market is in somewhat better shape than a few weeks ago.

Chittim Bark Situation Is Mixed.

There is a very mixed situation in the chittim bark business today. A few dealers have control of most of the supplies, which they purchased at quite good figures. Several small holders are now setting ready to sail, but claim that the prices quoted are not always obtainable. Today's price on chittim is 6c a pound, but dealers say they can secure no grouis at this time at that figure.

Chickens Sell at Low Figures.

Sales of chickens are reported today along Front street as low as 12c a pound. Some coops of fancy heas are reported and at 1214c, but this seems the outside limit of values today. Springs are quoted at 12c and 1254c, with sales reported at both figures. Receipts of turkeys are beginning to increase, so is the demand, and prices are being maintained.

Eggs continue quite source for local ranch stock with prices at yesterday's rangs.

PROMISE AN INCREASE EXPORT SUPPLIES OF TURKEYS

It begins to look as if the supplies of turkeys will be considerably larger than usual this season. Special regerts received by The Journal from country points say that the production of turkeys was very heavy this season and that a larger percent of the birds survived on account of the dry weather. While demand is still a trifle slow for turkeys the trade expects better buying the next two weeks. At turkey time it is the general rule for chickens to be quoted lower.

Cameron Gets Through Trial of Russian Without Meeting an Untimely End.

ACCUSED MAN IS ALLOWED TO GO FREE

United States Secret Service Men Will Keep Eye on Him, However, and He May Be Deported to His Former Home in Russia.

Contrary to general expectation the bomb throwing carnival which was scheduled to occur in the police court this morning as a prologue to the trial of John Lewandoski, charged with unlawful cohabitation, did not take place. Judge Cameron, who was in receipt of an anonymous communication last Wednesday threatening dire vengeance by the "Red Flag" in the event he failed to turn the defendant loose, is still able to sip his noon "nift afty" in peace. It was noticeable that both the judge and Deputy District Attorney Haney nervously looked under their respective chairs before sitting down, but no sinister-looking infernal machines were in evidence. Attorney Pague before proceeding with the case, made a statement denying that his client, Lewandoski, had been sentenced to death for bomb throwing in Ruesia, but was sent to Saghalien Island for a political offense. Judge Cameron deciared that any prior offenses would have no bearing on the case. Contrary to general expectation the

The testimony introduced by the prosecution was weak and conflicting and without being influenced by the threatening letter received, Judge Cameron promptly discharged the defendant. It is understood, however, that the United States immigration officials have Lewandoski under surveillance and his deportation to Russia, as the result of his alleged illegal entry into this country, may be decided upon. The identity of the writer of the letter to Cameron is known to the authorities, and his arrest on a charge of violating the postal laws may occur.

LITTLE BOYS WILL E.B. Colwell ESCAPE PRISON

Governor Commutes Sentence of Newton Brothers and Sends Them to Portland.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Oct. 12.—At the request of Superintendent James of the peni-tentiary, Governor Chamberlain after tentiary, Governor Chamberlain after having conferred with District Attorney McNarry and Sheriff Culver decided to commute the sentence of Oscar and Charles Newton who were sentenced here by Judge Burnett of the circuit court, to indeterminate confinement in the state prison. The boys at the time of their arrest gave their ages as 18 and 15 respectively, but refused to testify as to their ages when brought before the court yesterday.

When the young fellows were brought

When the young fellows were brought to prison they looked so small and so young to Superintendent James that he disliked to have them don the conhe disliked to have them don the convicts' uniform. He took the matter up with the governor who ordered them turned over to the Boys' and Girls' Aid society of Portland as soon as an afficer reaches here. The Newton boys abhor going to a reform school and prefer to remain at the prison. They were arrested for breaking into the home of William Hilleary near Turner, Oregon, stealing a rifle and some clothing.

When answering to the indictment, they entered a plea of guilty. Judge Burnett signified his readness to appoint an attorney for their defense, but they declined the privilege.

The boys had been working at Snohomish, Washington, previous to coming here.
