

DOVE OF PEACE MAY ALIGHT

Striking Grainhandlers and Exporters May Come to Terms This Evening and Men Return to Their Work on Monday

The dove of peace is hovering over the waterfront this afternoon. And the chances that it may alight are looking large. It is quite possible that the grainhandlers may return to work Monday morning and that the strike, which has now been in existence for just 30 days, may be declared off.

The third meeting between the attorneys of the grainhandlers and the committee representing the Exporters' association, which was held yesterday afternoon, resulted in no agreement as to a basis for arbitration. Nevertheless, the plan was not wholly abandoned. It was determined to try once more to have a general meeting on the waterfront and to effect a settlement by peaceful means. To this end it was thought that a conference between the union committee and the various managers of the docks on the other might be productive of some result.

The exporters' committee and the union's attorneys found it absolutely impossible to agree; the matter was therefore passed up to the managers of the docks and the union committee. These parties met at 1:30 this morning and remained in session until late this afternoon. While there were differences which were stubbornly debated by both sides, reports from the meeting indicate that the grainhandlers and their employers are nearer to an agreement than ever before and that the chances are about even that they may arrive at a settlement before adjournment.

Though the proceedings of the conference are secret, it is rumored that a proposition has been made by the union committee to accept the conditions as laid down by the exporters immediately before the walkout a month ago. That is that the unionists go back to work in a body and sign an agreement with the exporters to work for 35 cents an hour for the next year. If the strike is settled on this basis it will mean that the union has lost out on the strike. The exporters, however, are said to be loath to even come to these terms, as they would entail the discharge of the 100 odd strike-breakers now at work on the docks.

The conditions on the waterfront are exactly the same as they have been for the past three days. There is stagnation of business in the shipping line and all along the waterfront. The refusal of the longshoremen to load or unload deep sea vessels or any vessels in which Brown & McCabe, boss shipper, are interested, has been strictly adhered to and the majority of the shipping has been tied up. The riggers and liners have now added their strength and are refusing to work on vessels classified as "unfair." The stevedores are now not only refusing to haul grain away from the warehouses, but have extended the labor dispute to the cement docks and all other docks in which the exporters are interested.

No new moves are being made on either side, as all interested are awaiting the decision of the conference now in session. Though there is no certainty of an agreement, the prospects of an agreement are brighter than ever before. If there is no agreement, both sides will at once begin to prepare for a more extensive fight than ever.

SAME NAME, SAME COLOR OF HAIR AND TROUBLE FOLLOWS

Were it not for the serious nature of the criminal charge involved the case of two red-haired Portland men of the same name who lined up at the same restaurant and had an appointment at the same hour at the People's institute yesterday, which reached a sensational climax at police headquarters late yesterday afternoon, would furnish excellent material for a farce from the pen of a De Souchet.

J. C. Walker, a contractor of 125 East Twenty-eighth street, visited police headquarters yesterday afternoon with his daughter, Edna Walker, a waitress employed in a restaurant at Third and Ankeny streets, and informed Captain Brin that a man named McDaniel had entered his daughter's apartment and made an attack on her.

The young woman said that the man had red hair, his name was McDaniel, and had stated in the presence of one of her friends that he had an appointment at the Men's resort at Fourth and Burnside street at 2:30 p. m. Walker, in passing the restaurant where McDaniel usually dined, saw a man with a shock of red hair sitting at a table. When the man left the place he followed him to the People's institute reading-rooms and then rushed off to police headquarters.

Chief clerk John Maloney, who is the only available plain clothes man in the station, and he was detailed to make the arrest. His prisoner, characterized by an arrest as an outrage and gave his name as Newton M. McDaniel. Upon order of District Attorney Manning ball was fixed at 1:00, which the police may immediately furnish. The irate father refused to believe McDaniel's statement that it was a case of mistaken identity, until his daughter arrived. The young woman immediately testified that the man under arrest was not her assailant, and then Walker wilted.

He was profuse in his apologies, but McDaniel refused to accept them, and threatened to bring a damage suit for false arrest.

Newton N. McDaniel is well and favorably known in this city. He formerly conducted a grocery at 311 Seventeenth street but at present he is engaged in the real estate business and resides with his family at 315 North Twenty-second street.

The man accused for the assault, according to Miss Walker, was considerably younger than McDaniel, and the police acting on the theory that he has fled to Seattle have wired the authorities there to be on the watch for the offender.

CHINAMAN IS PREVENTED FROM MARRYING WOOD CHOPPER IS INJURED BY OWN AX

White Girl Who Would Be Bride of Mongolian Must Get Court Order. Nelson Abrahamson May Lose Use of Leg as Result of Accident.

Vancouver, Wash., Oct. 29.—Consternation reigns in Vancouver Chinatown. There is deep mourning and it is said every Chinese here threatens to leave this city because of an alleged wrong done one of their number by Country Auditor Burnham yesterday.

It happened something like this: Yesterday forenoon a Chinese named Roy Min, along with three other Chinese, happened to be passing the office and requested a license to wed. The auditor inquired who the lady to the affair was and her name was given as Ella Spence, a white girl. Her age was asked and it was given as 32 years. In the meantime the Chinese jabbered away to themselves and when it came to signing the application as a witness Al Cox, commonly known around town as "Pansula," signed it in native characters.

This was too much for the auditor, who refused to go further with the affair. He told the would-be bride couple that any one so old as she was should know better than to endeavor to do what they were trying to do and that if they wanted a license they would have to get an order from the court. This was not the answer that they sought, and he knew the law and that a white person and a Chinese were permitted to marry in this state.

On account of the law in this state allowing the marriage of persons of different races numerous couples thus desiring to be husband and wife come here from surrounding places.

POLICE TOLD OF ASSAULT ON GIRL

Domestic Attacked Last Night on Clay Street Between Tenth and Eleventh. Policeman J. J. Maloney today reported an assault on a young girl which occurred on Clay street between 10 and 11 o'clock last night. The girl, who is employed as a domestic on Clay street somewhere between Tenth and Eleventh, stopped from a Thirteenth street car and started to walk down Clay. As she was passing an apartment house in that vicinity a man jumped out from a janitor's door in the house and grabbed her by the throat.

Her assailant placed one of his knees on her breast and cried, "I've got you at last, but on getting a closer look at the girl's features he released her, saying, "Big pardner, I got the wrong woman." The girl was very badly scared and had some black marks around her throat where the ruffian clutched her.

D. W. P. SAID TO BE BACK OF NEW PROJECT

Loss Company Made Survey for Railroad Along Abernethy Two Months Ago. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Oregon City, Oct. 29.—J. D. Ryan of Portland, who for the past three months has been at work securing a right of way for an electric railway between Canemah and Salem and for an extension of this line from Canby to Willits Springs, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Ryan in company with officials of the C. E. Loss Construction company, will go over the right of way to Molalla early next week.

It was learned today that the survey made about two months ago along the Abernethy was done under the direction of the Loss Construction company. This may be construed to mean that the proposed road to Molalla and Willits Springs may start from the north end of this city and go over the hill extending out in the neighborhood of Beaver Creek or possibly running south to New Era station in Molalla.

While authentic information is not at hand it is generally understood that the Oregon Water Power & Railway company and its allied interests, including Mayor M. E. Conner, the Portland General Electric company, is behind the project. Mr. Ryan, who is obtaining right of way agreements in the name of Alex. Sweet, trustee, is apparently retaining the services of Mayor M. E. Conner in the matter, but it is believed that the early construction of the Molalla line is a reasonable certainty.

Just what the intentions of the company are in relation to the survey up the Abernethy cannot be determined. It is whispered, however, that before many months the Oregon Water Power & Railway company will announce its plans and secure additional privileges to what it already has for transporting freight cars over Main street in this city. The company made a strong effort last winter to secure additional franchises in and after considerable ill feeling had been created the franchise ordinance, which was passed by the city council in the face of violent opposition, was vetoed by Mayor Conner. The ordinance, which is now in the hands of the railway company, has changed hands since that time and the present officials of the road are not at words points with the present municipal government, and it is possible that a two-fold effort to obtain a freight franchise might be favorably considered.

MURDERER HOSE IS ARRAIGNED

Will Be Allowed to Plead Monday and Have an Immediate Trial. If the plans of District Attorney Manning are followed the administration of justice in the case of Henry Hoise, who murdered Madge Wilson, alias Doyle, yesterday morning, will be the speediest in the history of the courts of Oregon. Hoise was arraigned before Judge Sears in the circuit court this afternoon and formally charged with the crime of murder in the first degree.

District Attorney Manning asked Judge Sears to hold a jury, as he desires that Hoise's trial begin next Tuesday. Hoise was asked if he had a lawyer. He said he had not, and had no means to employ one. Judge Sears then appointed W. Weston and J. Sullivan to defend the accused murderer.

Hoise was brought into court handcuffed. The handcuffs were removed from his wrists before Judge Sears entered the courtroom. While waiting for the judge to appear, Hoise sat in a chair between Sheriff Stevens and Deputy Sheriff Beatty, trembling like a leaf. When Hoise became nervous he protested against being handcuffed with violence. During the reading of the indictment he stood beside District Attorney Manning with bent head and the prosecuting attorney from the county jail. He was taken to the courtroom immediately after the arraignment. It was arranged that he should be arraigned on Monday.

James Flanagan Has All Sorts of Hard Luck in One Afternoon. James Flanagan, a crippled vendor of shoeshines, was knocked down by a street car at Third and Pine streets this afternoon. Patrolman Anderson, who was passing, dispersed the crowd that gathered and assisted Flanagan to his feet.

Flanagan took exception to this, and ended his resentment by striking the policeman with one of his crutches. Anderson arrested the cripple and took him to the police station, but not without an energetic fight. Flanagan was booked on a charge of assaulting an officer.

Hober, then rushed over to the jury and shook each of them by the hand and thanked them for the verdict. The verdict, which was read from the jury box, was: Cramer's trial has occupied Judge Cleland and a jury in the circuit court for three days. It was shown during the trial that Cramer had a policy of insurance on his furniture on May 31 of this year and that the house was burned on June 2. # CRIMINAL MIGHT HAVE INSPECTED AT KLAHATH BY MAJOR LANE

California Man Secures Work in Reclamation Service Under Assumed Name. Patrolmen Hold Review in Army and Don Their Winter Uniforms. W. F. Hall Jumped Thousand-Dollar Bond Put Up by Friends in Placerville and Took Refuge in Southern Oregon. Mayor Says That They Deserve More Salary. Commends the Men on Their Neat Appearance and Discipline and Says He Will Recommend More Pay in His Budget.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Klamath Falls, Oct. 30.—W. F. Hall, alias W. F. Parks, wanted at Placerville, California, for assault to commit murder, was arrested by Sheriff Obenshain and Marshal Smith at the First National bank Thursday, while presenting a check to be cashed. His friends at Placerville, to secure his release from custody on the above named charge, put up bonds for $1,000, which he jumped, writing back to his friends to know any reward was offered for his capture, promising to refund the amount of his bonds, and requesting them to address him here as W. F. Parks. This letter was forwarded to Sheriff Obenshain.

Hall, who had been working for the reclamation service and given his name to Disbursing Agent C. C. Hogue as Parks, had received a check for the amount due, and when he endorsed the check he forgot and signed his real name, W. F. Hall, and at this juncture the officers stepped in and, having been warned that he was a dangerous man, put him in irons and led him to jail, where he awaits the California officers and requisition papers.

The New American Bank & Trust company opened for business as contemplated Monday morning, and deposits have run much higher than was expected, and with the increase of business all lines of the three banks will doubtless do as well as the two have since the second was started, and as well as the old Klamath County bank did when it was in the field.

Early this afternoon the coldest of the season, the thermometer registering 1 degree below freezing, and the few people who have apple orchards are rushing the picking, and are gathering the large number of boxes for the season. Thousands of acres in this county are adapted to apple and pear growing, and this very profitable industry will be greatly extended in the near future.

One hundred and twenty acres of reclaimed tule or marsh land, on the Evan Reames ranch near the city, priced at $200 per acre, the largest parcel of the kind in this county, is ready for sale. The first crop will pay for the land and a high rate of interest to those who can afford to wait for a return on their investment.

The mayor, in his address commended the men upon their appearance and neatness and also for the proficiency which they had gained in the discharge of their duty. He said they were as well organized and as well drilled a body of men as guarded the peace of any city, in his knowledge and that the mayor's commendation of the city was due in great measure to their vigilance.

Deserve More Money, Says Mayor. Continuing the mayor stated that he considered the men to be of great value to the city and that knowing all members of the force as a rule, he considered them to be deserving of more money than was now paid by the city. He would, he said, recommend to the city council in his next annual budget that a sweeping increase in wages be made to affect the whole force. Personally, he said, he considered this to be a desirable thing to do in a month and while he would recommend or suggest no specific amount he would ask for a substantial increase. The mayor suggested that in view of this course he would expect every man to give to the city as much in service as he received in wages. He called on them to go their duty and fulfill their contract as a condition of their stay in the city.

At the conclusion of the review in the army the mayor and his party held a short review of the mounted squad in the street outside, after which the entire company was taken to the central station. The inspection was the semi-annual dress parade and inspection, the other one occurring in the spring when the men changed their heavy winter uniforms for the lighter ones for summer wear.

WASHINGTON ASYLUM RECORDS ARE MIXED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 29.—Superintendent Calhoun, of the state insane asylum at Steilacoom, has earned the reputation of reuniting and bringing the dead to life. A few days ago he discharged two persons as cured whom the records of the institution show to have died nearly 10 years ago.

When he had accomplished this feat it set the superintendent thinking and he ordered an investigation of the records of the institution. He found in the books of so gross a character that he is almost criminal. The record shows that people have been admitted to the asylum, who were seyer in the institution, and who were known to be still alive, that others are alive who died many years ago, and taken in all they present such a jumble that Dr. Calhoun says it will take months before they can be straightened out and the real truth found out relative to many of the patients.
