

SHERIFF STEVENS MAKES NO MOVE AGAINST ILLEGAL SLOT MACHINES

Officer Sworn to Enforce Laws of the State Says It is Up to the Mayor.

CITY EXECUTIVE SHOWS STATE LAW IS VIOLATED

Sheriff Stevens Has Full Authority to Move Against Nicker-Eaters. While Police Are Powerless as There is No City Ordinance.

Section 1255. Bellinger and Cotton's Annotated Oregon code. "If any person shall conduct, maintain or operate any slot-machine or device of like character which enters any element of chance, whether played for money, checks, credits or other thing of representative value, he shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $100, and in default of the payment of such fine shall be confined in the county jail one day for each $2 of said fine."

Sheriff Stevens has sworn to enforce the laws of the state—one of which is that there shall be no slot machines, but he is waiting for Mayor Lane to act. Although the state law plainly prohibits such devices there is no city ordinance against them.

Inspector Hruin has threatened to close the cigar machines of the counters of the cigar stores and saloons. In making the threat he was not acting under the instructions of the mayor.

Every owner and user of a cigar machine is fearful that they will be run out. The rumor that a get-out order would soon be issued was believed, and there was a general scramble among cigar men. It has been declared and is probably true that without the slot machines at least one third of the multitudinous cigar stores would have to go out of business.

Sheriff Stevens shows no signs of becoming belligerent.

Knows About the Law. "You know there is a law forbidding slot machines of all kinds, including the ones that pay merchandise, did you not?" he was asked.

"Yes," said Sheriff Stevens. "What are you going to do about enforcing that law?"

"Well, there is some controversy about whether the law applies to machines paying merchandise. I have been after the coin-paying machines, but I am not sure about the others."

"Suppose it should be determined that the law prohibits them, whose duty would it be to enforce that law?"

"That would be the duty of the city officials."

"What city officials? Mayor or police?"

"I can't say. The district attorney or the city attorney would advise regarding which city officials ought to do it."

"Have you examined the law on the subject closely?"

"No, I haven't."

"Let's go and look at the statute."

"No, I have gone after the coin-paying machines and put them out of business, and that is as far as I care to go."

What the Police Say. "We have trouble enough without monkeying with the slot machines," says Chief Gritzmacher.

"I consider there is a number of other things that are far more important for us to look after than the slot machines," is the opinion of Mayor Lane.

"There is no city ordinance against them. If there was it would be enforced. Yes, there is a state law prohibiting them, I believe, but the enforcement of that is up to the district attorney and sheriff."

The city practically legalized the slot machines for a time by licensing them. The cigar men, however, pointed out that they were illegal under the state law and took chances on the authorities ordering them out.

Since last fall no license has been levied on the nickel cafes, as the ordinance providing for the license was repealed by the council.

AMERICAN CONCERNS AFTER TOURIST TRAFFIC

Wells Fargo and United States Express Companies Compete With Cook and Gaze.

London, Oct. 10.—American competition for the profits arising from the enormous American transatlantic tourist traffic will attain immense importance during the coming year.

Eleven years ago this business, so far as Europe was concerned, was entirely in the hands of Europeans, principally English companies.

Cook and Gaze dominated the tourist world with their railway tickets, hotel coupons, travel checks and system of forwarding parcels and baggage.

Today the American Wells Fargo and United States Express companies have hand-some offices in London, and it is reported the Adams company is likewise about to dispense with its English agents and take its European business into its own hands.

These companies furnish the tourist with railway facilities which he needs to see Europe and forward mail, telegrams, baggage, motor cars, horses, dogs and whatnot. The American companies are branching out in every direction.

She was attracted to the stage at a very early age and took a leading position, being acknowledged as one of Europe's foremost artists for many years.

She retired from the stage in 1885. Since then she has written her memoirs and numerous articles for the press.

MIDDLE LIFE

A Time When Women Are Susceptible to Many Dread Diseases—Intelligent Women Prepare for it. Two Relate their Experiences.

The "change of life" is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

Every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.

When her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to epilepsy, or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active.

With a host of nervous irritations make life a burden. At this time also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Sober warning symptoms, such as dizziness, headache, flashes, spots, hiccups, drowsiness, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system.

For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and it will be furnished absolutely free of charge.

The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women.

Read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound did for Mrs. Hyland and Mrs. Hinkle:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I had been suffering with displacement of the organs for years and was passing through the change of life. My abdomen was badly swollen; my stomach was sore; I had dizzy spells, sick headaches, and was very nervous."

BIG STICK SWINGS IN NEW YORK

President Dictates Plan of Campaign to Be Followed by Hughes.

REGARDS HEARST AS NATIONAL MENACE

Cortelyou, Who Accepted Policy-Holders' Money for National Campaign, Managing Fight of Man Who Exposed Grant.

New York, Oct. 10.—President Roosevelt, through Postmaster-General Cortelyou, chairman of the national Republican committee, is taking a leading part in the state campaign, directing the fight being made for Hughes for governor.

Cortelyou issued the mandate last night that a straight Republican ticket must be nominated, and no alliance with Democrats or municipal ownership candidates be made for minor places on the ticket.

The national administration desires that the candidates shall occupy but one position on the ballot so as not to complicate the issue of overwhelming importance—the issue between Charles E. Hughes and William R. Hearst.

Cortelyou's "butting in" even though upon orders of the executive, threatens to embarrass Hughes' candidacy still further.

Cortelyou as national chairman accepted the contributions of the life insurance companies, and it is for exposing these same contributions that Hughes' supporters rely for his support.

Hughes has as campaign manager Timothy Woodruff, president of an insurance company, who appeared before

THE INFLUENCE OF CHILDREN'S BOOKS

The question that came up before the meeting of the American Library association was in regard to the moral influence of children's reading and Miss Clara W. Hunt, superintendent of the children's department of the Brooklyn public library, read a very interesting paper on this subject.

Miss Hunt spoke of the great necessity of the public library exerting its influence over the children of the state and of how essential the influence of good books was in the training of the kind of citizens that are needed in every state.

Mother do not realize the danger of letting children "just grow."

Miss Hunt does not believe in books that are "no particular harm," but insists that the books to be read by a child should be some particular good.

Of course the child reads primarily for amusement and the books that fall to hold the interest are not likely to be read for the moral worth except under compulsion and compulsory reading is rarely beneficial from any viewpoint, but the child's brain is plastic, its tastes are just forming and therefore may be directed and molded.

Nearly all great educators advocate fairy tales and the avidity with which most children devour these stories shows conclusively that they fulfill the primary condition of being interesting, but great care should be taken before giving a child a fairy story to read.

Most children are gifted with great imaginative powers and this faculty is likely to become overdeveloped, especially in a child of nervous temperament, and all fairy stories are simply food and drink to the imagination. It is an abnormal taste and spoils the mental appetite for any kind of literature.

The fairy story is so attractive that anything else seems dry and uninteresting. Therefore I do not think that a child should be allowed to read too much of this class of literature.

The child interested in the classical myths, which are enough like fairy stories proper to hold the attention, and then gradually lead the child by cleverly told stories to want to read the great books in literature—the books that really have a lasting influence on the mind, and in this way you will be cultivating the taste of the child in the right direction.

THE ONLY GIRL MESSENGER

There is only one girl messenger in the United States and she is in Bayonne. This girl, whose name is Hilda Hinkle, is employed by the Western Union Telegraph company and is really successful in her work, being more faithful in the performance of her duty than the boys on the force.

The manager is very proud of his new messenger, but says that she will not be a messenger long as she is quietly studying telegraphy and expects to be able to take a position as telegraph operator. Hilda Hinkle wears a blue dress and cape and the regulation messenger cap. She has been able to compete favorably with the boys and yet not incur their dislike, and jealousy as was at first expected.

SWEET PICKLED APPLES

Ingredients—Six pounds of sweet apples, pared, cored and quartered, 3 pints brown sugar, 1 quart of vinegar, 1 tablespoonful each of salt, pepper, nutmeg and cinnamon, 1 teaspoonful of cloves, and 2 ounces of stick cinnamon.

Method—Mix the powdered spices together, and tie up in two muslin bags. Break the cinnamon into short lengths and place vinegar, sugar and spices into a preserving pan, and heat slowly. Insert a clove into each apple quarter, and cook a few minutes in the hot syrup, skimming them out as far as they are cooked. The pieces of apple should be perfectly whole and unbroken, and soft enough to be pricked with a skewer. When all are cooked, turn out the syrup on to the apples, cover over while hot, and stand aside until next day. Then, for three following days, drain off the syrup, place the pieces of apples into it, and boil a quarter of an hour. Repeat this process twice more, and, lastly, cover the apples over with dishes, so as to keep them under the syrup. Remove the spice bags, and, when all are cooked, turn out the syrup on to the apples, cover over while hot, and stand aside until next day. BUTTONS OF THE SEASON

Buttons are simply lovely this year, and the more modern the better. There are costumes that depend entirely upon their buttons for their beauty. One lovely dress had a set of buttons that rivaled anything ever shown in an art gallery.

There were nine of them, all were covered with pale blue silk, upon which there was painted a tiny landscape complete upon each button.

The buttons that are for sale in the stores are for the most part, made of silver and gold filigree, and they are very large and very elegant. Others are out to imitate jewels. They cost a great deal of money and in many cases they are more expensive than the suits they adorn.

A French gown was decorated with these gold filigree buttons, each one of which cost the sum of four dollars. There were nine of the buttons and they trimmed the gown.

But, of course, there are inexpensive yet beautiful buttons that do very nicely. One modiste is making a specialty of buttons covered with beadwork. And in these buttons there is a chance for art work. One lovely button was as big around as a half dollar. It was covered with a circle of canvas which was entirely worked with beads. There was a Russian scene all in beads, showing some stubby trees and a Russian fox. The costume required four of these buttons, and one handsome one was placed upon the front of it very effectively. The toque was trimmed with little fur tails that were caught up with one of these beaded buttons.

It is something of a feat to have individual buttons and one ingenious girl made herself a set of buttons by taking the tops off hat pins and having a button shank placed under them.

TO ORGANIZE GRANGE IN EASTERN OREGON

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pendleton, Or., Oct. 10.—An energetic campaign for the organization of local societies of the grange in eastern Oregon is now planned, and dates for a series of meetings to be held by Mrs. Clara H. Waldo, one of the well-known pioneer women of western Oregon, have been fixed.

Mrs. Waldo is state lecturer for the grange and is an entertaining and well-informed speaker. She will spend a week in Umatilla county, beginning about October 15. From here she will go to Union and Baker counties.

Mrs. A. E. G. Hyland

"I wrote you for advice and commenced treatment with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as you directed, and I am happy to say that all these distressing symptoms left me and I have passed safely through the change of life, a well woman. I am recommending your medicine to all my friends."

Another Woman's Case. "During change of life words cannot express what I suffered. My physician said I had a cancerous condition of the female organs. One day I read some of the testimonials of women who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I decided to try it and to write you for advice. Your medicine made me a well woman, and all my bad symptoms soon disappeared."

"I advise every woman at this period of life to take your medicine and write you for advice."—Mrs. Lizzie Hinkle, Salem, Ind.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Hyland and Mrs. Hinkle it will do for other women at this time of life.

It has conquered pain, restored health, and prolonged life in cases that utterly baffled physicians.

IT IS DECLARED THAT THE PRESIDENT IS NOT TALKING OR ACTING MAINLY FROM THE STANDPOINT OF A REPUBLICAN PARTISAN IN HIS EFFORTS TO CONCENTRATE MATTERS OF LOCAL INTEREST AROUND THE REPUBLICAN STANDARD IN THIS PARTICULAR CAMPAIGN.

ALBANY, Or., Oct. 10.—A lodge that contains features in its system of management and conduct that makes it a unique organization of itself along the line of fraternal and beneficiary orders is the Modern Pyramid Builders, an organization launched at Albany. It possesses the referendum in its rules of conduct and also has provision for the payment of premiums to the members after they have reached the age of expectancy.

The incorporators are Dr. J. L. Hill, M. Boyanov, William P. Tucker, George E. Sanders and Albert O. Prill, all of this state and county. The organization is to be a fraternal, cooperative and charitable society for the benefit of its members and not for gain.

The management and system of conduct is probably more democratic in its plan than any other lodge known. The Supreme Pyramid of this order is to be located in Albany, from which center the canvass for members will be carried on.

Rest the Stomach

Nothing will cure indigestion that doesn't digest the food, itself, and give the stomach a perfect rest.

You can't reasonably expect that any weak stomach will regain its strength and get well when it is compelled to do the full work that a sound stomach should do.

You wouldn't expect a sick horse to get well when it is compelled to do a full day's work every day of the week.

Your stomach must have rest. But it isn't necessary to starve yourself in order to rest your stomach.
