

CARNEGIE'S CHILD A CRIPPLE

World's Richest Girl Said to Be Hopeless Invalid From Hip Disease.

HAS EVERYTHING ON EARTH BUT HEALTH

Best Doctors Say There is Very Little Hope for Her Recovery, as the Trouble is One of Too Long Standing.

(Special Service.) London, Sept. 2.—Miss Margaret Carnegie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, and perhaps the richest heiress in the world, is said to be suffering from an aggravated form of hip disease, which has baffled medical experts of London and the continent.

It has been gradually growing worse as she advances in age and is now so bad that she has to be assisted in every move. Her complaint is similar to that from which Lolita Armour, the little Chicago heiress, suffered so long. Dr. Lorain has been appointed to Mr. Carnegie's behalf, but her age is such that he did not care to undertake the treatment usual in such cases.

The fact of her misfortune was made public when Carnegie expressed inability to attend the opening meeting of the Royal National Bledadded. He said his daughter's condition was too serious.

Margaret Carnegie was born March 26, 1897, and from that day has had every attention and luxury her father's great fortune could provide. As a Christmas gift in 1902 Carnegie presented her with a $2,000,000 mansion on Fifth avenue and Ninetieth street, one of the finest residences in New York.

She is a beautiful child and has made many friends on shipboard in her frequent trips to and from Scotland. Her illness has been kept a secret from all but intimate friends, but is now said to be so serious that it can no longer be concealed.

LETTER CARRIERS IN ANNUAL MEETING

(Special Service.) Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 2.—The sixth annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of Letter-Carriers occupied itself chiefly with the discussion of plans for the year 1907.

Anderson, Ind., Sept. 2.—The fifth annual state convention of Indiana postal carriers was called to order here today with a good attendance. The meeting will continue over tomorrow.

Wichita, Kan., Sept. 2.—Nearly every county of the state is well represented at the annual convention begun here today by the Kansas Association of Rural Letter-Carriers. A two days' program of reports, papers and discussions has been arranged for the meeting.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 2.—The Texas State Association of Rural Letter-Carriers assembled here in their annual session today for the transaction of business. Many parts of the state are represented among those in attendance.

ROSEBURG JUMPS ON POOR WATER SERVICE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Roseburg, Or., Sept. 2.—A mass meeting was held here Saturday pursuant to a call by the mayor and a committee appointed by the Business Men's Protective association to consider the matter of the water supply of the city, which has been totally inadequate for the past two or three years.

The water company has promised better service each year and has made no effort to keep its promise, and the citizens have concluded to take the matter into their own hands.

Every business man in the city was present, and a resolution was unanimously adopted that the city should receive better service or no pay, and to pay for only what service was received.

A resolution was also adopted asking the city council to investigate the matter of the city owning its own water and light systems.

The present company is paying six per cent interest on $100,000 bonds and is making a large profit besides. One prominent citizen expressed his opinion of the action of the water company as "highway robbery." The company is furnishing good, pure water, but the supply is only half enough for the demand.

SIXTY THOUSAND IS EIGHTEEN DAYS' RUN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Helena, Mont., Sept. 2.—James Whitcomb arrived at Helena from Zortman, Montana, having with him gold bars weighing slightly more than two pounds, and which he deposited at the United States assay office.

It is estimated that the bar will weigh in cash approximately $40,000, depending on the fineness of the metal. This represents an 18 days' run of the cyanide plant at the Ruby gulch mine owned by Whitcomb and a man named Phillips. The mine was only recently found, and is situated in a section of the state known as agricultural and grazing land as distinguished from mining. Two or three very rich gold mines have been discovered in that section, which is known as the Little Rocky mountain district.

PENDLETON BOYS ARE RELEASED ON BAIL

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pendleton, Or., Sept. 2.—Glenn Bushbee, deputy United States marshal, arrived from Portland for the purpose of taking six young men in Pendleton accused of taking liquor on the reservation for trial in the federal court at Portland. However, the young men were advised to give bail and have their cases held if possible until after the return of Judge Wolverton to the bench in Portland. The bail was fixed at $100 for each of the young men.

Antiquity Museum Organized. Menasha, Wis., Sept. 2.—The Wisconsin Archeological society, organized two years ago, began its annual meeting in Menasha today to arouse additional interest in the antiquities and historical sites with which the Fox River valley abounds.

SEA REVIEW

naval review ever held in western waters would be a failure, from the spectator's point of view. At that hour a terrific storm broke over the fleet, accompanied by a wonderful electric display. This was so bright at times that pictures were taken of the huge battleships waiting in the storm-lashed waters.

Daybreak came with little effect on the wind, which drove a heavy rain in the tops of a vast multitude that gathered at the pier to take part for the scene of the review. Later the weather began to clear.

The mightiest squadron of warships ever gathered together in western waters was officially reviewed by President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay today.

Forty-five vessels of the new navy, ranging in size from the mighty battleship Louisiana with a displacement of 17,500 tons, to the tiny submarine Porpoise and Shark, took part in the great naval spectacle. More than 500 shots were fired from the huge naval guns. Eight hundred officers and 15,000 men comprised the crews aboard the ships.

Long Island sound, opposite Oyster Bay, presented a striking spectacle when the great warships, dressed from stem to stern with the yards of masts and their sides lined with their crews, swung into line.

The town and harbor of Oyster Bay were seen early. Immense crowds assembled along the sea front and roads of cheers mingled with the national anthem and salutes from the excursion boats as the yacht Mayflower steamed out of the harbor with President Roosevelt aboard. With the president were Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte, Assistant Secretary Newberry, and a party of half a dozen invited guests. The Mayflower was followed by the Sybil with Mrs. Roosevelt and her house party aboard.

The town and harbor of Oyster Bay were seen early. Immense crowds assembled along the sea front and roads of cheers mingled with the national anthem and salutes from the excursion boats as the yacht Mayflower steamed out of the harbor with President Roosevelt aboard.

The fleet of warships was drawn up in three lines due north of Pine and Center islands, and about 2,500 yards from Center island point, the fleet facing eastward at 450-yard intervals. A picket line of boats was established 700 yards outside the fleet formation, and beyond this yachts and other craft were obliged to anchor. To the spectator it appeared that all the available excursion craft in the vicinity of Greater New York had been pressed into service to accommodate the great throngs of people who were desirous of seeing the naval pageant.

In the outer or northern line of warships, beginning at the west end, were the Denver, Cleveland, Tacoma, Minneapolis, Maryland, Colorado, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois and Alabama, with the Dolphin in advance as the reviewing stand of Secretary Bonaparte.

The central line contained in the order named the Arkansas, Florida, Nevada, Puritan, Virginia, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Louisiana, Kearsarge, Kentucky, Missouri and Maine.

The third or southern line was made up of the De Long, the Blakely, the Stockton, Rodgers, Tingey, Wilkes, McDonough, Lawrence, Hopkins, Princeton, Worden, Whipple and Des Moines. The Porpoise, the Shark and the Nina constituted a separate group to the south of the Whipple, while to the southwest of the fleet and outside the picket line were the auxiliary vessels Lebanon, Leonidas, Abarenda, Arethusia, Celtic and Yankee.

President's Salute. Contrary to precedent, the ships remained stationary while the president, upon the Mayflower, passed along the three lines and also encircled the entire fleet. As the president passed each flagship he received salute of masts. This continued until about 500 shots had been fired.

At the conclusion of the inspection the Mayflower withdrew to the eastward of the fleet. The president then entertained at luncheon Rear-Admiral Robley D. Evans, commanding the fleet, and the commanding officers of the squadron flagships. These officers were Rear-Admiral Charles H. Davis, Captain Charles W. Bartlett, Captain Nathan E. Miles, Rear-Admiral Willard H. Brownson, Commander Bradley A. Fiske, Commander Edward Anderson, Lieutenant Willis McDowell, Lieutenant J. P. Nelson and Commander H. O. Dunn.

An idea of the strength of the great fleet which took part in the review may be had when it is considered that it was greater than the combined fleets of the American and Spanish navies during the late war, that it was much stronger than the combined fleets of Russia and Japan during the battle of the Sea of Japan. The fleet of 45 vessels is as large as the entire Italian navy or the Russian and Austrian navies combined. No other country has ever gathered so many warships together at one time for the purpose of review except Great Britain.

Second in interest only to the warships themselves was the great fleet of excursion boats and pleasure craft which brought tens of thousands of spectators from New York to witness the review. The fact that this was a holiday naturally had a tendency to increase the crowds. One hundred and fifty is a conservative estimate of the number of excursion boats that made Oyster Bay their rendezvous for the day. In addition there were scores of private yachts from the New York, Atlantic, Seawanhake and Brooklyn yacht clubs.

Organization of the Divisions. Aside from the torpedo flotilla, the submarines and the auxiliaries, there are six divisions of battleships and cruisers, each squadron consisting of two divisions. The complete formation of the various divisions is as follows:

First squadron, first division—Maine, Missouri, Kentucky, Kearsarge. Second division—Louisiana, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Virginia.

Second squadron, third division—Alabama, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Fourth division—West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Colorado, Maryland.

Third squadron, fifth division—Puritan, Nevada, Florida, Arkansas. Sixth division—Minnesota, Tacoma, Cleveland, Denver.

Torpedo flotilla, second flotilla—Whipple, Worden, Truxtun, Hopkins, Lawrence, McDonough.

Third flotilla—Wilkes, Tingey, Rodgers, Stockton, Blakely, DeLong. Submarines—Porpoise, Shark, Nina (tender).

Troopship—Yankee. Auxiliaries—Celtic, Abarenda, Leonidas, Arethusia, Lebanon.

BRITISH ARMY LOSING ITS YOUNG OFFICERS

Eighty Resignations Weekly in War Department Because Pay is Small.

(Special Service.) London, Sept. 2.—War office authorities are at their wits' end to know what can be done to stop the flood of resignations that are pouring in from army officers from all parts of the empire. The average has recently been 80 a week. The officers claim that, if they are to be considered by the public as professionals and go through all the new, and arduous tasks imposed upon them, their pay should be placed on the same footing as that of other business men.

The pay of a British lieutenant is $5 to a day, or $1.25, and it costs him four to six times that amount to keep up his position, according to his social standing of his regiment. After 20 years' service an officer, unless he has attained the rank of colonel, is retired on a pension of $500 a year. No pension is given for a period of service of less than 20 years.

BRIDEGROOM'S FAMILY WILL WAR ON WIFE

Camille Clifford as Future Lady Aberdare Will Find Life Gilded But Unhappy.

(Special Service.) London, Sept. 2.—The forthcoming marriage of the Hon. Henry Dymond Bruce, son of Lord Aberdare, and Camille Clifford, the actress, promises to create an eruption in English society, compared with which past social upheavals will appear trivial indeed. The day that Miss Clifford is pronounced the wife of the future Lord Aberdare the social war will open. Despite their conservatism, there are many in the fashionable set of London who, like all the world, love a lover, and who believe that Young Bruce is not to be blamed for selecting a famous beauty for his wife, instead of some one with more pedigree and less grace.

In spite of some unfortunate exceptions, London society has found itself more the worse because of the charming women who have been won from the stage by titled suitors, and there is much sympathy expressed for Miss Clifford and her young fiance.

On the silver band, the young man's ring, readily will form the front and center of the army of opposition and Lord Aberdare and the vicountess of Warwick, Bruce's sister, may be counted on to do everything in their power to keep the ring from falling into the hands of the bridegroom's family.

TARIFF IS CAUSE OF ALL PHILIPPINE TROUBLE

Robert Campbell Says Natives Are Harassed Into Uprising by Conditions.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Seattle, Sept. 2.—That the tariff is responsible for the native uprising in the Philippine islands, was the declaration made by Robert Campbell, assistant United States attorney in the Philippines, today.

Mr. Campbell said: "I do not believe that the United States would have any trouble whatsoever with the natives were it not for the tariff. The tariff makes economic conditions in the islands intolerable. The large majority of the natives are generally disposed toward the United States and are not looking for any trouble. They wish to cultivate farms, to be the tariff renders agriculture impossible. They cannot produce anything at all for exports or manufacture anything because payment of tariff would make it impossible for them to compete with any one. The result is that they are idle and starving and a mass of unemployed. The starving masses upon their economic misfortune and make these their only recourse to a better life."

Many of the natives are now being educated in the United States and are returning home with a better knowledge of the conditions of the United States and are more disposed to accept of the United States government.
