It has issued a call for a meeting of the stockholders in Chicago October 18. the American continent, according to Dr. C. Willard Hays of the geological survey. That Mexico will be the next country to be visited by seismic disturbances is his prediction.

"These mountains, or what is mistakenly called the backbone of the American continent, are among the newest in the world. That is why they are so high. They represent a much more recent geological period than do the Appalachians, although it is probable that the Appalachians were once as high as the Rockies."

GHOST OF MITCHELL IN COURT

Attorneys in the Blue Mountain Case Persist in Recalling Trial of Late Senator

Honey Charges Defense With Trying to Create Sympathy, and Fenton Replies That Honey Prosecuted Senator for Technical Violation of Law.

Although Franklin Pierce Mays, Willard N. Jones and George Sorenson are the defendants of record in the Blue Mountain reserve case, counsel for the men on trial show a disposition to rest their cause on what the jurors think of the late United States Senator John H. Mitchell.

W. D. Fenton, who is leading the fight for Mays, made a two-hour opening statement this morning. He made much use of the name of Mitchell, declaring that if the noted senator had not induced his law partner to testify falsely he would be alive today and they would have been no conviction because Oregonians knew of the invaluable service he had rendered without charge in all matters except the one at issue at his trial.

"You are trying to create sympathy for poor old Mitchell," said Honey. "I have sympathy for him myself, but that has nothing to do with vindicating the law."

"You are trying to create sympathy for poor old Mitchell," said Honey. "I have sympathy for him myself, but that has nothing to do with vindicating the law."

"We expect to show," said counsel, "that the state land office in 1899 had the state printer run off blank applications and blank assignments, that these blanks and assignments were sent out in bunches and that the state was glad to get an installment of 25 cents an acre on its lands. We further expect to show that while this was going on not a state official from the governor down ever objected."

"Do you expect to prove that these officials knew of the perjury that was being committed?" asked Prosecutor Honey.

"I don't know just how far the proof will go," replied counsel for Mays, and (Continued on Page Three.)

REBELS IN CUBA WIN A VICTORY

Attack Rurales Who Are Driven Back to Pinar del Rio—Fail to Follow Up Advantage

Insurrection Due to Desire on Part of Natives to Be Annexed to United States, as Islanders Are Sick of Self Government—Uncle Sam Keeps Hands Off.

(Journal Special Service.) Havana, Aug. 22.—The rebel forces are reported to have won a victory before daylight this morning. General Pino Guerra attacked the ruralist outposts at Pinar del Rio city and drove them back to town. The insurgents did not follow up their advantage because they were awaiting reinforcements.

Guerra captured in the battle this morning 50 rurales. The rebels greatly outnumbered the government forces. It is reported that 15 were killed and 30 wounded. The revolutionists took San Luis, 12 miles west of the city of Pinar del Rio, a large town at the western terminus of the railroad.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 22.—The president has received no information regarding the Cuban revolt. This country is not hurrying pell mell into any revolution that the Cuban government is presumed to be able to control. The government does not want to be placed in the position of aiding the first opportunity to rush into Cuba to emphasize the necessity of annexation, but desires to convince the world that the little republic is entirely free, independent and stable.

"That the rebellion in Cuba is the result of a strong desire on the part of the natives to have the United States annex the island is the opinion expressed today by Atherton Brownell, a magazine writer who has spent many months in Cuba studying the political situation."

"If this rebellion is not put down before it gains dangerous headway, then the United States will be compelled to intervene, and that is what the leading citizens of Cuba desire," Brownell said. A cry will then be raised for annexation. The political situation in Cuba is rotten and the better class of Cubans are sick of it. They were satisfied with the manner in which the United States governed Cuba before it handed the affairs of the country over to the natives and would like to see the United States step in. This has resulted in plans to compel the United States to annex the island. The only way in which the people believed this could be brought about was by having a revolution."

To Join Revolt. (Journal Special Service.) Mexico City, Aug. 22.—The Central American revolutionists are leaving to join the Cuban rebels.

OLD MAN'S PET IN TROUBLE

Another Pittsburg Scandal Throws Limelight on Millionaire John C. Hair as Result of Suit Filed for Damages

(Journal Special Service.) Denver, Aug. 22.—Another Pittsburg millionaire, John C. Hair, is in the limelight as the result of a suit filed by Mrs. Alice L. Ross against Mrs. John C. Hair, of Rose C. Deal, as she is also known. If the complaint speaks the truth, Mrs. Hair charges alienation of the affections of her husband, Harry M. Ross. The defendant has been regarded not as the millionaire's wife, but as his daughter-in-law, with whom he lived in a splendid mansion until a few days ago, when both left Denver, ostensibly for the Hair home in Pittsburg.

All of the principals in the suit lived at Colorado Springs until recently. Mrs. Ross charges that Mrs. Hair was the millionaire's darling until she met Harry two years ago. It is alleged that the defendant posed as the widow of John C. Hair, son of the millionaire, but that as a matter of fact this was a subterfuge to protect the name of the Pittsburg magnate, who lavished lands and money upon her.

The plaintiff avers she made many efforts to persuade her husband to remain true to his family, none going so far as to get him to remove to California. She alleges, however, that Mrs. Hair followed him to that state and when he returned and located in Denver also removed to this city with the old man's household.

UNCLE JOE'S DOUBLE

Uncle Joe.

E. A. Trueblood, a veteran account collector, wandered down town this morning and stood gazing at the hole in the ground which eventually will be the basement of the new Corbett building at Fifth and Morrison streets. Suddenly a man slapped him on the back. "Hello, Uncle Joe," yelled the slapper, and Trueblood was on a siffy. But, just to be contrary, he denied to the stranger that he had ever before been taken for Uncle Joe Cannon, Illinois' choice for president.

"Remember how Cannon looked at the fair? Well, didn't he have the same whiskers. I want to know." Then somebody brought Uncle Ed a big, black stogie, and the old man stuck it in the corner of his mouth, and looked still more like the speaker of the house.

GOMPERS OPENS WAR UPON CONGRESSMEN

(Journal Special Service.) Washington, Aug. 22.—President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor in his labor campaign wrote to all congressmen demanding their views upon "labor's bill of grievances" sent to the president. Gompers says that he has received many replies and declares that all congressmen not for labor must be treated as against it. There is no equivocation. Congressmen must favor all of Gompers' demands or be fought by organized labor.
