

WILL PUSH ON TO SEATTLE

Harriman People Reveal Intention of Extending Their Washington Line to That City to Tap the Great Northern's Terminal

A legal fight to determine the right of the Harriman lines to condemn ground for a right of way to Kalama for the proposed extension of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific railroads to the point has brought out the fact that the Harriman people will push their Washington road on to Everett, tapping the Great Northern's terminal there as well as those of the Northern Pacific at Tacoma and Seattle. In the action to condemn ground at Kalama the court decided in favor of the Harriman road.

The suit was brought before Judge McCredie in the superior court, and the defendants were Fred S. Catlin, William West, Marion Smith, James P. Reynolds (Nog Olson), George F. Easwell, Mrs. E. E. Chapman and the railroad property owners at Kalama, who disputed the railroad company's right to condemn, and set up a claim that the lands sought were not to be devoted to a public use. The Northern Pacific, which operates the present railroad and ferry at Kalama, injected its attorneys into the fight and made a determined effort to block the Harriman program.

The court decided that it was necessary to condemn the lands in question, and that the contemplated use of the land by the railroad company was really a public use. As soon as a decree is made the court will call a jury to try the question of damages to the landowners. George S. Shepherd of Portland.

George H. Tennant of Seattle and Judge R. E. Elliott of Chehalis appeared for the Harriman companies, and their witnesses were Secretary Litsberg of the Washington & Oregon Railroad company, and Engineers Cummins and Scurry. Judge A. L. Miller of Vancouver represented the Northern Pacific.

It is the intention of the Northern Pacific to fight every foot of the advance of the Harriman road from Portland to the sound. The old Union Pacific right of way from Vancouver to Olympia promises to be a leading factor in the railroad scramble for advantage through the country between Portland and the sound. The Northern Pacific has secured undisturbed title to this right of way, and will, it is said, build an electric railway if necessary to carry on a successful fight for the territory.

It is still a question whether this company has announced an electric road for the purpose of having the Harriman extension or to keep out of the field other companies who have been considering the construction of an electric railway between the Oregon metropolis and Tacoma. In any event, there promises to be active railway competition between these two points, and the certainty of this is best shown by the Northern Pacific's determined opposition to the right-of-way work of the agents of the Oregon & Washington Railroad company, the names of which the Harriman people are proceeding.

ARMORY IS TO BE REMODELED

Will Be Transformed So Officers and Men May Enjoy Modern Club Rooms.

SWIMMING POOL TO BE CONSTRUCTED

Improvements Will Be Commenced Within Two Weeks and Will Cost About Twenty Thousand Dollars—Armory Will Be Best on Coast.

Within the next two weeks bids will be advertised for and the contract let for the remodeling of the Third regiment armory at Tenth and Couch streets at a cost of $20,000. The arrangements have been made and the plans will be drawn within a few days. The result of the transformation will be to give the members of the regiment the finest club rooms of any military organization on the coast.

The new plans call for a large swimming pool, a splendid gymnasium that will be equipped with all the latest necessary paraphernalia; billiard and reading rooms and all the furnishings that make a clubhouse desirable.

The gymnasium floor will be laid with a spring maple floor, so that it can be used for a dance floor. It will be 90x100 feet and will be one of the finest in the city. A physical director will be secured and gymnasium classes formed.

All of the second floor of the mammoth structure will be overhauled. Partitions will be torn out and the floor will be re-laid. At one end will be the dance gymnasium. At the rear will be a reading room, 50x50 feet, the billiard room and a store room. In addition to these rooms there will be one of the finest indoor rifle ranges in the country, certainly the best on the coast. It will be 75 feet long and 35 feet wide and will be equipped with all the latest targets and equipment peculiar to such a range.

The swimming pool will be on the floor below and will be 55 by 55 feet. The details have not been completed, but the finishing of the pool will probably be of porcelain. Sprung boards will be erected and all sorts of water games arranged for the soldiers.

Captain R. O. Scott, who has charge of the arrangements, said today that the work would be pushed to completion with all speed and that nothing would be left undone to make the club feature of the regiment of the best.

Will Give Troops Clubhouse.

"The remodeling," said Captain Scott, "will give the boys as good a clubhouse as there is in the city and its rooms and privileges will be entirely free to the members. When all the work is finished the rooms will compare favorably with any club in the city. Nothing will be left undone to make club rooms and equipment meet the needs for which they are intended.

"Most of the boys in the regiment are not able financially to join the other clubs in the city and unless they stay at home they have no place where they can secure good and healthy amusement. With the installation of the club features this condition will be done away with and the boys will find themselves members of a club that will give them all the advantages that can be found in Portland. They will have a gymnasium, a billiard room, reading rooms, baths and swimming pool, and something that no other club in Portland has, a rifle range. This will be the finest on the coast now that San Francisco is in ashes. All these things will be given to the members without the charge of one cent."

Among the thousands of men who view a baseball game from the bleachers on a hot afternoon are quite a number who found it too warm to go to church on Sunday morning.

NEWS OF ARLETA AND LENTS

District Agitating Subject of Supplying Thoroughfares With Abundance of Light.

CITIZENS APPEAL FOR NEEDED FIRE APPARATUS

Burning of Seven Residences Within Short Time Causes People to Demand Ample Protection From Flames—Other East Side News.

Arleta, Lenta, Anabel and the other towns along the Mount Scott car line have inaugurated a campaign with the double purpose of having their streets lighted and equipping with fire apparatus the volunteer brigade organized for that district some weeks ago. It is proposed to have about one dozen arc lights placed at the most needed points along the line of the street railway from Anabel to Lenta, with perhaps as many more swung at street intersections a block or two distant from the car line.

A large arc light already hangs in front of the Douglas grocery store at Kern Park. It is proposed to have one at each of the following points: Douglas's, A. J. Smith, Stewart, Laurelwood, Arleta, Kern Park, Hazelwood, Millard avenue, Nashville, Tremont, Woodmere, Gray's Crossing and Lenta. These lights would not only light the street, but they would serve as beacon lights to the related traveler.

It is said that the cost of the highest candle-power arc light is but 5 cents per hour. The people of the Mount Scott district say that police protection at the present time is too expensive to be put in force over so large a territory, and that the best thing for them to do is to light their principal highways. The Mount Scott improvement club will be asked to consider the light question at its next meeting and if possible devise some means whereby the suggestion may be carried out.

The burning of Norman Draper's home at Lenta Wednesday morning has aroused the people to the necessity of providing the district with some sort of fire protection. Seven residences have been burned to the ground in the Mount Scott district in the past few months, all of which could have been partly saved had even a bucket brigade been organized. A number of the property owners there met some weeks ago and formed a volunteer fire company, which it is now proposed to equip with a chemical engine and a hose reel.

It is argued that no two improvements could be made that would appeal more to the home seeking public than street lights and a well-equipped volunteer fire department. The district around Lenta bears no trace now of the destructive forest fire that swept over the whole eastern part of the county four years ago. Homes and barns have been rebuilt and fences replaced. In many instances whole crops of grain and hay went up in flames and smoke, but this year the farmers out there are harvesting the biggest crop in years.

The little two-room schoolhouse that was burned at Lenta has been replaced by a 12-room building, one of the handsomest in the county. At the time of the great forest fire hundreds were left in destitution and Portland was called upon to supply them with their immediate needs. Seed for the following year's crop was advanced and money furnished to rebuild the destroyed homes. But all this has been changed. Prosperity is in evidence on all sides.

The new "First" church at Lenta will be dedicated Sunday, September 22, at 3 p. m. Lewis I. Hadley, pastor of the First Friends church, Portland, will preach the dedicatory sermon. Mrs. Sylvia E. Smith is to be the pastor of the new church. A series of revival meetings began in that church yesterday and will continue until September 30. Charles F. Weigle, the noted Quaker evangelist and singer, will be in charge.

Mrs. A. D. Chivik has bought the home of George T. Howard, near Stewart, and will occupy it in a few days. The purchase price was $1,150.

The Mount Scott News is publishing a series of sketches, accompanied by cuts, of the leading business men and real estate developers of the towns along the Mount Scott line. O. F. Hennings, a contractor and draftsman, is the subject of the sketch in the current number of the News.

J. W. Bryant, an ex-United States soldier, has purchased and will soon occupy the four-room cottage of W. W.

Bankrupt Shoe Stock of Felix Kahn & Co., of Louisville, Ky., About One-Half

HERE'S another example of the value of having a reputation of being aggressive buyers. For when this stock was sold at auction in Chicago we were the only store in this city that was notified of the sale, and we had a chance at a snap in shoes that will make a new record for low priced shoe selling in Portland. Felix Kahn & Co. carried only high grade goods, and of these splendid goods we were so fortunate as to secure 1,428 pairs. We bought them at less than we have ever secured goods of like quality for before, and we'll price them for sale on the same broad bargain lines. Read the prices and be convinced, then come ready to buy shoes for every member of the family for less than you ever paid for GOOD shoes at any other time or place.

SMART SET SWELLS DUBBED SISSIES BY HEIRESS
Miss Eleanor Sears Grills Gilded Youth of Newport.
(Journal Special Service.)
Boston, Sept. 21.—No less a person than Miss Eleanor Sears, daughter of the Boston millionaire, who is reported engaged to Harold Vanderbilt, has attacked the gilded youth and young swells of Newport society. She calls them "Sissies" and declares she has "no use for them."

Miss Sears, who is a daring swimmer and an expert at tennis, golf, riding, autoing, and nearly all the branches of sport, is emphatic in her declarations regarding the young men of society.

Miss Sears thinks nothing of a five-mile swim or playing polo or taking part in any other strenuous stunt. She has little use for newspapermen, to whom she refers as "those beastly reporters." She complains they are always snapping her picture in some unusual pose. She also asserts that Harry Lehr is not in her class, though traveling in her "set."

In her declaration Miss Sears says she does not want serious men nor yet those of a strenuous athletic type. She does not want to be bored by them. She prefers the Harry Lehr type, capable of amusing and making people laugh by bizarre and unusual conceits, monkey dinners and kindergarten parties. Bay-tony, the famous whip and ex-riding master, in his attempts to gain social favor, she asserts, followed lines similar to Harry Lehr's with such rapid success that he married Mrs. Burke Roche, overcoming her father's objections to such extent that the couple will occupy Elm court for the balance of the present season.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR NEW COLLEGE BUILDING
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Forest Grove, Or., Sept. 21.—At a meeting of the college trustees and building committee of Pacific university the bids for the new women's hall were considered and it was decided that the contract should be awarded and the building put up as soon as possible. There were six bids placed before the committee, the lowest being about $19,000, not including heating or plumbing, thus making the building when completed cost about $50,000. The contract was awarded to John Angel & Son of Portland.

COST OF HARVESTING GREATLY INCREASED
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Moscow, Ida., Sept. 21.—T. F. Dice and J. F. Clague, two prominent farmers of Preston, Washington, in the Walla Walla country, are here announcing the new combined harvesters and threshers that are the invention of Isaac cow persons, and that have been tried in the fields about here during the past 30 days. Messrs. Dice and Clague say that the expense of harvesting and threshing in their section is becoming so great that there is no longer profit in grain growing. The increased cost of labor, of twine and of sacks has reached the point where the farmer is driven to look to more improved and cheaper methods of sowing grain if he continues to raise grain, or use his soil for some other purpose, such as stock raising, grape-growing, etc.

Writing to the Spokesman-Review from the London Daily Mail:
In the heat of the harvest season many farmers are neglecting the quality of the seed they use. It is a mistake to suppose that the quality of the seed is of little importance. In the heat of the harvest season many farmers are neglecting the quality of the seed they use. It is a mistake to suppose that the quality of the seed is of little importance.
