anything but wheat cakes and coffee and was able to prove it by the waiter without any trouble. So he got off with 15 cents. A scheme? Of course it was. I've never had it worked on me before, and there's no way to prevent it. You see, the second man came in and sat down at the same table with the first. No. 1 finished first and, instead of picking up his own check, took the check of No. 2, which saved him $1.55 when he came to pay his bill. No 2 waited until No. 1 was well away, then picked up No. 1's check and when he got to the counter made a great show of surprise to hide the same. "The exasperating thing about it all is that if you should catch the first fellow in the act you couldn't have him arrested. He could very plausibly say that it was only a little mistake, that he hadn't noticed his check or how much change you had given him. Unless you could prove that he had done it more than once you'd have no case. There are lots of people who are not above living high on a small income by such means and the only thing we restaurant men can do is to keep an eye open, spot them and get skinned as seldom as possible." Municipal Court Trial Shows That Detective Captain Uses Stool Pigeons for Assistance.

HOUGHTON CAUSED ARREST OF AUTO HOLD-UP MEN

Tipped Off the Secret to Bruin, Who Took Credit for Particularly Excellent Bit of Detective Work He Did Not Perform.

Only one day remains in which taxes may be paid. After tomorrow a penalty of 10 per cent will be added and interest at the cate of 20 per cent per annum from April 1 will be charged. Yesterday the tax department in the sheriff's office received nearly $15,000 con, a notorious ex-convict, who is ac-cused of having stolen a pair of trousers from a Third street second-hand dealer. That the arrest of Hall and his accom-plice, Bernard, for their holdup of an automobile on the Linnton road two weeks ago, was not due to the vaunted Sherlock Holmes method of deduction of Captain Bruin, but to information supplied by Houghton, acting "stool-pigeon" of the police department, is now made evident by the testimony of Hall in the municipal court yesterday morning.

Heavily manacled and guarded by Se Heavily manacled and guarded by Sergeant Baty, Hall was brought from the county jail to testify against Houghton. In order that the oath might be administered one of the bracelete was unfastened from his wrist, but a detective was ever at his elbow as he sat in the witness chair, to frustrate any possible attempt to make a dash for freedom.

Houghton and his counsel, Attorney McDevitt, occupied a position facing the convicted footpad. Hall's glances in the direction of his betrayer boded ill for Houghton if an opportunity presented,

Deputy District Attorney Haney conducted the examination for the state. Hall answered the questions propounded in almost inaudible monosyllables. He stated that in company with Houghton he had visited a second-hand store on Third street to purchase two revolvers. While in the establishment he testified that Houghton had stolen a pair of "Standing in the shadow of the penitentiary are you sure that Houghton committed the theft?" asked Attorney McDevitt in a melodramatic manner.

"I am not lying about the matter." answered the witness. "He took the pants. I had nothing to do with it."

Then McDevitt to prove that Hall was prejudiced, brought out the testimony reflecting upon Bruin's detective abilities.

"Is it not a fact that you are particularly bitter against Houghton, because he informed Bruin where you could be found?" was the interrogatory.

"Yes, I naturally feel bitter against him," frankly replied Hall, "for betraying me."

Deputy Haney inquired the reason for the purchase of the pistol, and Hall testified that Houghton and himself intended to hold up a train.

"I don't think we would have held up anything," he added. "It was the booze that was talking."
