

The Market Basket

There's something doing in the meat situation. The butchers have declared war against each other and the result is expected to be of much practical benefit to the pocketbooks of consumers. Prices will be slaughtered such as they have never been slaughtered before. Just how long this war will continue depends altogether upon the size of the butchers' pocketbook for the new prices will mean practically that all profit will be eliminated. For instance here's a few articles with old and new prices:

Old Price	New Price
Per Pound	Per Pound
Pork roast	$0.12 1/2	$0.08
Hams	12	10
Butter	17 1/2	15
Tenderloin steak	15	12 1/2

The figures listed above do not quite fairly represent to just what extent the butchers' profits will suffer. For instance hams will be sold at retail a fraction under the price which the dealers will pay the packers. Bacon that will cost the dealers 11 cents a pound in the wholesale market will be given to consumers at 17 1/2 cents, a net loss to the sellers of 1 1/2 cents for every pound of bacon sold. Of course this condition cannot exist for all time but the butchers may they are going to make it interesting while they last. The cause of the trouble between the meat men is of long standing and this war is expected to wipe out all differences. There is also some agitation among the butchers to cut out all deliveries of meat—that is free delivery. A small charge will be made if the new proposition is generally accepted by the trade. That would be put into practice at least until the war is over.

Eggs are getting very high. Those who want guaranteed Oregon ranch stock cannot obtain them under 45 or 46 cents a dozen, the latter price being the more general. Eastern eggs are in very good condition at this time and are selling in the retail markets at 30 cents a dozen.

Owing to the low prices at which chickens are selling in the wholesale market the retail trade has cut the price 2 cents a pound. Supplies are now very heavy and your dealers will have about everything you ask for. Turkeys are now beginning to come to market but are not meeting with very heavy demand as yet.

While but one city creamery has advanced its quotation on best grade to 75 cents in the retail markets, it is expected at this time that the others will be forced to follow. It is also expected that they must pay the top price for cream in the country or else the other follow will get the supplies. Unless they advance the price and come up to the retail markets today they are selling about 2-3 cents a pound.

Potatoes are still rather high on account of the inability of the growers to secure sufficient help to dig the stocks. Today the best ones are quoted in the retail markets at $1.25 a sack. Onions are about the same price.

Pumpkin pies are now in order for Sunday dinner. Some very choice ones are now being sold in the markets around 1 1/4 cents a pound.

Sprouts are still rather high on account of the small supplies in the market. All stocks are brought up from California.

Sauerkraut has made its appearance for the season; although the cabbage crop this season did not come up to the retail markets on account of very small sizes due to dry weather. Today in the retail markets, 10 cents a quart.

YOU CAN'T SWEAR IN "TRINITI"

New Universal Language Invented by Berkeley Professor Has No Words of Anger.

COMBINATION OF LATIN, GREEK AND ANGLI-SAXON

Thirty-Four Letters and No Harsh Sounding Words—Easy to Learn and Children Master It—Product of Long Study.

(Journal Special Service.) Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 12.—Profanity is to be a thing of the past when "Trinitri," the new universal language which Dr. S. A. Frazier of Berkeley has invented, comes into use. Dr. Frazier has devised a language which contains no words significant of anger, ill will or other unpleasant emotions. No provision is made by the doctor for the man who desires to express his feelings in unseemly words, and the new language accordingly, when adopted, is expected to bring the golden day of universal peace much nearer.

A number of years have been devoted by Dr. Frazier to perfecting his new language. His office at Madison and Oxford streets contains a great mass of literature and papers bearing on the subject.

When the manual of directions for the use of "Trinitri" is issued students are expected to find no difficulty in mastering its curves. Dr. Frazier calls his language "Trinitri" because it is a combination of Latin, Greek and the Anglo-Saxon letters and characters. There are to be 34 letters in "Trinitri," of which 29 will be English and eight Greek. The combination of sounds to be made by these letters are all mellifluous and no harsh, ill-sounding words are to be found in "Trinitri" as Dr. Frazier has framed the language.

"I believe 'Trinitri,'" said Dr. Frazier today, "will especially help children, because it will be much easier to learn than English. It will take the burden from children that is onerous and my own little ones illustrate how the burden is to be removed. I teach them 'Trinitri' and the ease with which they grasp its rudiments is some proof of its worth."

LONG LEASE IS GIVEN ON DOWN TOWN CORNER

Rothschild Bros. Will Erect an Office Building at Fifth and Washington.

It is announced that the deal for a long-term lease on the property of Mrs. John M. Goetz at the northwest corner of Fourth and Washington streets has been practically settled, and that Rothschild Bros. have secured the use of the property for a period of about 20 years or a little longer. With this announcement it is also stated that as soon as plans can be made the corner will be improved with a modern office building in keeping with the structures in that vicinity. The first floor will be devoted to stores and the upper floors to offices.

The exact terms of the lease or the amount to be paid for the use of the property is not stated and no announcement is made regarding the reversion of the building at the expiration of the lease. This deal is one of the most important that has been closed for some time, as the corner is one of the best in the business district. With that corner improved, Washington street from Second to Seventh will present a businesslike appearance with the exception of the northwest corner of Fifth and Washington streets and half of the block on the south side between Fifth and Sixth, where old buildings are now located.

SAYS PRICE OF CODWOOD WILL BE ADVANCED

But There Will Be No Fuel Trust, Declares George A. Steel in Interview.

George A. Steel, treasurer and director of the Portland Fuel company, declares that the price of codwood will be advanced. He says that an advance is certain, but that it will be due to the exactions of the wood-cutters.

"Wood is now sold so close to cost as to leave less than five per cent profit to the dealers," said Mr. Steel this morning. "In a short time we shall raise the price of four-foot wood 25 cents per cord. We are forced to do this by the attitude of the wood-cutters down the Columbia river, who have notified us that hereafter, $3 per cord will be charged for wood on their docks. We are now paying $2.60 per cord. Remember that the price of wood here is regulated by lower river wood cutters, who furnish 80 per cent of the fir wood sold in this city."

"It has been charged that the Portland Fuel company, in which I am interested, has bought out all but two of the independent wood yards. This is a mistake. There are seven independent concerns selling cordwood on the other side of the river. I can't see why the public thinks wood is unreasonably high. Good fir wood nearly always goes to 45¢ a cord here in winter, and it will do so again this winter."

He alleges it due him as salary during that part of December, 1904, when he was illegally laid off by W. C. Elliott, then city engineer.

In the trial Fleming testified that he has been given to understand that he was taken off the job because he was too hard on the contractors.
