American Reaches Point Farther North Than Any Hitherto Reached by Explorer.

HAS NARROW ESCAPE IN ICE FROM STARVATION

Eats Eight Dogs to Save Himself—Letter Received From Explorer Indicates That He Is on His Way Back to United States.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
New York, Nov. 2.—The following message was received last night from Commander R. E. Peary by H. L. Bridgeman, secretary of the Peary Arctic club, showing that the American explorer had reached the farthest point north of any explorer:

Hearst States That Secretary of State Is Attorney of Many of the Trusts.

FOUR MEN TESTIFIED ROOT BRIBED THEM

Incurred Croker's Enmity by Driving Ice Trust Mayor Out of Office—Publisher Proud of the Enemies He Has Made.

(Journal Special Service.)
New York, Nov. 2.—Bryson enthusiastically reached the top notch in the campaign yesterday and welcomed William Randolph Hearst in a series of the greatest and most demonstrative meetings he has ever addressed there. In every hall he visited great crowds rose en masse to greet him. Hearty words of encouragement were shouted from all sides. At closing nights of the campaign the enthusiasm seems to have been redoubled in force.

It was remarked too that Hearst promptly caught the wraith of the audience. His voice had improved overnight. His fresh spirit was in evidence in his manner. Spirit and dash characterized his deliverances. He plunged into the final meetings with a fighting spirit that sent his audiences into transports of enthusiasm.
So far as the counties up state are concerned the campaign for governor is practically closed. Mr. Hearst ended his tour two days ago and Mr. Hughes is now closing his fight here. From now until election day both nominees will devote their entire attention to greater New York.

Whitman Wins.

After seven months of meetings in Manhattan, Mr. Hearst last night invaded Brooklyn and Queens. He was whirled from meeting to meeting as fast as a powerful motor car could carry him, attending 13 great gatherings and everywhere was met with the wildest kind of enthusiasm. Huge crowds gathered to see and hear him, and thousands of voters faithfully cheer themselves hoarse.

Mr. Hearst is very hoarse and tired but is bearing up wonderfully considering the terrible strain which has been upon him for several weeks. He seems more confident than ever, and his audiences here was sure he would be swept into office by not less than 500,000 plurality. His supporters say he is an extremely conservative.

One of the chief topics yesterday was Root's speech in Utica Thursday night. The general impression is that it has done Hughes more harm than good. The same opinion was expressed in Croker's cablegram to McCarran. This view was voiced by Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany hall.

Attacks Croker and Root.

In his speeches Mr. Hearst said: "The question of right is right by Mr. Croker, who claimed to represent Democracy, and Mr. Root, who claimed to represent Republicanism. I know nothing about either man, ever and in every audience he was sure he would be swept into office by not less than 500,000 plurality. His supporters say he is an extremely conservative."

HUGHES IN CITY

Republican Candidate Returns from Speaking Tour of the State.

New York, Nov. 2.—Back last night from his third up-state tour, Charles E. Hughes, Republican candidate for governor, plunged into the local fight and between 8 o'clock and midnight addressed three meetings in Pendleton. While Mr. Hughes had been away from home, Republican supporters here had kept the political pot-boiling with the usual result. Large target and more demonstrative crowds than before turned out to hear the candidate.

Contest for Men, Women, Boys and Girls

Below is a Correct Reading of the Sparks of Truth Rung From the Anvil of Experience.

Walnut Park is the choicest resident property in Portland with cement sidewalks and curbs. Building restrictions. No shacks or stores can be built for a period of 20 years. Good homes or none. Best car service in city. Only 15 minutes from the new business center. Price, $20 a front foot.

A large number of answers have been received from city and state. The committee found only two correct—Jesse Julius Maxwell of Lewis and Clark, 1022 Missouri Ave. Checks have been forwarded. If the contestants had read my display ad "New York City future Portland" they would have had no trouble in giving a correct answer.

I have made many bold, truthful statements; one most prominent that "Walnut Park, between the rivers, was only 15 minutes from Portland's business center." Each day that center is growing closer; hence the word "now" would have been more easily disposed of. I desire to state that in the future it will pay you to take the word of W. M. Killingsworth's advertisements, for you will ever find food in them for reflection.

Following are a few samples of letters received:

"For a Portland resident, the best business period in 20 years is now. The price of property in Walnut Park, the center, with cement sidewalks and curbs, only $20 a front foot; car service—15 minutes from city. Building restrictions, no shacks or stores—none, and good stores—no shacks can be built."

"Walnut Park is the choicest resident building property in Portland. Best 20-minute car service from the city. Price, $20 a front foot. Restriction for a period of 20 years. No shacks or stores can be built in the business center. Only good homes or none, with cement sidewalks and curbs."

"Walnut Park, the center. Best resident site in Portland for a period of years. The price of the choicest business property is only $20 a front foot. Good stores or homes, with cement sidewalks and curbs. 15-20-minute car service from the city. Building shacks—none can be built. No restrictions."

"Walnut Park is the best, the choicest residence property with restrictions in Portland. The price now for homes, only $20 a front foot. 15 minutes car service from the city. Good car service. Cement walks and curbs. No business buildings or stores or shacks—none can be built in a 20-year period."

"The choicest property or best business center in Portland for stores or homes is in Walnut Park. 20-minute car service from the city. Good cement sidewalks with curbs. The only building restrictions. No shacks, and none can be built. Resident a period of 15 years. Price now $20 a front foot."

By all means visit now Walnut Park. You will find a number of fine homes under course of construction, two cement contractors at work, gas mains being laid; also Bull Run water pipe being laid direct from reservoir. This is no idle talk or boast. Walnut Park is now and will forever remain the choicest residence property in the city of Portland, and will command the highest price values of any property in the city. of alkali dust had marred their distinctness. And they were interesting despite the fact that Larry Sullivan did his best to monopolize the camera and Pete Grant, who understood Larry's maneuvers better than the rest, made a big "four-flush" in front of the lens. Larry is the whole show for a time, and Pete waits for a quiet moment before drawing the attention of the crowd to himself. The show probably would lose none of its interest if the two apparent efforts of doughy ex-Fortlanders to divert attention to themselves were eliminated.

But the pictures of the fight are good. It shows the lively mixture of the two game lads during the first part of the historic struggle, and shows the monotonous rounds of butting and clinching that followed. It also shows what was told in the papers that Nelson forced the fighting from the first and did some very dubious work towards the last. The crowd is distinctly mixed and it is indeed a crowd. Tier on tier of anxious faces stretching far back from the arena are seen, and even the moments of dejection or hope are depicted on their countenances. There was a fairly good percentage of women in the big audience that Walnut Park Labor Day contest and there were a few at the Heilig last night.

Before the fight began, pictures of scenes about Goldfield, including some of the famous mines, were shown. The pictures are well worth seeing. The picture was crowded last night. They will be shown again tonight at 8:30.
