Attorney Moody's Piteous Plea A Free Trial Package to Convince Sent by Mail to All Who Write. on Behalf of a Wholesale Dealer Has Effect.

BUT GENERAL LICENSE MAY YET BE DOUBLED

And Wholesalers Will Probably Have to Pay Four Hundred Dollars Next ear Instead of Two Hundred, as

Ralph E. Moody, lawyer, made so piteous a plea for the struggling whole-sale liquor dealers of the city that the liquor license committee of the council yesterday afternoon eliminated the $500 recifiers license fee, which, according to the new schedule, the dealers were to pay.

The regular license for wholesalers, however, will probably be $400 next year instead of $200. The committee was told that rectifying is a necessary part of the wholesale business, and that it would be as reasonable to charge a candy store man a fee for conducting his business and then charge him another fee for the soda fountain.

Mr. Vaughn moved that the new ordinance, with the rectifyers fee cut out, be recommended for passage by the council. Unless unforeseen opposition arises it is probable that the $300 fee for saloons will therefore be required next year.

Moody's Argument. Moody's argument was that the wholesale houses shouldn't have to pay the city $700 a year for the privilege of doing business, as they had to compete in the local market with firms of other cities where a far less sum is exacted. According to his talk, houses like W. J. Van Schuyver's and Rothchild's would be forced to leave Portland and move

Moody's argument was that the wholesale houses shouldn't have to pay the city f700 a year for the privilege of defing business, as they had to compete in the local market with firms of other cities where a far less sum is exacted. According to his talk, houses like W. J. Van Schuyver's and Rothchild's would be forced to leave Portland and move to Vancouver to escape the tremendous fee of $700 a year.

"Aren't we taxing the liquor interests about all they can stand?" asked Chair man Gray, backing up the lawyer.

It is still possible that the measure will be defeated in the council, as the liquor interests have several friends there and the axiom about choking a dog still holds good.

This measure is what is left of Wills $1.000 license ordinance. By it he had hoped to lower the number of saloons in the residence districts, but the $300 fee will not put any saloons out of business, though the city's revenues will be materially increased.

E. L. Rice, president, and F. E. Neuberger, secretary of the Musicians' union, pleaded for the passage of the Belding ordinance, which will allow women to play in orchestras in saloons and music halls. They said that the antiorchestra rule had driven a number of musicians out of the city. Definite acting of the committee.

The following saloon applications were granted: H. Abram, 274 Front, A. Barger & Co., 65 North Sixth; Oscar Hill, 361 North Sixteenth. Also the following transfers of licenses: Bruno & Cosenza, 300 First, to George Quino, J. J. Buras, East Sixth and East Morrison, to Mat Glimore; anton Anderson, $65 Irving, to Gardiner & Perry; Armaud & Miles, 229 Everett, to Jules Weinbach, John A. Wattson, 246 Yamhill, to James Gulley; H. Prister, 225 First, to Pister & Kasper; Warren Anderson & Carlson, 42 North Third, to John Olsson. Mother of Mine Children.

Mrs. Timothy Collins, a mother of nine children, lived with her family at 638 Albina avenue. Her husband is a coach painter employed by the O. R. & N. Yesterday Mrs. Collins suffered agony all day from cremps. Early in the afternoon she sent her youngest child, a 6-year-old son, to a drug store for a bottle of carbolic acid. At 4:50 in the afternoon she poured a part of the acid into a cup of coffee and patting the child on the head and saying:

"Be a good little boy," she lay down "Be a good little boy," she lay down on a sofa drank the poison and passed Dr. A. C. Cordiner was called, but

Mrs. A. Canavan of 230 Lincoln street, Portland, Oregon, says: "I was led to recommend Donn's Kidney Pilis three years ago from the great relief I had found in a case of kidney complaint which had annoyed me for a long time. I tried other remedies previously, but Donn's Kidney Pilis were the only remedy that helped me. My trouble had lasted for three years, during which time I suffered from irregular action of the kidneys and backache. At times I was in such misery with the aching and weakness that I could not rest in any position. I suffered from headaches and diszinese, and could hardly attend to the simplest household duties. Doan's Kidney Pilis freed me from this miser-able existence and I never have lost an opportunity to recommend the remedy. In fact, I gave a public testimonial in 1903, which I am glad to repeat and confirm."

Common sense is just as necessary (even more so) in medicine as in business or the affairs of every day life. People are getting to know more than they used to. Not so long ago, it was the fashion to make all sorts of claims for a medicine, and wind up by asking the reader to go to a drug store and buy a bottle. People won't stand for that kind of thing now. They want proof—tangible proof. They want to try the remedy first and if they find it to be what is claimed they will be glad enough to go and buy it.

A CONVINCING ARGUMENT.

The Collins family do not believe that Mrs. Collins took the acid with suicidal intent. They say that she was frantic with pain from cramps, and must have taken the drug in the belief that it was ginger, which she had been using for her complaint. The explanation given for her sending for carbolic acid is that she had a sore finger which she was in the habit of washing with the fluid. No one was present except her little on when she quaffed the poison. Mrs. son when she quaffed the posson.

J. L. Bellmer, a neighbor, who had been with her during the day, and whom the little boy called immediately after he little boy called immediately after he say his mother sink into unconscious-ness, expressed the bellef that the woman swallowed the poison while temporarily crazed from illness. Dr. Cor-diner believes that Mrs. Collins did not intend to kill herself, but thinks that she swallowed the acid by mistake. Deputy Coroner Finley, however, is of the opinion that the case is one of in-

Henderson left St. Paul 18 months ago for Seattle, where he is said to have a wife and two grown daughters living. On Friday last he came to Portland and rented a room at Manhattan court, 311½ Stark street. He was last seen alive shortly before midnight Sunday night. Yesterday evening his door was broken open and he was found dead in bed, with his mouth and chin badly burned by acid, and the glass from which he had sipped the burning fluid lying on the floor.

Henderson left a brief note on the dresser: "Notify William L. Henderson, Forty-first and Main streets, St. Paul, care Henderson, Bassford & oC." As he had only $3 in money it is supposed that poverty was the cause of the crime.

INDEPENDENT OUT FOR

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Salem, Nov. 20.—A little excitement and interest has been injected into the municipal election by the coming out of Wallace Trill as an independent candidate for the office of city recorder.

Mr. Trill has lived in the city for several years. He is now a student in the Willamette university law school. He is a young man and decidedly popular.

Wylle A. Moures, his opponent and the regular nominee of the Republican ticket, is the present incumbent and received the nomination unanimously at the primary election. It is not prob-able that there will be opposing candi-dates for any of the city offices. Trill will probably receive the support of many Democrats, since the party has no candidate in the field.
