ELECTRIC RAILROAD FOR

NORTH CENTRAL IDAHO

Line Will Be Opened Within

Eighteen Months, Operating

Over Hundred Miles.

North central Idaho is to be opened within the next 18 months by an elec-tric railroad that will be in operation 115 miles by the beginning of 1908. About 10 miles of the Lewiston & South-eastern is graded and ready for the rails, and work is going steadily for-

Colonel J. Spofford of Lewiston, vice-president and general manager of the road, was a Portland visitor yesterday. "The entire line from Lewiston to Grangeville, with a branch to Nez Perces, is financed, and will be bufft within 18 months," he said. "About six miles on the lower end and four miles of the Nes Perces branch are granded."

The bonds have been taken in New York and Philadelphia, it is said. The company has secured a water right on the Salmon river that is reported to be capable of producing more power than that secured from the famous Spokane falls. It is estimated that 20,000 horse-power will be developed at the low water stage, and that this power can be greatly increased by building a second dam.

Blaine Hallock, in a communication to The Journal, declares that Gilbert Herren and Myron Baldwin were not the first, as was reported, to make successfully the trip over the Harrisburg rapids on the Willamette river. Herren and Baldwin recently made the trip, and bridge-builders at Harrisburg declared that they were the first to suc-cessfully cross the rapids in a cance.

Hallock declares that he and Clarence Allen made the Eugene-Portland trip in a cance last summer and shot all the rapids successfully. He says that they did not consider the Harrisburg and Corvallis rapids at all dangerous.

Alleging that the improvement work done on Morris street from Delay street to Vancouver avenue was poorly done, owners of property on Morris street who were assessed for the improvement have begun suit in the circuit court to enjoin the city of Portland from collecting the assessments. The charge is made that the contract specifies a gravel street, and that the gravel was placed on the street ir so loose a manner that when the work was completed the street looked more like the bed of a mountain stream than an improved street. The contested assessments amount to $3,000. The contested assessments amount to $3,000. The contested assessments amount to $3,000. The contestents are Mary Mangold, Katherine Kelly, John A. Duff, Victor Carlson, A. E. Curtis, ida M. Johnson, R. R. Galbraith, B. Brennan, Bridget Trevor, Annie O. Conroy, trustees of the Methodist church, and others. R. R. Duniway appears as attorney for the plaintiffs.

"To Hell in an Automobile" is the subject announced by Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher for his sermon on Sunday hight. Dr. Brougher believes that every subject has a moral side to it, and with this thought in mind he will discuss the relations of he automobile to the morals of a community. The doctor has just returned from his vacation trip, and according to his own statement, has spent a great deal of time with a friend in an automobile taking in the cities of the horthwest. The doctor declares that the automobile is one of the greatest inventions of the present age and is destined in a very large degree in the man future to supplant every other means of locomotion. He believes, however, that the devil is laying hold of a good thing and using it to ruin a great

The Portland General Electric company has been sued for $5,000 damages for the death of James E. Bannister, the telephone lineman who was electrocuted at Fifth and Jefferson streets on July 21. The action was commenced by James B. Stillwell, as administrator of Bannister's estate, it is charged that the electric company is required to keep their wires four feet from the wires of the telephone company and that the two sets of wires were much closer at the corner of Fifth and Jefferson streets. It is also alleged that the power wires were not properly insulated, nor provided with circuit breaks and that the current ought to have been turned off in the day time while Bannister was at work.

The ministers of Portland will meet next Monday morning and tell each other of their vacation experiences. The meeting will be held at the Y. M. C. A. at 10:30 o'clock and will be the first of the church year. Dr. Brougher will preside and H. C. Shaffer will act as secretary. Practically all of the ministers have returned from their vacations and a good attendance is expected.

"C. H. means courthouse," said t guest. "If you were to visit the little of the baffled solution until today.

Nathaniel K. Clarke, desk clork at the Portland hotel, received one the other day that baffled solution until foday. Mr. Clarke received a letter from a former guest asking that his mail be forwarded to Washington C. H., Ohto "What does C. H. have to be tacked on there for," asked the pumiled clerk, "and what does it mean?"

For three days Mr. Clarke has been asking guests and consulting railroad guides, maps and encyclopedias in an endeavor to learn the meaning of the two letters. While he gained more information about Washington C. H. than he ever expected to know of any similar town of 7,600 in habitants, he was unable to gain the meaning of C. H.

VIADUCT QUESTION UP TO CITY OFFICIALS

To the city engineer and city attorney has been referred the question of the width of the public visducts to be built by the Portland & Seattle railway over its tracks on the peninsula. The company agreed to take care of all future street traffic in this region by building adequate bridges where the streets cross its deep cut. The street committee of the council yesterday afternoon discussed the size and number of these viaducts and passed up the decision to Messrs. Taylor and McNary.

The committee also referred the ordinance granting a franchise on York street to the terminal company to the city attorney. This measure has been in the committee's hands for a long time.

An organisation is to be formed soon, having for its object more lights and better police protection. Residents leaving the cars at the end of the Broadway or Holladay lines after night grope through the darkness, with weeds head high on either side of the road, to reach their homes and are considered lucky if they don't stumble into their neighbor's yard.

Having put in the walls of four floors of the Wells, Fargo & Co. building, the bricklayers have now started on the walls between the eighth and tweifth stories. The steel scaffold hangers have been attached to the steel frame of the cornice and the scaffold now has the appearance of being hung in mid-air. Not only is the brick work and the terra cotta work of the upper stories progressing rapidly, but masons have started on the granite base of walls for the first story. Nearly all the granite basestones on the Sigth and Oak street sides have been set. Within snother month the contractors hope to have the building entirely enclosed, and in the meantime the work of finishing the interior will be cemmenced.

About one half of the basement of the Corbett building at Fifth and Morrison streets has been excavated, the contractors during the week having made remarkable progress. The greater part of the Fifth street side has been completed and workmen this morning started to put in the forms for the concrete foundation walls.
