YALE AND TIGERS PLAY TIE GAME

Desperate Struggle on Nassau Field Results in Neither Team Scoring.

PRINCETON MEN ARE VERY MUCH DISAPPOINTED

For Two Thirty-Minute Halves Both Teams Fought With the Greatest Courage, but Neither Was Able to Score a Single Point.

(Special Dispatch by Leased Wire to The Journal)

Princeton, Nov. 17.—Yale and Princeton battled today in their annual gridiron encounter, and at the end of two 30-minute halves the game ended with a score of nothing to nothing. It was a desperate struggle all the way, with first one team and then the other having a shade the better of the fight. But neither team could count. Tonight the New Haven rooters are contented, and the followers of the Tigers are disappointed. The Princeton men had counted this theirs. They had looked forward to a victory over the blue, for Princeton has one of the strongest teams in the history of the college.

Yale came to the New Jersey town trembling. The wearers of the blue fought every inch of the way to stave off defeat and they feel that they have accomplished much.

The game itself was spectacular because it was full of punting. Veeder and Harlan booted the ball back and forth and the others chased the oval always hoping that something would happen to allow a freak score. It soon became apparent that to score by straight football was as good as impossible. The ten yards was too great a distance for either team to make in three downs and each captain was afraid to risk daring trick plays. Consequently the contest resolved itself into a kicking duel, and with Veeder and Harlan doing the booting the struggle still remained equal.

Great Throng Present.

Early in the day the trains poured into the town with great loads of rooters from New Haven and New York. Long before noon it seemed that the great stands would never hold the crowd. Fully 30,000 persons had accumulated in the streets of the town and went about searching for food in vain. Every possible crust had been gobbled up before the noon whistles blew and thousands were forced to go to the grounds hungry.

But hunger was forgotten as soon as the big field was reached. Amid the waving of banners and yelling of students there was no time to think of food. The great annual battle was about to start. The Yale team came upon the field first and ran through some formations in grand style. They looked heavy and powerful and seemed able to beat the world at football. Then the Tigers trotted out. They were a trifle lighter, but when the practice plays were gone over it was easily seen that for speed they had the blue beaten.

When the game started Princeton was the favorite by slight odds. The Tigers kicked off and Yale had first trial at carrying the ball. But to advance was impossible and the kicking contest began at once. Back and forth flew the ball, and back and forth followed the athletes.

Soon Princeton got her chance, and by a fake kick had the ball near the goal. It seemed the Tigers would score early. Another play put them within a yard of the much-coveted goal and then followed a penalty. This probably cost the Tigers the game. Yale got the ball and soon had it back again near the center of the field, where once more the kicking game was resumed. During the entire first half the Tigers had a bit the best of the struggle, but never again got close enough to the Yale goal to cause fear.

Yale Takes a Brace.

In the second half the Yale men took a decided brace and held their own nearly all of the time. Much of the time she had the struggle in Princeton's territory, but was never within striking distance of the goal. Field goals were tried by both teams, but either the distance was too great or the kick was bad and not a count could be registered.

It was the general opinion after the game that under the old system of play the Tigers would have been able to have landed a victory. They gained more ground than the Yale eleven, but were seldom able to make the required ten yards.

The defense of both teams was excellent, but in using the new style of play both teams were weak. Trick plays were seldom used and yet it was evident all the time that neither team could score by straight football.

WHITMAN ELEVEN BEATS THE IDAHO TEAM

Walla Walla Players Succeed in Winning Championship Game by a Single Point.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Walla Walla, Wash., Nov. 17.—Slow playing, fumbles and an abundance of punting characterized the Whitman-Idaho football contest this afternoon, in which Whitman players defeated the visitors by the close margin of 6 to 5. The features of the game were the successful forward passes by the Moscow team, Robertson, the quarter, accurately making a difficult throw to George Armstrong at right end. Whitman attempted the forward pass once early in the game, but made a signal failure and abandoned the new play.

Idaho started into the contest with whirlwind tactics and within the first five minutes forced the pigskin across the line by a series of end runs and fast line bucks.

Whitman's game was sluggish throughout, but with a number of successful punts won a touchdown in a little less than seven minutes and Rigsby added what proved to be the winning point by kicking the goal.

Multnomah, in Hard Fought Game, Retrieves Honors Willamette Snatched Last Year

On Multnomah field, yesterday, a small, wiry young man named Hockenberry made a noise like an automobile; a great crowd of football enthusiasts roared as does "the mob outside" when it is in ferocious mood; a smaller body of gridiron partisans assured the aforesaid Hockenberry that he was "all right," a "good boy," the "real thing" in umpires, and begged that he give no heed to the persuasive McMillan, the emphatic Lonergan or the indignant Jordan.

Mr. Hockenberry continued to make the noise like the speeding automobile; and when it was stilled Multnomah had been penalized 30 yards and Willamette, by the cleverest blocking of a kick ever seen here, had made a touchdown, and the clubmen were robbed of the chance of wiping out by a decisive Something to Nothing victory their defeat of last year.

That penalty, block kick and touchdown were among the interesting features of as blood-moving a game of football as has ever been played in Portland. It was a bit different from the other matches seen this season; before, Multnomah has been playing for practice; yesterday the clubmen were out for the honors they lost last year, and put in their best to retrieve them. But Willamette wasn't the same catapult in offense—wasn't the same armor-plated bulwark in defense, and lacked the speed that a year ago made Multnomah put crepe on the door. The mighty Pollard was missing; Radar, the swift, destructive thunderbolt, is a cripple; and Philbrook and football have been divorced.

A Desperate Fight.

But until the last crash of hurtling bodies, and until the final kick was made, Willamette was fighting desperately a losing battle and Multnomah was struggling stubbornly to keep what it had earned.

While the rain was falling at 2:30 o'clock, the teams sat on the club steps and had their pictures taken for The Journal; then the rain stopped, and Multnomah got on the field; a moment later came Willamette, led by Nelson, who was to become a hero before the day was over, and Nace, who was to share his honors. From a choir of fair and beauteous Willamettettes in the grandstand came a tumult of song—wild, tempestuous, words that tended to a breach of the peace—but sung to a soft, plaintive hymn tune that robbed the murthering sentiment of much of its blood-thirstiness. From time to time that gentle tune and those fierce strike-'em-hard and kill-'em-sure words stirred Willamette to renewed but barren effort.

If you would know the stars on the two teams, read the lineup; every man was a brilliant meteor. Once in awhile one showed with a superior light. Nelson, springing through a hedge of arms and legs, blocked James' punt, and Thomas fell on the ball for a touchdown; Blanchard made a run that will be talked about when coming generations of Multnomah players speak of doughty deeds on the gridiron; Pratt, emulous of Nelson, threw himself against Willamette's stockade, blocked a kick, hurdled the end line wires, and made a touchdown while the grandstand and bleachers were asking "What's happening?" Lonergan was—Lonergan; when it was necessary to make the first touchdown the irresistible Dolph was there; McMillen stood like a stone wall between Willamette and victory. And on the side lines, Chauncey Bishop brooded silently; Manager Horan also brooded.

Multnomah's Kick Off.

Multnomah won the toss, and for the club men James kicked off to Owens. Willamette's quarterback, who advanced the ball four yards and was downed. Willamette gained five yards on the first down, but made no advance on the second play, and Coleman punted 40 yards to Blanchard, who was downed almost in his tracks. Then Lonergan, the swift and sure, was shot around Willamette's right and for a 22-yard gain, and following this the catapultic Dolph bucked the line for four yards. James lost one yard on the second down and tried for goal by a drop kick from the 28-yard line. The ball went high and far over the goal, but missed the mark. Coleman kicked out from behind the 25-yard line. James fumbled but recovered and made good by a 35-yard punt. Willamette gained one yard on first down, then Coleman skirted Multnomah's left end for eight yards and Nace plunged straight through the cyclone of arms and bodies and made first down. Willamette failed to gain through McMillan, and Coleman was forced to punt, which he did, 28 yards to James, who was downed before he got under way. Lonergan failed to gain for Multnomah and James punted to Owens, who started on a wild dash for Multnomah's goal—only to be nabbed by Lonergan. Willamette gained seven yards around. McMillen then tried a short punt, which was promptly gathered in by Blanchard. Dolph gained three yards through Boyer, then Lonergan hit Lounsberry for two more and James punted. This was partly blocked by Nelson, Willamette's aggressive center, but it went 28 yards and was recovered by Multnomah.

Dolph Makes First Touch-Down.

Dolph bucked right tackle for four yards. James hit the same spot for five more and Dolph made first down on the play. Blanchard gained three yards around Fisher, then Lonergan plunged outside off tackle for nine yards more, placed the ball on Willamette's six yard line. Lonergan then gained three yards through Lounsberry, and Dolph carried the ball over the goal line, scoring the first touch-down. James kicked an easy goal. Score—Multnomah 6, Willamette 0.

Coleman kicked off to Blanchard, who dodging, squirming and fighting hard, broke loose from Willamette's tacklers and advanced the ball 76 yards to Willamette's nine yard line, where he was overtaken and brought to the ground by Lounsberry. Multnomah failed to gain on first down and the forward pass attempted by Dolph was fumbled but was recovered by Multnomah. Then James gained three yards on first down, failed to gain on the next and was shot over the goal line on the third down, planting the ball between the goal posts. James kicked another easy goal. Score—Multnomah 12, Willamette 0.

Once more Coleman kicked off to Blanchard, who dropped the ball, but recovered it immediately and advanced 12 yards. James punted 50 yards on first down. Owens gathered in the punt, but was downed immediately by Jordan. Owens then gained 25 yards by a cleverly executed quarterback run around Multnomah's left end. Immediately afterwards he tried to repeat the trick, but was thrown for a loss. Coleman punted to Blanchard, who advanced 25 yards. James punted 40 yards out of bounds.

Forward Pass Fails.

Willamette tried the forward pass, which was intercepted by Multnomah. Dolph hit the line for four yards on first down, but Multnomah was penalized 15 yards for holding and James punted 35 yards. Thomas gained 20 yards around Multnomah's right end, before he was thrown by Blanchard's lovely dive. Willamette then made advance by straight bucks and punted 38 yards to Blanchard, who ran in 20 yards, when he was tackled and lost the ball. Willamette gained two yards on first down, one yard more on the second by a delayed pass, and Coleman again punted to Blanchard, who returned the punt 25 yards. The ball rolled out of bounds. Willamette tried an on-side kick, which was caught by Multnomah, and James punted 25 yards. Willamette failed to gain on first down, made three yards on the second through right tackle and punted to James, who returned the punt 40 yards. Keller retrieved the punt but the ball went to Willamette. Owens tried quarterback run around Multnomah's left end, and gained five yards, but in falling hit the ground hard with his right shoulder and was hurt. Time was up before the next play got under way. Score—Multnomah 12, Willamette 0.

Hot Work in the Second.

Coleman kicked off for Lonergan, who ran the ball back 30 yards to the center of the field. Lonergan tried to circle Willamette's right ackle, but failed to gain. Dolphs received the ball for another forward pass, but his throw was interfered with, and Willamette gobbled the ball and bucked left tackle for a six-yard gain. Coleman followed it with five yards to his credit on a straight center buck, making first down. Nace made one yard outside of McMillan. Coleman fumbled on a straight buck, but Owens recovered the ball and Coleman booted it to the ever-present Percy Blanchard, who returned the compliment. Owens caught the return punt, and was downed after a very brief advance, but James had succumbed to the temptation of tripping one of the Willamette warriors, and Multnomah was penalized, which put the ball on Multnomah's three-yard line, and gave Willamette a chance to score. Coleman essayed a straight plunge and gained nothing. Thomas then plowed through outside of Pratt and placed the ball within a foot of the goal, but when he tried to repeat the play Lonergan broke through his interference, downed him hard for a loss, and recovered the ball for Multnomah. Fisher, Willamette's left end, was hurt here, and Lounsberry took his place, while Hewett took the latter's position at left tackle.

James, from behind his own goal posts, tried to punt out of danger, but Nelson, Willamette's star center, broke through Keller and blocked the punt; the ball bounded back and rolled on the ground, where Thomas pounced on it, and scored a touch-down for Willamette. Coleman failed to kick a very easy goal, although Multnomah's offside play gave him two chances. Score: Multnomah, 12; Willamette, 5.

James kicked off to Russell, who advanced the ball 30 yards to the center of the field; offside play was called, and the ball was taken back and kicked off again. Lounsberry received it and advanced it five yards, and Coleman booted to Blanchard, who ran in 20 yards. Dolph made six yards, Lonergan failed to gain, but Willamette was penalized five yards, which gave Multnomah first down. Dolph hit left tackle for four yards; James hit the same spot for two more, but Dolph could not make the required distance on the last down, and the ball was Willamette's. But the college was penalized 15 yards on the first down, and Coleman punted to Lonergan, who fumbled, but fell on the ball. Dolph tore off four yards on a delayed pass, James fumbled, and Willamette recovered the ball. James retrieved his error by downing Nace for a loss at the next play. Thomas gained five yards and Coleman punted to James, who returned the punt 35 yards, when ball rolled over the goal line. Willamette kicked out to Dolph, who gained two yards and was downed. McMillan hit Hewitt for four yards, Pratt failed to gain on the other side of the line, and Blanchard kicked 15 yards. Multnomah recovered the ball, and James punted, and again the ball rolled over the goal line. Coleman punted on the first down. Dolph fumbled, Blanchard recovered the ball and advanced three yards; he then tried another quarterback kick, which was blocked by Neland James punted to Coleman, who made a fair catch.

Became Punting Game.

Willamette kicked out to Blanchard, who advanced five yards. James punted 38 yards to Owens and Coleman punted 30 to Dolph. Again James kicked 42 yards to Owens, who tried to advance the ball and was tackled hard by Lonergan. Blanchard was now relieved by Dowling and Wilder went in at left end. After Owens recovered from his hurt, Coleman punted 35 yards to Lonergan, who ran in 15 yards. James punted again 45 yards to Owens, who was downed on Willamette's five-yard line. Coleman punted from behind the goal line.

Pratt broke through, blocked the punt, tacked over the end line wires, and fell on the ball, scoring a third touchdown for Multnomah. James kicked the goal. Score, Multnomah 18, Willamette 5.

Coleman kicked off to Dowling, who snatched the ball from the air and advanced 35 yards.

Nace Makes Pretty Catch.

Lonergan tried his hand at a forward pass, but it was nipped by Nace, who

ROUND ROBIN TOURNAMENT AT PORTLAND ACADEMY

Handball Students Making a Good Showing at Popular Indoor Sporting Game.

The annual round robin doubles handball tournament at the Portland academy is well under way, and quite a number of the games have already been played off. The race for the winner's gold medals has developed into a walk-over for C. W. Robison and Parke Myers. These young athletes are in a class by themselves, and it is a safe bet that they can hold their own with any junior handball players in the city. Through Robison's difficult service and strong returns and Myers' consistent "killing," together with their excellent team work, they have easily defeated some of the strongest teams entered. There is a close race on for the silver medals awarded to the second place men and several teams will make a strong bid for them. Although few of the contests are closely contested, much interest is manifested in the sport, chiefly due to the abolition of football at the academy. The following are some of the more important contests already played off:

C. W. Robison and P. Myers defeated C. J. Robison and Corbett, 21-5; Thorne and Mackie defeated Reed and C. Prehn, 21-4; Henrys and Fuller defeated Stone and Stokes, 21-15; C. J. Robison and Corbett defeated Hurlburt and J. Jones, 21-13; Snow and Mills defeated Henrys and Fuller, 21-15.

The executive committee appointed by Physical Director Paine consists of himself, Stone and Hurlburt. Those entered in the tournament elected C. W. Robison, Henrys, Stone, Hurlburt and C. J. Robison official umpires, and P. Myers official scorer of the tournament. The following is a complete list of entries, the last two teams of which are composed of members of the faculty, and their averages will not count in the race for the medals:

C. W. Robison and P. Myers; C. J. Robison and Corbett; Stone and Stokes; Henrys and Fuller; Hurlburt and Jones; Mills and Snow; Frohman and Ehrman; H. Cookingham and F. Smith; Reed and C. Prehn; McKenzie and Kuettner; Winters and Espey; Moffett and Bachelder; Wheeler and Garretson; Baird and Williams; Wilson and Strong; Hale and Gammans; Bell and L. FIRST HALF OF SEASON WITH THE BOWLERS

The Portland Bowlers Come Out Victorious With a Good String of Credits.

The first half of the Oregon Bowling association's schedule closed last week, 21 games having been played. Both classes A and B put up some fine individual as well as team averages. This is the first season in Portland that an individual average has been over the double century mark, two members so far holding that record. The five highest in class A are as follows: Kruse, 203; Keating, 201; McMenomy, 196; Case, 194; Barbour, 193. The class B men are: Moser, 181; Lamond, 176; Closset, 174; Armitage, 170; Kees, 169. The team average was lowered in some instances by games being played with four men, but the showing made is very creditable. The averages:

Second O. A. C. Wins.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Corvallis, Or., Nov. 17.—The Oregon Agricultural second football team defeated Monmouth Normal here yesterday afternoon by the score of 2 to 0.

INDOOR TENNIS IS LATEST PASTIME

Liberal Arts Building at Fair Grounds Has Been Leased for Winter Months.

TOURNAMENTS WILL LEND ZEST TO SPORT

Membership Will Be Limited to 30 and Will Include All of Portland's Most Expert Players—Club Only One of Its Kind in West.

Indoor tennis is a new sport which is soon to be added to Portland's list of winter pastimes. A five months' lease has already been secured on the Liberal Arts building at the Lewis and Clark fair grounds, and it is announced that three courts will be laid out ready for play to begin next Saturday.

The new club will be the only one of its kind, as far as known, on the Pacific coast. Racquet enthusiasts of the east have long ago adopted the indoor game during the wet months of the year, but nothing of the kind has been done in the far west, because in California there is not enough wet weather to materially interfere with outdoor tennis, and in Oregon and Washington the game has not been popular enough to warrant it. The season just closed, however, has been the most successful Oregon has ever had, and to this fact is due the birth of the new project.

Will Fit Three Courts.

As the intention now is to fit up only three courts, it is thought that the membership will be limited to 30. All of the leading players in the city without exception are reported to have given in their names, and the success of the undertaking is therefore assured. The Liberal Arts building is light and roomy, and the ceiling is so high that it will not interfere with the lobbing style of game. The three courts will be placed end to end and will run the length of the building.

With the assurance of the hearty support of Portland's tennis men, R. Wilder, A. B. McAlpin and Dr. R. Nunn, have gone forward with the preliminary arrangements, and a meeting will be held as soon as possible to elect officers and plan for the winter's tennis. Indoor tennis is played exactly as is the outdoor game, and it is believed that the winter practice will be productive of a more scientific article of the sport when spring rolls around.

A number of tournaments will doubtless be held during the winter and early spring.

PACIFIC QUITS THE BASKETBALL LEAGUE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Forest Grove, Or., Nov. 17.—Pacific university has withdrawn from the basketball league that was organized a few weeks ago. The main reason for the withdrawal is that, according to the rules of the league, 14 games must be played. Students and faculty have considered that too much time and money would be spent in keeping with the league. Two games have nevertheless been scheduled, one to be played at Corvallis and the other at this place, both games to be played with the Oregon Agricultural college.
