EVERYTHING IN THE STORE SACRIFICED TO MAKE ROOM FOR THE REMODELING FORCE

GOING clear through the block now—a whole block of "Greater Golden Eagle." We've bought the "White Corner," and we're going to make things fly here for the next few days. Walls must be torn out, boundary lines changed, new windows put in. We'll be busy cutting through one place and widening out in another. And we must sell goods at a lively rate to get them out of the way of the carpenters and rebuilders. In a couple of days now we'll have to turn over part of our store to the force of men who are to make the alterations that give us added room and make this store the most convenient shopping place in Portland. A whole block on the most accessible street in the city, Yamhill street, and nearly every department on one floor. But there—that's for the future. Now we'll tell you of the very immediate present. Our fall stock for the Golden Eagle, in its present size, has us crowded to the limit; we must make room for the workmen, and no place for the goods. They must be sold to get them out of the dust and muss. Just now we are between the devil and the deep sea. With an enormous stock of goods, bought for fall trade in our present quarters, before the deal for the "White Corner" went through, now we face the problem of finding a place for them while the builders are at work. And we've no room for them, so we are compelled to face a loss, no matter how we look at it. And rather than have them spoiled by flying dust and damaged by the crowding and changing, we'll give you all the profit and more. Don't miss this sale, for the old Golden Eagle will wind up the last days in the small quarters in a blaze of bargain glory.

TO BUILD NEW ROAD AT ONCE

Contracts Will Be Let for Harriman's Washington Line and Construction to Begin Within Next Sixty Days

Contracts will be let and work be- work of building the road will be comstruction of the Oregon & Washington railroad, the Harriman extension to Tacoms, Seattle and Everett. A party of engineeers under direction of Chief Engineer Boschke of the Oregon lines has begun surveying for the Portland end of the road and is running preliminary lines across the peninsula to the site of the Portland & Seattle Railway company's bridge now being built across company's bridge now being built across the Columbia river.

The surveyors have run a line due north and south on a line with Fisks street and through the Hoffman farm to a point at Hayden island. They are also running other lines, in the direction of Clarnie and St. Johns. It is desired to find the best route from the south and of the Columbia river bridge to a connection with the present Harriman raliway terminals in East. Portland.

Portland.

Nothing definite is known as to the route at this time. It is said the company may find it more feasible to build from Clarnie to the bridge size at Hayden island, and in that event the preliminary lines being surveyed through the Hoffman farm and other tracts would be abandoned. The surveyors are "prospecting" to see what the probable cost of the construction would be A line north and south across the probable cost of the construction would be. J. D. Farrell, vice-president and general manager of the Oregon & Washington railroad, will come to Portland some time this week to confer with Engineer Boachke with regard to the Portland end of the road. It is stated that the route from Tacoms south has been definitely decided upon, and practically all of the rights of way are now secured or condemnation suits have been started for fixing ground values.

A number of suits in the vicinity of Kalama were instituted last week, and a jury will be called by Judge McCredie of the superior court at Vancouver to appraise the land in question. Mr. Farrell will, it is said, let the first contracts for construction south from Tacoms within a Tew weeks, and the other for shoots and Tacoms within a Tew weeks, and the other for shoots and Tacoms within a Tew weeks, and the other for shoots and the other form the damped of the damage with not exceed the damage with not exceed the damage with not exceed the damage with th

A vigorous fight is being made by the Northern Pacific against the Harriman Washington extension, and the Hill companies are evidently preparing to contest every foot of the Harriman "invasion" into what has heretofore been Hill territory. The proposed Sound extension of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific system will, it is said, parallel the Northern Pacific part of the way, and occupy for nearly the entire distance territory that has been dependent solely upon the Northern Pacific The sevent of the Harriman lines into Washington is halled with the mane brand of halleujahs that have gone up from Oregon over the coming gone up from Oregon over the coming of the Hill roads into this state.

of the Hill roads into this state.

No trouble is anticipated by the Harriman companies in securing privileges for operating their trains over the Columbia river bridge of the Hill companies. The charter granted by the federal government for this bridge provides that the structure can be used by any other railroad company on payment of reasonable charges for interest and maintenance. It is stipulated that the secretary of war shall be the arbitrator of any controversy arising as to fairness of charges exadted by the bridge building company from other railroad companies.

A small blaze in the kitchen of the Michigan restaurant at 47 fixth street at 10:10 o'clock last night brought out the fire department in response to an alarm from box 17. A line from chemical No. 1 had quickly extinguished the fiames and the damage will not exceed $50. While hose No. 1, driven by "Hoodoo" Cox, was on the way to the fire an automobile coming up Couch street ran directly in front of the apparatus and a collision was nargewiy averted. Cox maintains that the chauffeur of the auto in question has repeatedly blocked the hose wagon and a warrant may be issued for the arrest of the owner of the car.

Instead of calling the stenographer and having her take dictation in shorthand, the business man starts his graphophone, and talks his letter into it while the girl goes on hammering on the typewriter. When the letter is dictated the record is given to the girl, who places tubes in her ears and writes the words with a typewriter as she hears them from the record. The new machines are adjustable so they can be made to repeat the dictation as slowly has desired.

In transcribing their notes they had previously read them to operators of typewriters. Now they read their notes into the graphophones, and as soon as they have finished leave written from them by the machine operators.
