Reclamation Service Hampered Because Good Workmen Are Hard to Find.

Washington, Nov. 19.—H. Newell, chief engineer of the reclamation service, has just returned from an inspection trip, having examined construction work in North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona and New Mexico, and said this morning: "In general the work is progressing favorably, and construction has reached a point where results can be seen. The chief drawback is the difficulty in securing competent laborers. Men who can be had for western work are as a rule restless, and rarely stay more than a few days or a week in one place. The large amount of railroad construction work, as well as the number of contracts under way with the reclamation service, make it possible for laborers to strike a new job wherever they stop."

When near Main and Second streets Houghton suddenly grabbed him around the body, in such a manner as to pluck his arm, while the other man relieved him of his valuables. Passenger Traffic Is Heavy, as Hundreds Have Been Held Up for Many Days.

Trains are running today between Portland and the south. The Northern Pacific is having all it can do to handle the passenger traffic between this city and Tacoma. No baggage nor express is being taken, as the difficulty with boats and back again from boat to train at two different steamer transfers is too great. Only passengers are being carried. The transfer service in connection with stub trains out of Portland and Tacoma began yesterday morning. Passengers from Portland to the south cities are taken by train from Portland to Goble, ferried to Kalama as usual, and carried by train to Kelso, where they are transferred to a steamer that carries them to a landing near Castle Rock, where they are placed on a train carrying them and taken to Tacoma. Passengers desiring to go to Seattle and points farther up the sound are transferred at Kelso to the steamer that carries them to Seattle, and then connects with boats to other sound cities. The Northern Pacific is selling through tickets at the usual rates, including the boat transportation.

Christine Enger Declares She is Entitled to Estate of Henry Wilson.

Wilson died in this city April 31, 1899. At that time the property of the estate was appraised at $10,000. No heirs having appeared, proceedings were begun in November, 1899, to have the property turned over to the state. A trial was had in the circuit court, which resulted in a decision that the county was without jurisdiction in appointing S. W. Simmons administrator, and judgment of escheat was given. This ruling was later reversed by the supreme court and the case remanded for a rehearing. A new escheat proceedings were then begun. On May 18, the estate was ordered closed, and Administrator Simmons discharged. John C. Shillock was appointed receiver of the estate by the circuit court. Numerous special counsel were appointed to appear for the state in the escheat proceedings. From the original $10,000 the estate dwindled through costs of litigation and other means to little more than half that amount. Receiver Shillock gave a receipt to Administrator Simmons for $5,411. This remainder is now claimed by both Mrs. Enger and the state. Long & Swank appear as attorneys for Mrs. Enger.
