SHIPMENTS OF WHEAT AND FLOUR TIED UP BY SHORTAGE OF CARS

Milling Firms Face Perilous Position and Flour Famine May Result in Portland—Interior Millers Cannot Buy or Sell for Immediate Shipment—Apples and Hops Tied up

Not a barrel of flour or sack of wheat can be purchased or sold by interior millers for immediate shipment on account of the shortage of cars. One milling firm of the Pacific northwest has purchased upwards of 1,000,000 bushels of wheat in Oregon and Washington this far this season but, although it wants to buy more, cannot do so because it has already tied up nearly $2,000,000 of its funds.

"We have a very good credit," says one of these millers, "but of course there is a limit to everything. We have reached the end of our rope as far as the buying of wheat is concerned. We cannot buy more at this time because we have already spent more money than we should. What's the use of buying wheat at good prices and then not being able to move it. When we buy we are forced to take care of it as soon as it is delivered to the mill. We are paying out immense sums of money for storage charges on wheat that we need in our business. We have paid a large part of this wheat to other parties but cannot get our money until it is delivered. We can neither buy nor sell at this time."

GIRL DIES BECAUSE LOVER BIT HER ON WRIST

Pretty Hilda Porter Warns Merry Party of Friends She is Going to Commit Suicide.

(Journal Special Service.) Marion, O., Nov. 5.—In the presence of a gathering at the home of Ernest Farrell, Miss Hilda Porter, aged 19, announced that she was going to commit suicide. She then locked herself in a room and cried: "I am going to do it now." "Go ahead, we are waiting," returned somebody from the porch, thinking Miss Porter was fooling. Opening the door the girl swallowed a dram and a half of carbolic acid in view of the men and women on the porch and fell to the floor.

COURT DECLARES THE DEAD WAS DISHONEST

(Journal Special Service.) Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 5.—The court this morning decided that Captain Fabst, the famous brewer, before his death had illegally transferred to his heirs $4,000,000. The executors were ordered to pay into the state treasury the inheritance tax of about $150,000.

Journal Will Flash First News of New York Election

Election returns from all parts of the country will be received by The Journal tomorrow evening and bulletins will be displayed by stereopticon. Inasmuch as interest centers largely in the outcome of the titanic struggle between Hearst and Hughes, the results of the New York election will be made known by an immense flashlight from the top of The Journal building. These flashlight signals will be visible all over the city and for many miles beyond the city limits. Explanation of the signals will be made in tomorrow's Journal. For the earliest, best and most reliable election returns, read The Journal bulletins and watch for The Journal flashlight.

MURDERER HOSE FACING TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE

Jury Being Picked to Hear Evidence Against Man Accused of Brutally Murdering Madge Doyle in North End Lodging-House in October Last.

Henry Hose, the murderer of Madge Doyle, slouched into Judge Gantenbein's department of the circuit court this morning to listen to the selection of the jurors who will decide upon the manner of his own fate. Hose is the ex-soldier who, on October 19, nearly beheaded his sweetheart with a razor because she threatened to cease supporting him.

Sixteen days' confinement in the county jail with subsistence on contract fare has failed to banish the flush of dissipation from Hose's face. During the examination of the talesmen he crouched in a chair beside his attorney, his pale gray eyes downcast and shifting, his trembling fingers now pinching his flushed cheeks, now beating a tattoo upon his dry lips and now wandering to his flat, unreasoning forehead, his down-pointed, querulous nose, or his bulging brutal neck. His every move bespoke a cringing and mortal terror of the gallows.

Desperate Type of Man. It has been rumored about the courthouse for the past several days that Henry Hose will make a desperate effort to escape before the end of his trial. He is a desperate type of man, a coward, yet the sort who would make a run for his life—whether there was a reasonable chance of getting away or not.

The case against Hose could hardly be stronger. Immediately after the murder he made a full confession to Police Captain Bruin. The prosecution will be personally conducted by District Attorney Manning, assisted by Deputy District Attorney Haney, and the jury will be asked to impose the death penalty.

BLOODSHED IS FEARED IN WEST VIRGINIA

Republican Commissioners and Deputy Sheriff Arrested and Troops Asked For.

(Journal Special Service.) Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 5.—With the Republican election returns in hand and a deputy United States marshal in jail, and an appeal before the governor for troops, serious troubles have beset the politicians in Mingo county. When the governor received an appeal for troops from Mingo county he immediately commenced an investigation of conditions prevailing there. Three troops of militia have been ordered to prepare to go to the scene of the trouble on a moment's notice and are being held at their barracks in readiness for orders. Fraud is charged against the Republican commissioners and the deputy marshal who have been incarcerated, while counter charges are made against their captors. The excitement is at fever heat and it is feared that bloodshed will result.

CLOSE OF MOST NOTABLE CAMPAIGN EVER SEEN IN EMPIRE STATE

Tremendous Enthusiasm Has Marked Progress of W. R. Hearst. Although Weight of Money Makes Betting Four to One in Favor of Charles E. Hughes.

(Journal Special Service.) New York, Nov. 5.—To the Editor of The Journal—The political situation is the most complex in the history of state politics.

The struggle between Hearst and Hughes has been fought bitterly from the opening of the campaign; it has resulted in new alliances and in noisy bolts, and in the final round this afternoon, Murphy, the Tammany leader, says Hearst will be elected by 12,000 plurality. Woodruff, the Republican state chairman, predicts 150,000 to 200,000 plurality for Hughes.

THE EVENING WORLD.

New York, Nov. 5.—Max Imhosen, chairman of the Independence league, said this a. m.:

"Mr. Hearst will carry the state by 200,000 plurality; no doubt of it. That is what we know, what we are telling our friends to bet on, and what the count will show."

Chairman Woodruff of the Republican state central committee said this morning:

"Mr. Hughes will be elected governor of New York by from 125,000 to 150,000 plurality. This is not boom talk; the time for that is over. The figures are based on reports made by men who know how to canvass voters, and who have always been right before."

The Herald this morning says that a canvass, as careful, full and non-partisan as possible, has been made of the county and state, which shows that Hughes will be elected governor by 150,000 plurality.

YOUNG MARRIED MAN SLAYS GIRL WHOM HE LOVED

Pretty Grass Widow Is Assassinated by Jealous Lover, Who Commits Suicide in the Presence of His Own Family When He is Accused of the Crime.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 5.—Mrs. William Garrett, a young grass widow, was shot from ambush and instantly killed last night while returning to her home from the home of W. M. Gildersleeve, where she had been visiting, near the old town of Abingdon. As a sequel to this tragedy, John Hawkins, a young married man and the father of several children, after being confronted with letters taken from the dead woman's trunk, indicating an intimacy between himself and her, and pointing to him as her possible slayer, and jealousy as the motive, shot himself through the head, with probably the same gun by which the young woman came to her death, the suicide taking place almost within sight of the weeping wife and children to whom he had confided his intentions and who followed him some distance from the house.

The assassination of the young woman took place late last night as she was returning to her home. The assailant fired upon her from an alley in which he had evidently been lying in wait, the head of the young woman being partly blown off. The body was discovered about an hour later by Gildersleeve, who heard the report, and realizing that Mrs. Garrett had just left his home, instituted an investigation.

STILL SEEKING VOTES

Rival Candidates Making Cyclopic Close of Remarkable Fight.

(Journal Special Service.) New York, Nov. 5.—Ordinarily a campaign for governor closes the Saturday night before the election, but there has been nothing ordinary about this campaign, and on neither side will the work of addressing and exhorting the voters be abandoned until a few hours before the polls are opened Tuesday morning. The Tammany people held a big mass meeting last night, the Hughes people are claiming the same plurality for their candidate.

Hughes himself is very confident of election. The drift toward Hughes has been unmistakable in the last week or so. Up to that time Hearst seemed to have a large lead. The danger in the situation was admitted in private at Republican state headquarters. Slowly, however, the tide began to turn. The work that Hughes himself was doing had the effect of dispelling to some extent the lethargy, which seemed to beset the Republicans up state, and the tide toward him kept increasing. Then came the double thunderclap of Secretary Root's speech at Utica, in which, as the representative of the president, he arraigned the Democratic candidate, and the cablegram and interview of Richard Croker, in which Hearst was denounced and Charles F. Murphy severely criticized for turning over the Buffalo convention to the candidate of the Independence league.

Unquestionably since then the swing has been for Hughes, but will it be strong enough? There is no blinking at the fact that Hearst is still a strong candidate. The enthusiasm at the meetings where he speaks is described as twice as intense as that which greets Hughes. Of course, there is much curiosity to hear Hearst, a man who has advertised himself so widely, but this does not explain the almost hysterical enthusiasm he arouses. It cannot be disputed that a very large proportion of the small shopkeepers, clerks and members of labor unions regard him as a second Moses. On the other hand, there are many

SHERIFF WILL TAKE CHARGE OF LEOPOLD

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Judge Pinckney has ordered the sheriff to take charge of Leopold and keep him from the police until his trial.

BRUN MISHES TO SCENE

Inspector Brun, who lives but a few doors away upon hearing the shooting, rushed to the scene and was quickly apprised of the situation. The officer and Prael then went into the attic and the latter announced so as to be heard by the man on the roof that he intended taking another shot at him. This had the desired effect, for the thief begged Prael to refrain from again using his rifle and clambered into the attic in the same manner as he had gained access to the roof.

The crook, who gave his name as King, was manacled and a search then made for his accomplices. He stated (Continued on Page Three.)

LONE PETE IS NOW IN CITY JAIL

After Sensational Capture He Confesses to Robbery of Several Residences

Taken on Roof of House He Had Robbed by Owner and Captain of Detectives Bruin—His Confederates Make Their Escape.

In a highly sensational manner, attended with great excitement, J. B. King, an ex-convict, known to the police as "Lone Pete," who in company with two other crooks, has been responsible for the series of daring burglaries committed in this city during the past two weeks, was captured last evening by R. F. Prael of Prael, Hegele & Co. and Detective Captain Bruin on the roof of the Prael residence at 39 North Twenty-first street. King's two pals managed to make their escape, but the police are on their trail and their apprehension is only a matter of hours.

King this morning confessed to having been implicated in the burglary of the W. B. Streater home on Portland heights about two weeks ago, the rifling of a pawnshop on Third street near Davis and the theft of 700 pounds of copper from a junk dealer. Acting upon information furnished by King, Captain Bruin visited the room occupied by the thieves at 37 Park street this morning and recovered a large portion of the silverware stolen from the Streater residence. A quantity of plunder was shipped by the burglars to Salem and a number of articles which could not be safely disposed of were dumped in the Willamette river. For obvious reasons Captain Bruin refuses to reveal the names of King's confederates, but their identity is known to the police and several detectives are searching for them.

Now Capture Was Made.

The capture of King, in which R. F. Prael figured so prominently, occurred last evening about 7:30. Mr. and Mrs. Prael, after dining down town, returned to their residence and were surprised to find a number of lights in the house, instinctively King declared to her husband that burglars were in the house, but her spouse ridiculed the idea. Upon opening the front door he quickly changed his opinion from the disordered condition of everything.

Prael, upon making an investigation, heard footsteps in the attic, and, after closing the door leading to that portion of the house, secured his Mauser rifle. Upon going out on the second-story porch, Prael saw a shadowy form climbing over the cornice to the roof. A few minutes later a man thrust his head from the side of a chimney and Prael fired a shot at the fellow.

Brin Mishes to Scene.

Inspector Brun, who lives but a few doors away upon hearing the shooting, rushed to the scene and was quickly apprised of the situation. The officer and Prael then went into the attic and the latter announced so as to be heard by the man on the roof that he intended taking another shot at him. This had the desired effect, for the thief begged Prael to refrain from again using his rifle and clambered into the attic in the same manner as he had gained access to the roof.

The crook, who gave his name as King, was manacled and a search then made for his accomplices. He stated (Continued on Page Three.)
