On the Boys' Team. Of the boys' team, Donald Yantis, center on last year's high school team at Salem, is doing excellent work in that position on the local team, as are also Foster and Benson, former players on the two State Agricultural College and Sprites of last year's second team are still in the game, and although most of the second team did not return this year, the places will be filled by good men. Among those who are making a good showing in the daily practice now in progress are Watts and McGinnis of Corvallis, Hamilton of Burns, Hamilton of Portland, Jetties of Nome and Walling.

COLLEGE CONTESTS IN EASTERN GRIDIRONS

Princeton Beats Cornell and Pennsy Gose Down Before the Carlisle Indians.

(Special Dispatch by Leased Wire to The Journal.) New York, Oct. 27.—Thirty thousand people saw a superb game of football this afternoon when the Princeton Tigers and the Cornell eleven lined up. Princeton won 13 to 6, but Cornell was not disgraced. The Ithacans seemed to better in the way of trick plays and their line bucking was more effective than that of the Tigers.

West Point, Oct. 27.—In the last few minutes of play and by a lucky kick of an attempted kick for goal from the field, Harvard made a touchdown against West Point this afternoon, the only score in the game. Burr failed to kick the goal, and the final score was 5 to 0.

Naval Academy, Md., Oct. 27.—The Naval academy football team were able only to hold the heavy Bucknell team to a scoreless game this afternoon. The game was very largely a punting duel between St. Reginus and the midshipmen and Clark for Bucknell.

Yale Down Amherst. New Haven, Conn., Oct. 27.—Yale had a stiff struggle to beat Amherst, score 13 to 6, today, and twice Amherst came within an ace of kicking a field goal. Yale scored a touchdown in each half.

Old Pennsy Be Scolded. Philadelphia, Oct. 27.—The University of Pennsylvania's cup of bitterness was filled today when the Carlisle Indians overwhelmed the Quakers by the score of 14 to 6.

Always hoping to catch up and turn the tide of battle in their favor, the heavier Quakers fought savagely.

STATE CHAMPIONSHIP WILL BE SETTLED

Portland and Baker City High Schools Will Clash on Thanksgiving.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Baker City, Or., Oct. 27.—The football championship of Oregon high schools will be decided at Baker City this year, and the game that finally determines which eleven shall wear the laurels will be played on Thanksgiving day on the local gridiron between Portland and Baker high school elevens.

This fact was settled upon this morning, when Professor Churchill, who is superintendent of the high school has the management of the local organization, received from the authorities at Portland the signed contract for the game to be played in this city. The news was hailed with delight by lovers of the game in Baker, for it brings to this city one of the events in football for the season of 1906 in the state.

Next in importance to the Portland game is the game scheduled to take place in Portland between Baker and Eugene, but on account of the heavy expense of taking the two teams to a strange city to play the game, it is thought, as the contract has not yet been signed, Baker has a number of games scheduled for this season and under the management of Coach Nicholson, who is the expert, he expects to win the pennant on Thanksgiving day.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Forest Grove, Or., Oct. 27.—Manager Sparks of the Pacific university football team has just completed arrangements for a game with the Oregon Agricultural college to be played at Corvallis on Saturday, November 3. No game was scheduled for today, so that the men would be in the best of condition for the game next week. Good team work and new plays in taking most of the time of the team every evening. The second team has been doing some good strong work against the first. The team which will represent Pacific will be a strong one. Lawrence, the giant guard, has returned to school and the rosters are feeling jubilant over the prospects. A crowd of backers is expected to join the team on the trip.

PACIFIC GROVE "VARSITY TO TRY CORVALLIS

Ollie Snedigar failed to qualify for the 100-yard dash in the semi-finals, taking third place, in 1:01.5. Neither Parsons nor Kelley competed. Snedigar's failure to qualify was a disappointment to Californians.

One hundred and twelve athletes competed in the meet. The results follow: 100-yard dash—Anderson, Olympic; time 1:01.5. 220-yard dash—McCaughey, Alameda; time 2:33. 440-yard dash and 880-yard run—Smith, Olympic; time 1:50, 4:50 2-5. MILITARY DEFEATS MARSHALL WELLS TEAM

Sturdy Cadet Eleven Walks Away From Hardware Men in a One-Sided Game.

(Continued from Page Ten.) The Whitman college team pit skill and strength against each other. We were all interested. How the game proceeds, I will let another tell. I shall be too much enthused to write of that.

"But why the tremendous interest in football," is the question you want me to answer. Well, because we all appreciate a manlike game for men. It is a test, a trial and a developer of physical force; and the physical is the foundation of the mental and moral. Of what value is a man's mind or his high ideal, if there be no body to back their efforts? The pale and nervous student breathing pure air in a room poisoned by the smoking wick of the midnight lamp is not a man. The student man with bodies as well as souls. The world's work requires brawn and bones. The reason the lions didn't eat Daniel was because he was all back bone.

"But isn't it a mere brute force?" Well, that is a very important force. One element of society has enough struggle in the battle for bread to keep it strong and comfortable. The students and office men tend to niceness. They are at first gentle and pliant and then without some struggle to keep them manly, they become so soft-handed and so lovely as to be almost ladylike.

Men need masculine employment. If they can not find it in their work, they should seek it in their sport. Football gives them their chance. "Yes; but some times college students are killed on the field." It is better that a few students should be killed than that a million should be killed. The colleges should dump out on society, calling in its thousands departments for men, a crop of duds, dandies and misers. The American boy, high or low, rich or poor, who trains for football, does not come out of college a ninny.

The moral teachings of the game are good. It keeps the body in exercise and makes the mind alert. The vices must be cut out during training and playing—no smoking, no drinking, no other detrimental vices permitted. The young men who are training for the game will find it pays to live the high life for their contests of all their days.

"But doesn't it cause a fight?" Yes, and all life is a battle of daily contests, and one who will not fight for the right is no good. The mother who told her boy he could learn to swim if he would not learn to swim, and the father who wants his son to be a man and never fight, are both out of date.

"But is it pious?" Whatever makes men manly is good for men. A religion that does not make men manly is not good for men. The religion that requires us to contend earnestly for the faith, and the life of the world and apostles was summed up in saying: "I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith" against all comers, has made reformers, soldiers, patriots, martyrs and missionaries who have changed the world from the whole world and pioneer better days. The Christ who with reference to personal slights said, "If they strike thee on the cheek, turn to him the other also"—in other words, pay no attention to mere personal slights—was a terrific fighter when his cause was involved. He denounced Pharisees and scribes in the temple, and in the synagogues, and with a whip of ropes lashed the money changers who profaned the temple. His religion makes fighters still.

May the blessings of God and his matchless Son, the Captain of our Salvation, come upon all the football men of our loved country, and lead them to conquer their strength, their clear eyes, hard muscles, alert minds and vigorous activity to the destruction of their country's foes, the reform of the world, the betterment of the lives of the good of men, and the glory of God. They have the manliness and are getting the training to do it.

I have faith in the big stalwarts, and I believe that the great men of the world are good judges of men. "Manly men" is the aim of religion, education and all improvement. And the people who are trying to find anything to do with the world, the good of men, and the glory of God, are the good of men, and the glory of God.

MISS NELSON GIVES UP HER FIGHT FOR OFFICE

Pretty Society Girl Decides to Quit the Game of Politics.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Moscow, Idaho, Oct. 27.—Judge Denning, counsel for Miss Nelson, the treasurer of Kendrick, today wrote to his client advising her to turn over the treasurer's books to her successor. Miss Nelson resisted the proceeding and the case went through the probate, district and supreme courts.

Recently before the supreme court application was made for an order to compel District Judge Steele to try the case by jury. The application was refused. A demand was then made by the Kendrick authorities for the books, but the demand was refused. This was followed by an application citing Miss Nelson for contempt of court.

The case was in this latter condition when Judge Denning today wrote to his client advising the surrendering of the books.

EDWARDS' POSITION OVER CHARGES

Alleged That Major Edwards Has Used His Position to Disadvantage of Indians and for His Private Benefit.

Pendleton is deeply stirred over the charges which have been made and the disclosure which are alleged in the controversy between a number of the business men on the one side and Major O. C. Edwards, agent of the Umatilla Indian reservation, and W. L. Thompson, cashier of the Commercial National bank, on the other.

It is alleged in general that Major Edwards has used his position as agent of the reservation to the hurt and disadvantage of the Indians, who are his wards, and to the people of Pendleton, who have business dealings with them, and that W. L. Thompson, the banker, has been appointed guardian of the Indians by Edwards and has used his position to coerce business men into dealings with his bank to the bias of their previous commercial arrangements.

The trouble dates back several months to the time that Edwards appointed Thompson guardian of all the minor Indians on the reservation, and gave it into his power to pass upon all business dealings in which these estates were concerned.

Major Edwards has had a story career since his advent as agent of the reservation, and the present trouble is the logical result of his course of action. Under the old custom the Indians of the reservation were allowed to lease their lands to whom they pleased, the agent merely ratifying the transaction. When the Indian needed money he drew upon his lease, Edwards, under a ruling of the Indian department, put a stop to this system. He made all the leases and stipulated that all money should be paid to him as trustee. He forbade any advance to be made to the Indians, and who have never been known to be held personally responsible for all bills run by them. He also provided that he was to say whether or not a prospective lessee could have land from the Indians, and further that no man could not farm more than one section of land unless given special permission by the agent as a person especially fitted to deal honestly with his Indian landlords. These rulings caused a great deal of friction when they were promulgated, the business men complaining that one of things was unjust to them and after the appointment of Thompson the rumors began to assume a more serious aspect.

Edwards, since assuming his office, has transacted all his banking business through the Commercial National bank. When the granting of leases and the transfer of lands began to be of some magnitude and the rumors began to circulate, Thompson as the "Godfather" of the Indians on the reservation, Thompson was the custodian of all the Indian money accruing from rental, sale of stock or from any source. He was the arbiter in lease-making and could say as guardian of an Indian whether or not an applicant could have land and how much. In other words, he had the control of the Indian's financial affairs.

It is now charged that Thompson forced lessees, or prospective renters, to transfer their accounts to his bank before he would consider their applications for new land or ratify their old leases. He went among the business men of the city and threatened that, unless they traded with his bank, he would see to it that their Indian business, which is quite a Pendleton factor, would go elsewhere.

It is also alleged that strange things have been done in the leasing of Indian lands. These lands are supposed to be let to the highest bidder. It is now charged that in many cases lands were leased to one Emil Mathes, and other bidders, who have never been seen to exist. It is alleged that these bidders were dummy lessees, the lands being bid in by the officials for their own use and benefit.

Altogether the matter is assuming large proportions and the people of Pendleton and Umatilla county are eagerly awaiting the outcome.

MAKE ATTEMPT TO BURN CZAR

Two Men Reported to Have Approached Palace at Peterhof with Bomb.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) St. Petersburg, Oct. 27.—It has been indistinctly rumored here today that an attempt has been made to assassinate the czar, but it has been impossible to get anything like a verification. According to one report two men were arrested on board a steamer proceeding in Peterhof yesterday with a bomb and hurried away to prison. This is denied by the authorities, but it is generally believed by the police.

The Rome correspondent, after putting forth several signs that show the archbishop of New York is a prime favorite at the Vatican, says: "On the whole, one need not be a prophet to be able to predict that St. Patrick's cathedral will be solemnly consecrated by a cardinal archbishop of New York on the occasion of the centenary jubilee celebration of his diocese."

"When Cardinal Gibbons was created a little more than 20 years ago the church in the United States occupied a position of far less prominence than it does today. There were fewer bishops, fewer priests and several million fewer persons, and the Catholic body was less compactly organized.

"The great change that has taken place in the United States during these 20 years is one of the reasons for the appointment of another American cardinal. It might be taken for certain, therefore, that another American cardinal will be created in the near future, perhaps in the next consistory. But who will it be?"

Stefan succeeded in wresting the revolver from the man's grasp and for half an hour the two men engaged in a desperate struggle while Mrs. Stefan ran to a neighborly ranch for assistance.
