REGARDING OUR LIBERAL CREDIT SYSTEM

Eastern Outfitting Company and liberal credit have gone hand in hand for nearly a score of years here in Portland. We have always extended the liberal, helpful kind of credit—the kind that enables any honest person to buy what they want, when they please and pay in weekly or monthly payments so small as not to be missed. This is the kind of credit we offer today TO YOU. There is no red tape—no annoying questions—just tell the man to charge it. The buying organization of this chain of Pacific Coast stores is in position to secure price concessions which smaller stores could not. We can therefore offer you the best and latest goods on easy weekly or monthly payments without any extra charge whatever for credit accommodations.

THE STOCKS ARE MAGNIFICENT

It is a comprehensive exhibit of the latest conceits in Autumn wear for men, women and children, and embracing as it does the best efforts of the best makers in this country and abroad we feel confident it will appeal to discriminating dressers. The sections devoted to Jewelry, Art Goods, Fancy Chinaware, Housefurnishings, etc. are replete with the choicest wares from manufacturers making only the choicest goods. Here are novelties not to be found elsewhere.

SPOKANE MEETING WILL BE GREAT

C. B. Dennis Declares Enthusiasm and Success of It Will Be Surprising.

FOUR HUNDRED ARE EXPECTED TO ATTEND

Publicity Movement Appeals to Business Men of All Classes, He Declares, and Is Expected to Bring Great Benefits.

Numbers and enthusiasm of the Pacific Northwest Business Men's conference, to be held at Spokane September 25 will, it is said, surprise everybody. The committees that are working on the project are having splendid success and fully 400 of the best business men of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana are expected to be there. C. B. Dennis, president of half a dozen mining and development companies at Spokane and chairman of the publicity committee of the Spokane chamber of commerce, was in Portland yesterday looking after the interests of the proposed conference. He is said to be a busy man of Spokane, but has thrown himself into the work of the conference with all his energy.

"This publicity movement is a new thing in the northwest," said Mr. Dennis. "It has appealed to the best intelligence of the business men. Its good results are being felt. Its success is due to the high-class work that is being done by a few of the larger cities. The publicity movement is going to grow. It is bringing great benefits to the country."

He talks like a gasoline engine. Behind his words the listener is convinced there is power to make good everything he says, and perhaps more.

Best Country Made.

"This is the best country God has made. There is no other place with natural resources equal to the inland empire. Beginning next January, and continuing through the year, $500,000 will be spent for publicity. It will be raised by commercial bodies and legislatures. It will be in addition to advertising by individuals who are exploring the country. The Spokane conference is to unify this movement and get the best results. Spokane is working on this line. It started a few months ago with a $10,000 publicity fund. It was bread cast upon the waters. It is returning many fold."

The secretary of the Spokane chamber is visiting every city of importance in Washington, eastern Oregon, and western Montana and enlisting the business men in the movement. His itinerary includes Baker City, Pendleton, La Grande, Halsey, Boise, Butte, Missoula, and all the cities of eastern

WASHINGTON, SEATTLE AND TACOMA HAVE BEEN INVITED TO COME INTO THE MOVEMENT.

In the list of well-known men who will attend are T. B. Wilcox, Portland; ex-Governor McGraw, Seattle; Jacob Furth, Tacoma, and many others.

COUNCIL UNFAIR, SAY PEDDLERS

Fruit Vendors Declare They Are Being Unjustly Legislated Out of Business.

Nineteen Italian fruit peddlers visited the Journal office yesterday to charge the city council with legislating them out of a business that they pay the city to allow them to conduct.

"We pay a license of $200 a year," said the spokesman. "For this we are supposed to have the privilege of selling fruit from wagons on downtown streets. Then the council passes a law requiring us to keep moving, and if we have to obey this law it will put us out of business."

"We can not stand in one place longer than 10 minutes under this new law, and then only when a customer stops us. Then we can not return to that block for two hours. There are only six blocks in which we can do business, and this moving on law is prohibitive. The city takes our license money and then passes a law that practically takes away the rights that we pay the money for."

"We believe the people of the city want us because they patronize us. And we give them cheaper fruit than they get from the grocers. When bananas sell at 25 cents a dozen in the city, we sell them at 15 cents a dozen. We sold them at less than the wholesale price. And if the peddlers sell rotten fruit, as it is said they do, the people certainly would not buy from us. And the people do buy from us, not once, but again and again."

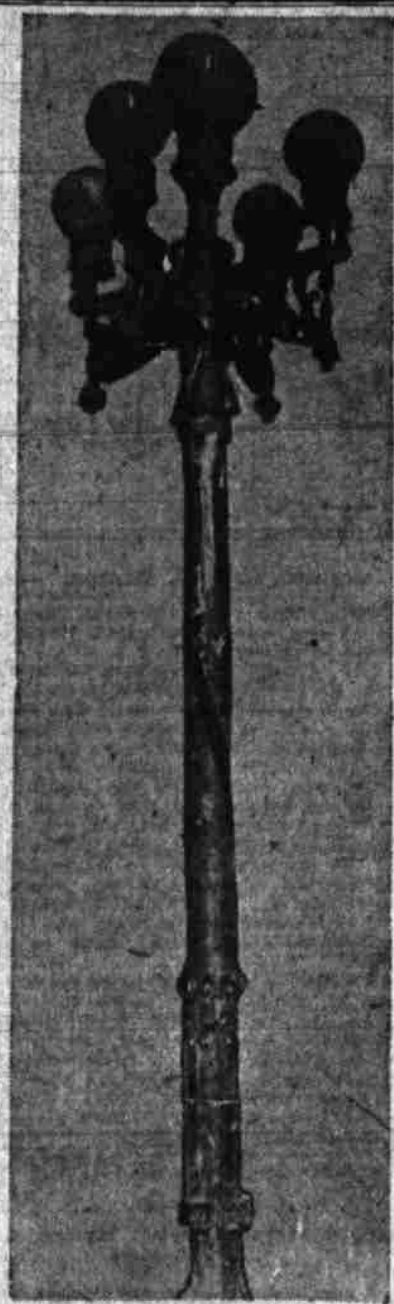

"We pay a higher license here than is paid in any other city in the United States. Every large city has peddlers, and allows them to stand by the curbstones, and in the east the license is only about $50 a year. It was raised to $200 here at the instigation of the grocery men who wanted us put out of business. When they found we had a patronage that would permit us to pay even so high a license, they passed this ordinance to make us keep on the go."

"One of the policemen named Nelson would not allow us to stand a minute Saturday when we had our wagons loaded with ripe bananas. We had to sell them at three dozen for 5 cents and throw them away. Nelson made us keep on the move and swore at us, and called us vile names, and told our customers not to buy fruit from us, but to go to the grocery stores."

"One of the peddlers asked Nelson why we could not stand and the policeman struck him with his first."

Grants Pass Schools Open. (Special Dispatch to the Journal.) Grants Pass, Or., Sept. 11.—Grants Pass public schools opened for the fall term of work yesterday. The opening day shows an enrollment of nearly 800 pupils for the several schools of the city, but this will be greatly augmented during the week, as a number of families with school children are out of town in the hop yards and mines.

The Breeden Ornamental Lamp Pole

NEW LAMP IS BIG OBJECT LESSON

Third and Washington Streets to Be Illuminated by Artistic Light Arrangement.

HENRY CLAY BREEDEN THE MAN WHO DID IT

Erects Ornamental Post at Corner by His Building and Declares It Will Not Be Defaced by Advertising Matter—Why He Did It.

The gas pipe lamp poles which deface the city of Portland, both on account of their own unsightly appearance as well as on account of the advertisements which are usually placarded over them, will soon all be thrown into the scrap shed, if the example of Henry Clay Breeden, the well-known local capitalist, is destined to count for anything.

Mr. Breeden has erected in front of the building which bears his name, at Third and Washington streets, an ornamental lamp-post which is a thing of beauty and a joy to be lighted by. The pole is 22 feet high and at the top are five large globes, each of which contains three lamps of 25 candle-power each.

"It is what is called a candle-lamp style and art nouveau," explained Mr. Breeden today. "My purpose in putting up the post was to give an object lesson to the business men of Portland in the beautification of the downtown section. The design is one accepted by the city of Los Angeles from a great many submitted to that city."

"Los Angeles is the only city in the world which uses the ornamental lamp-post of this particular design. That city has them on three streets now and the effect is striking. While in Los Angeles last winter I was struck with the beauty and the utility of the design and I secured a lamp. This city is full of gas pipe posts made hideous by advertisements. Not an advertisement of any kind shall go on the post in front of the Breeden building."

North Yamhill is a small town, but it has a $10,000 water plant and no indebtedness.

ABSCESSES. With few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or debility.

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, Aug. 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the cords in my leg to contract and an abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg so one day I went to J. E. Lord's drug store (who is in Denver, Colo.) He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment. I got a 50c size, and it cured by leg. It is the best liniment in the world. Sold by Woodard, Clarke & Co."

FIGHT TO STOP RUNAWAY HORSE

Mounted Policeman and Athletic Youth End Mad Dash After Long and Hard Struggle.

A runaway horse and buggy, the former minus the restraining influence of a bridle, caused considerable agitation among the residents of Hawthorne avenue on the east side Sunday. By the combined efforts of a mounted policeman and an athletic young man the runaway was finally stopped without much damage having been done. The rig, which belonged to the Crystal Ice company, was hitched to a post on Hawthorne avenue. By some means the horse slipped the bridle and his head and started on a mad dash out the avenue. Mounted Policeman Rainey gave chase but owing to the absence of the bridle when he came up with the runaway he found no means whereby it might be stopped. Rainey headed the crazed animal into the Ladd plant on East Twelfth street, where he tried to shut off the horse's wind by riding up the rear of the buggy, climbed over the seat, leaned over the dashboard and un-wound the reins, which had become wrapped about a forward axle. These he threw to the policeman, who looped the animal's head and gradually forced him into a fence, where he was stopped. Meanwhile the buggy was overturned and Schroeder was spilled out, but he was not hurt.

There were many children playing in the streets and on the walks and it was considered lucky that none of them were injured.
