Twenty Per Cent on the Dollar

Will be our slogan and it will sing into every thrifty buyer's ear in this section. NO SUCH DOUBLE EVENT WILL EVER OCCUR IN OREGON HISTORY.

The Lovely New Fur.

The new furs make women look bewitching, and although they are higher in price than ever before, women are determined to possess them. Fur coats will be more popular than they were last winter and many women are having their old ones remodeled. This is a somewhat expensive process, but it is better to be willing to be out a little money in this way than to continue to wear a fur coat, without change, year after year, just because it cost an enormous sum in the first place. If one can afford a fur coat at all one should be able to afford to have it remodeled to suit the prevailing style.

Ribbon Embroidery on Lace.

Something entirely new in the embroidery line is the French ribbon work on lace, and very charming it is as a trimming. Inexpensive lace is really preferable to embroidery and the work is not difficult. Women who do very little embroidery work are surprised to find this new and attractive work so easy and yet effective. Buy a lace which has a decided pattern and then get French embroidery ribbon in the desired shades. In all department stores there are women who will give lessons in embroidery work free if the materials are purchased at the store, and it is well to find out how to do the work from a professional.

The New Magazine for Women.

The Munsey Publishing company issued the first number of their new woman's magazine this month. The magazine is called Woman and deals with subjects of interest to the feminine world; there are no pictures nor fashion notes however. Among the special articles are "The Woe of Woman," "The Lonely Life," the story of an old maid, and "Woman's Progress." The magazine will make a specialty of good, readable short stories, and the first issue contains two serials, one complete novel and several short stories that are very good. Among the miscellaneous articles are a number of interesting things, especially the one on "Queer Trades for Women." The magazine as a whole is printed on paper on which it is impossible to read the print. Mr. Munsey should know that no matter how valuable the reading matter may be few people will study their magazines trying to read poorly printed pages at a time when other equally readable magazines are printed on good, smooth white paper.

The Nose of Beauty and Character.

Some people notice a person's eyes first, while others will notice some other facial feature, but all whether consciously or unconsciously, are affected by the shape of the nose. Beauty doctors are begged to change the shape and are promised enormous sums to make a nose of beauty. The tip tilted nose seems to be especially American, and really there is no other nose as bewitching as one that ever so slightly points heavenward. Girls with noses of this type are always good-natured and ready to take things as they are; they are never lacking in a keen sense of humor. The bushy nose and also the long aquiline nose, and also beware of the woman who has a short, sharp nose. Many women have noses that look better in profile and should remember to always have their picture taken in profile. It is quite an art to know how to get the best view of a face, and photographers make a study of faces in order to get the best view possible. Women with long noses should always tilt the head backward and those with short noses should look down, as this makes the nose appear longer.

Stuffed Peppers.

Parboil sweetbread, cool and cut into small cubes; there should be one cupful. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls of flour, and pour in gradually, while stirring constantly, half a cupful of chicken stock; then add two tablespoonfuls of heavy cream and one third of a cupful of mushroom caps broken into small pieces, season with salt, paprika and Worcestershire sauce. Cut a slice from the stem end of six green peppers, remove the seeds, parboil for 15 minutes and drain. Cool, fill with sweetbread mixture, cover with buttered crumbs, and bake until the crumbs are brown. Break the stems of mushrooms, cover with cold water, and cook slowly for 20 minutes. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add a few

REPRESENTATIVE AUDIENCE HEAR EATON SPEAK

Christian Scientist Makes Excellent Impression by His Talk at the Hellig Theatre.

Under the auspices of the First and Second churches of Christ, Scientist, of this city, Clarence C. Eaton, of Tacoma, a member of the board of lecturers from the First church at Boston, last night gave an interesting lecture before a representative audience at the Hellig theatre. Dr. Eaton, in opening his remarks, held that it was not important for the discussion or acceptance of Christian Science whether or not the belief agrees with the old theological schools. The need of the present time is a religion that is satisfying to the masses of the people, one that is practical and healing, one that gives to the worshiper the sustaining bread of life and not the stony of ecclesiasticism. The speaker denied that the tenets of Christian science were akin to those of the so-called faith-healing, spiritualistic or hypnotic cults. The teachings of Christian science, he said, do not hinge upon the influence of one mind over another. There is no mesmeric influence exerted through the so-called influence of one human will over another.

Christian science, the speaker contended, is founded on the authority and teachings of the sacred scriptures, and he contended that it was possible for him to show by the Bible, that all of the tenets of the faith were authorized and outlined in the writings of the books of the Bible.

The lecturer contended that the cause of all human ills was not disease of the flesh, but corruption of the mind and sin. He maintained that Christ in his treatment of the sick had never given material medicine. He held that when the carnal mind of man causes bodily ills through its effect upon the body the correct remedy was not a potion to work upon the result, the fleshly illness, but upon the cause, the mental foundation for the disease. In removing the result of an affliction it were best, the speaker contended, to seek the root of the trouble, rather than the blossom.

Dr. Eaton was introduced to the audience by Judge G. J. Haynes of Portland. He was given an enthusiastic reception, and made a good impression on his

CURE WINTER COUGH.
J. E. Gover, 101 N. Main St., Ottawa, Kan., writes: "Every fall it has been my wife's trouble to catch a severe cold, and therefore to cough all winter long. Last fall I got her a bottle of Ballard's Sore-throat Syrup. She used it and has been able to sleep soundly all night long. Whenever the cough troubles her, two or three doses stops the cough, and she is able to be up and well. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Woodward, Clarke & Co."

hearers. Dr. Eaton is a speaker who is able to please his audience and at the same time to call into being its full reasoning power for the consideration of the subject which he has under discussion.
