TO BEGIN OPERATIONS ON VERY LARGE SCALE

With the opening of a Chinese medical office in Portland, The Oregonian offers a chance to Portlanders to try the treatment of Chinese medicine. The office is located in the Portland Temple, 303 W. Burnside St., and is open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily. The practice of Chinese medicine is based on the theory that the body is a whole, and that the treatment of diseases is directed toward the restoration of balance to the body.

AUDUBON SOCIETY MEMBERS WITH WINGS ON THEIR HATS

The Audubon Society members were shown a collection of birds' wings at the Portland Temple. The collection includes wings from birds of all sizes and species, from the smallest hummingbird to the largest eagle. The wings are preserved in various stages of decay, from fresh to sun-dried.

D'URBANO'S BAND CLOSES ITS SEASON AT THE OAKS TODAY

The D'Urano Band closed its season at the Oaks today. The band was formed in Portland and has been entertaining audiences for the past few years. The band's last performance was at the Oaks, where they were met with a warm reception.

Charcoal Kills Bad Breath

Charcoal is a natural ingredient that is effective in killing bad breath. It absorbs odors and can help to improve your breath. To use charcoal for bad breath, crush a few charcoal tablets and add them to your water or coffee. You can also use charcoal in a powder form by applying it to your mouth and chewing on it for a few minutes.
