

PAVEMENT WAR ON UNION AVENUE

Property Owners Object to Being Assessed for High-Priced Hard Pavement.

DECLARE STREET IS GOOD ENOUGH NOW

Allege That People Who Want It Improved Are Those Who Travel Over It Rather Than Those Who Own Adjoining Property.

East Side Department.
The proposition to lay a bitulithic pavement on Union avenue does not meet with the unanimous approval of the property-owners on that thoroughfare. It is said to be doubtful if even a majority of the taxpayers on that street can be induced to favor the new paving project.

Only about two years ago Union avenue, from East Burnside street north to Russell street, received a heavy coating of crushed rock and gravel. That improvement was made at a heavy expense. The taxpayers insist that they see no reason why they should be called upon to foot a second paving bill at this time when they now have one of the best paved streets in the east side residence district.

Union avenue, for the greater part of its length, is one of the few 80-foot wide streets in the city. From East Morrison north to Morris street, Union avenue is a 60-foot street, while from Morris street north to Columbia boulevard it is 50 feet wide, except for a few blocks where it narrows to 75 feet.

From Russell street north, Union avenue is lined with the modest, moderate-priced homes of workmen, to whom the cost of a high-priced pavement in front of their 50-foot lots would weigh very high mean confiscation.

"Most of the people who want a hard pavement laid on Union avenue are those who travel on that street, but own no property on it," said J. L. Abrams, a Union-avenue property-owner. "We who have to pay these paving bills will be slow to adopt the pavement in use in the high-priced business and residence districts down town. To a man who owns a lot worth many thousands of dollars, a $300 paving bill amounts to little; but a $300 improvement against a $1,000 lot is out of all proportion."

Councilman Vaughn of the Tenth ward says that he would like to see Union avenue, for its entire length, paved with bitulithic material.

"While it would be a very expensive undertaking," said Mr. Vaughn, "the property-holders would be more than repaid by the advance in real estate, due to such a splendid thoroughfare as Union avenue would then become.

Judging from the expressions of the residents along Union avenue, any attempt to have that street improved with an expensive pavement will meet with a determined opposition.

COVE UPLANDS SUGAR BEET YIELD IS UNDERGOING TEST

Sugar Beets Raised in the Cove Country, Weighing From Five to Eight and a Half Pounds Each.

(Special Correspondence to The Journal.)
Cove, Or., Sept. 25.—The store windows are the center of attraction this week because of a voluntary exhibit of samples of sugar beets grown this season in and about Cove, for the purpose of testing the ability of upland ground, seemingly especially adapted to production of fruits, hay and grains, to yield a 20-ton-to-the-acre crop of beets, and, as a result of this exhibit and report, it is the consensus of opinion of those immediately interested, that Cove land for beet culture is equal in quality and quantity to the lower lands of the valley.

The illustration (from a photograph by Stearns & Fellbaum) shows seven well-shaped beets averaging nearly five pounds each, the largest eight and one half pounds, displayed in Mayor Tripp's window. These are from a 150-acre piece of poor land put in by Du-ham Wright, who, it is claimed, has the right to figure on an average yield of 30 tons to the acre.

There is almost a replica of this group in the window of the D. C. Clark store, from an 80-acre tract put in by the Gejeitrup brothers. Eight samples averaging nearly five pounds, the largest weighing eight and one half pounds. There is many an acre of comparatively idle ground in and about Cove that will be given a chance to pay more than taxes and a mere living next season.

The Central railway and the Grand Round Water companies' work—the latter to convey water from Big Minam through a 10 by 10 foot eight-mile tunnel under Mount Fannie to irrigate an acre of 30 by 20 miles of soil—when completed, opens a future to the beet industry beyond present estimation by the most sanguine.

The new bridge. Some weeks ago the street railway company tore up its tracks along Grand avenue from Burnside street to the gulch and notified the council that it no longer claimed ownership of the right to use that part of Grand avenue. It is the general opinion on the east side that this action of the street railway company was the beginning of an effort to escape paying its share of the cost of the bridge over the gulch.

The other question is the necessity of opening Grand avenue from Hancock street to Morris street. That part of the avenue has never been open to travel and it is recognized that it will be necessary to open up that part of the street in order to get the full benefit of the cost of the steel bridge over Sullivan's gulch.

The Gresham school opened yesterday morning with an attendance of about 250, crowding the five rooms now in use. It is expected that the total enrollment will go near the 300 mark. Professor Bert Ashurst is principal and has a staff of five assistants. A completely organized high school that has been in existence for four years at the State University without examination or condition. At the time the high school course of study was arranged it was submitted to the registrar of the university, who reported that it met the requirements of admission to the institution.

The school board has rented the old Methodist church, to which the primary grades will be moved. For the benefit of those wishing to take a course in chemistry a chemical laboratory was recently purchased by the board.

The first day's enrollment of the Montavilla school was 272, but it is expected that by the end of the first school month this number will be increased to 400. Owing to the fact that the grammar grades in the city schools have the ninth grade a rearrangement of the grades in the Montavilla school became necessary when that district was merged with the city district.

The requirements by the city school board that all pupils be vaccinated is causing some discontent among the patrons of the Montavilla school. Heretofore compulsory vaccination has not obtained there, as many of the people were opposed to it.

This year's roster of the Montavilla teaching force is as follows: Principal, N. W. Bowland; ninth grade, Miss Minnie Butler; eighth, Miss Caroline Jefferson; seventh, Miss Flora Kreglow; sixth, Miss Agnes Brown; fifth, Miss Agnes Matlock; fourth, Miss Vida Hammond; third, Miss Nora Lambert; second, Miss Una Baker; first, Miss Harriet Thayer and Miss Selma Bell.

PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER IN NEW HUNTING CLUB

Cleveland, Roosevelt, Fairbanks and Bryan Made Honorary Members of Organization.

(Journal Special Service.)
Chicago, Sept. 25.—The Interstate Hunt club, with President Roosevelt, Vice-President Fairbanks, Grover Cleveland and William Jennings Bryan, as its roll of honorary members has been organized, partly with the aid of Chicago friends, and efforts are being made to find a suitable site for the preserves and clubhouse.

General J. C. B. Blackburn of Kentucky is president of the organization. Secretary of State Root, Secretary of War Taft, Secretary of the Treasury Shaw, Senator Morans of Alabama, and other men of national prominence are among the vice-presidents.

The wild country through the Tennessee mountains has made a decided hit with the committee of investigation and while no decision has been reached, it is said it is likely that President Roosevelt may withdraw his affiliations from the west and transfer them to Lookout mountain and the southern side.

Congress to Aid Bell.
San Francisco, Sept. 25.—The Labor Union party has sent a request to Samuel Gompers president of the American Federation of Labor, that he come to California and assist in the campaign for Bell against James N. Gillett.

NO DIVERSION OF FRUIT UNDER RATE LAW

California Growers Must Pay for Branch or Back Hauling on Eastern Shipments.

(Journal Special Service.)
Los Angeles, Sept. 25.—Under the new rate law there can be no diversion of California fruit shipments west of except by direct lines which means there can be no branch or back hauling without extra freight charges. This provision in the law has been decided by a state case, shippers caught in a "pocket" being compelled to pay additional charges.

A consignment was made to Muskogee, Oklahoma. On arrival there the shippers found a poor market and the fruit at the mercy of the commission men. They declared that they would divert as they had for years, on the basis of free diversion to which they attribute the upbuilding of the California fruit industry. The consignment was immediately diverted westward to Philadelphia. Railroad charges, and was sustained, $2 cents per hundred, besides a rough rate of 15 to 20 New York.

It will be seen that the California shipper is put in a tight place by the new ruling of the interstate commerce commission. Even certain "straight" diversions which the railroads will still allow have not been specifically passed upon by the commission and cannot be positively guaranteed until such a ruling has been handed down.

REFUSE TO JOIN BOLTING WELSH FACTION

Democrats Ignore Plea of Rebelious Republicans and Name Entire Ticket.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD CHILD IS VICTIM OF BRUTE

Selma, Cal., Sept. 25.—The 5-year-old daughter of E. W. Crane was kidnaped upon the streets of Selma this afternoon, taken about five miles from town and outraged, and is now in a critical condition.

The spirit who committed the deed was pursued by the irate father, and when captured, had the child wrapped in buggy robes and lying in a buggy. Crane would have killed the man, but his pistol had without his knowledge been unloaded. He beat him severely, however and returned to town, delivering the fellow to the officers. He gave his name as J. B. Phelps, ex-Philippine soldier.

The child was playing with other children on the street when picked up by Phelps.

Phelps was hurried away to the county jail to prevent him from being lynched, as the excitement ran high. Phelps is said to be a Nebraskan and a telegraph operator. The child will recover.

SPRAINS.
