say that under similer circumstances if like objection had been even hinted at from the other camp the man mentioned would not have been considered at all, and that it would look man mentioned would not have been considered at all, and that it would look like the negro was not getting a square deal, but the belief in the absolute honesty of Siler, the chance that he might not accept, and the fact that Rickard insisted; knocked the minority argument into a cocked hat.

The proposition to take a vote on the list of names offered did not meet with even a second.

The two other names were put up and the vote taken, but not until Nolan had said he was not opposed to any man on the list, although, as he intimated, there might be some he would prefer to others. It is the belief that Siler will give the town the beggest advertisement because he is more widely known, and that he has the confidence of the entire sporting public, and as the third man in the picture display he will add to the drawing quality of the fighters.

Larry Sullivan Talks.

Larry Sullivan talks.

Larry Sullivan, the Gans manager, gave out copies today of a contract he has made with Gans, "for and in consideration of the sum of $1 to me in hand paid," which gives him "all the right, title and interest" in the moving pictures and the "$10,000 purse Gans is to receive after the fight and all other moneys which has or may have an interest, in connection with the fight." This contract was signed and sealed several days ago and duplicates filed with the Goldfield Athletic club and with the stakeholders in San Francisco. Sufficient time having elapsed to have Sufficient time having elapsed to have the original papers reach San Francisco copies were made public today.

Just what Gans gets out of this unique agreement does not appear, except that Sullivan did put up the $5,000 forfeit money, and $10,000 security for that without mentioning the moving pictures, looks pretty good. But Sullivan explains it as follows:

"Gans telegraphed me to meet him because he knew me in Portland. I met him at the depot and he asked me about the purse. I told him the money was in the bank and sure of delivery, and further, that he would get a square deal in every way if he made the right kind of a fight. He said that he was going to make the fight of his life and was here to give the club and the public nothing else but a square deal.

Evidence of Good Fatth.

to make the fight of his life and was here to give the club and the public nothing clue but a square deal.

Notice of Good Fasth.

"After Gans had signed the articles he came to me and said: To show you my ghare of the purse and also my share in the moving pictures. This will be a guarantee of my good faith. If there is anything more that does not look right during the fight you can turn over the money and the interest in the plotures to the Goldfield fire department and I will walk out of this camp a pauper."

"Gans did this of his own accord. He holds no papers from me to show that he has any right whatever to his share of the purse or pictures, the only thing that if he makes the right kind of a fight he will get the money. If he falls in any way to make the right kind of a fight he will get nothing. It is left to my own judgment to personally decide his actions. Gans has proven that he means to do the right thing and I am going to back him from first to last to whip the Dane."

TANGLE CARRIES REPUBLIC STAKES

Great Throng at Saratoga Bets Over a Million Dollars on Six Races.

(Special Dispatch by Leased Wire to The Journal)
Saratoga, Aug. 18.—By a stretch rush as electrical as it was unexpected, Tangle, the odds-on favorite, won the third great Republic stakes, by half a length from Gallavant. The time, 2:05, was considered fast for the mile and a quarter. A tremendous carnival of gold marked the racing here today, nearly $1,090,000 being bet on the six races. No such gambling has been seen here since 1903. It was the Great Republic stakes which induced the financial abandon. The clubhouse sent in at least $150,000, while nearly $100,000 came from "Quality Row" and the grandstand. The bookmakers closed business on the race with their strong boxes bulging with money. TEN-YARD ADVANCE A RADICAL VENTURE

How New Regulations Will Meet Wishes of Committee Cannot Be Determined Until Play Has Commenced-Synopsis of Changes.

The long looked for football rules have arrived at last and for the rest of the year the followers of the great college game will have an opportunity to study the changes and restrictions that have been placed upon the sport by the football rules committee. To what extent the new runs the old game can not be imagined by the

the old game can not be imagined by the most alort pigskin strategists, as it will require preliminary practice and, perhaps, an entire season's play to give the regulations a thorough test.

Here in Portland the Multnomah club eleven will abide by the new rules and the players will begin the study of them at once. The main effort of the rules committees was to amend the old rules so that there would be less roughness and more open play and if the new rules do not meet the requirements then the object of the committee can never be accomplished without wiping out the original rules entirely. It is quite certain, however, that the eastern college men will not tinker with the rules any more, excepting to correct some minor point, as the old game is too dear to the hearts of every college man to admit of changes that will eliminate the substantial principles that made football such a fascinating and enduring sport.

The chief alterations in the rules for his season are as follows: The officials of the game shall be a referee, two umpires and a lineaman. It is, however, allowable to dispense with the second umpire at the discretion of the two institutions involved. The length of the game has been shortened by 10 minutes, making the two halves each 35 minutes in length.

two halves each 35 minutes in length.

The line of scrimmage for each side is an imaginary line parallel to the goal line and passing through that point of the ball nearest the side's own goal line. It will be noted that there are thus two lines of scrimmage, one for each team, and the two teams are thus separated the length of the ball.

The snapper-back must place the ball flat upon the ground with its long axis at right angels to the line of scrimmage.

It has also been provided that a player to be on the line of scrimmage must have both hands or both feet up to or within one foot of this line. Or hand up to or within one foot of it. He must have one foot and the opposite hand up to or within one foot of it. He must also stand with both feet outside the outside foot of the player next to him unless he be one of the two men standing on either side of the snapper-back.

A Pair Catch.

A player attempting to make a fair catch must signal his intention by raising his hand clearly above his head while advancing toward the ball.

Further addition has been made to the rule regarding "down." That is, that the referce shall blow his whistle whenever any portion of the person of the runner with the ball, except his hands or feet, touches the ground while he is in the gramp of an opponent. The only allowable use of the arm in blocking or obstructing an opponent is with the arms close to the body.

The Forward Pass.

The most radical of all changes made, nowever, has been the introduction of the forward pass, the rule for this reading as follows:

Charging Defined.

The rather indefinite expression of "charging" has been changed to "starting forward beyond the restraining line" in all cases throughout the rules.

Scarcity of Laborers Forces Farmers to Resort to Extreme Methods in Securing Help.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Pendleton, Ore., Aug. 18.—A scarcity of hands in the haying and harvest fields of eastern Oregon is a great drawback to the farmers this year. Reports come from Grant county, where haying is now in progress, that much good hay is going to waste for the want of laborers.

The same cry is on in most sections of the eastern Oregon territory in regard to the harvest hands, and in many instances the big farmers have been seen taking a man who was drunk on the streets in his wagon with him to see if he could not get a rew days' work out of him during the rush.

It has been the cause of much comment, and is attributed to the fact that so many men are working on the various railroads being built in the west who in years past have worked in the fields.
