

SHOT FROM COVER WOUNDED TWICE

William W. Slaughter of Woodburn Fired at From Ambush and Seriously Injured.

EUGENE E. REMINGTON ARRESTED FOR CRIME

Men Have Been Enemies for Some Time and Remington Claimed That Slaughter Had Tried to Burn Down His Home—Woman in the Case.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Woodburn, Or., Nov. 23.—William W. Slaughter is lying at the Portland hotel, in this city, in a dangerous condition and Eugene E. Remington, a prominent citizen of Woodburn, was arrested charged with shooting with intent to kill.

Slaughter was plowing on the O. S. Pomeroy farm yesterday afternoon at about 2 o'clock, when two shots were fired at him by an unseen enemy. One of the bullets, from a .35-35 rifle, struck him at the tip of the left shoulder blade and lodged in his back. The missile first went through an inch fence post, or it would have cut the man in half.

Slaughter thinks there was a shot fired before the one that hit him. He started for the Pomeroy house and managed to reach it. Dr. O'Leary was summoned and had Slaughter removed to Woodburn.

Bullet Through Body.

The bullet was of the "soft-nose" kind and had been somewhat flattened as it went through the post. Its course in the body measured 15 inches and the wound is a large and ugly one. Splinters, evidently from the bullet, hit the left jaw and plowed a gash across the left eye, probably destroying the sight.

As soon as he heard of the shooting, Constable Beach watched the road leading into Woodburn from the Pomeroy place and claims that he caught Remington coming in with a rifle. He placed him under arrest and says Remington admitted doing the shooting. This Remington denies and will plead not guilty at the preliminary hearing in Justice Hayes' court Monday afternoon.

Grant Corby of Salem, and Ranch & Senn of Silverton will defend him, the state's interests being looked after by Thomas Brown. Remington was placed under $1,000 bonds for his appearance.

Bad Feeling Existed.

There has been bad feeling between the two men. Remington suspects Slaughter of attempting to burn down his (Remington's) new house early last Sunday morning. It is said that Slaughter, who was recently divorced, was incensed at Remington because he thought the latter intended marrying his former wife, and had built the cottage to receive her as his bride. It is also claimed that the divorced woman has received some very vile letters from an anonymous correspondent within the past week, and that Remington had also been threatened. Both men are Odd Fellows. Remington secured a divorce from his wife a few weeks ago. He and Mrs. Slaughter had known each other since childhood.

Remington ate his dinner yesterday at the Portland hotel between 12 and 1 o'clock, and was seen by other parties in Woodburn between those hours. He got back to his place of business between 2 and 3 o'clock. Remington states that he can prove he was in Woodburn at the time of the shooting. The Pomeroy place is about two and one half miles east of Woodburn.

It is becoming more evident every year English walnuts can be made a profitable crop in western Oregon.

SNOW FALLS AMONG ORANGE GROVES IN CALIFORNIA

Slidding Among Orchards and Vineyards Near San Bernardino as Result of Storm.

(Journal Special Service.) San Bernardino, Cal., Nov. 23.—The first rain of the season commenced falling Wednesday, later turning to snow on the mountains, and a foot and a half of snow covers the ground in the vicinity of Squirrel Inn, while the snow line extends almost to the southern foot of the mountains, nearly completely covering the famous Arrowhead.

Among the orange groves close to the mountains the snow fell briskly for hours, and at Devore Heights, 12 miles northwest of San Bernardino, sufficient snow lay on the ground to permit slidding among the groves and vineyards, this sport being enjoyed by young and old alike.

COMPETITOR OF ALL LINES TRANSCONTINENTAL

Tehuantepec Railway Will Be Opened January One—What Business It Will Do.

(Journal Special Service.) New York, Nov. 23.—The National Tehuantepec railway, connecting Coahuila, on the Gulf of Mexico, with Salina Cruz, on the Pacific coast, has been about completed and will be opened for traffic January 1. The line is 192 miles long, of standard gauge, and is equipped with modern engines and cars especially adapted to loading and unloading freight from vessels.

The road is directly connected with extensive water front terminals at each end, suitable for the docking of ocean-going vessels. This railroad is a direct competitor of the Panama railroad and, within certain limits, of the Panama canal project itself. Practically its only use will be the transmission of freight.

For commerce originating in the Gulf of Mexico, even so far east as Florida, this route offers advantages over the Panama railroad, as its eastern terminus is only about 550 miles from New Orleans, or less than half the distance of Colon.

DWYER FOUND BOTH CLAIMS AND MONEY

But Money Furnished Only on Condition That They Deed and Get Out for Beggary Hundred and Fifty Dollars.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Moscow, Idaho, Nov. 23.—It was expected that the testimony of the prosecution in the Dwyer land fraud case in the federal court would be concluded this morning, but as the court took its noon recess the district attorney was still grinding, although it is believed the government's last witness is now on the stand.

Three witnesses gave their testimony this morning. The testimony of Mrs. Frances A. Justice was full of interest, although it is not alleged in the indictment that Dwyer procured her to swear falsely. She became interested in timber while living in Wisconsin and her husband and her son had come west largely for the purpose of taking up claims. She had endeavored to arrange for the necessary funds with relatives in Wisconsin but was not successful. She told Dwyer three years before she filed to get claims for the three members of her family and he had promised to look out for them.

When she claims available she also asked Dwyer to get the money required for her proof and he had told her she could get it upon condition that she would deed the land and receive a contract in consideration of it. When proof was made Dwyer furnished the money, for which she gave a note.

Immediately after proof she executed what she supposed was a contract to secure the money advanced. Later she deeded the land to Mrs. Dwyer and received the additional sum of $75.

When the government sleuths got hold of Dwyer he answered no questions, as she was not compelled to answer except in court.

Upon cross examination witness burst into tears at some question relating to the death of her husband and she was temporarily excused. The main points of her testimony, however, were not shaken.

Other witnesses this morning were Mrs. Guy L. Wilson and Hiram F. Lewis.

FARMERS ALLEGE VERNON KEPT MILK MONEY

Son of General George Vernon in Jail at Tacoma on Embellishment Charge.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 23.—George Vernon Jr., a son of General George Vernon, who was an intimate friend of both Lincoln and Grant, and is now an officer in the United States treasury at Oakland, California, is now in the Tacoma jail. Vernon is charged by farmers of Hillhurst with embellishment, he having operated a creamery there and received cream from them for which, they allege, he never paid them.

The creamery was closed after being run for a few months and Vernon went to his home at Oakland, where he was arrested. Strenuous attempts were made there to secure his release on writs of habeas corpus but Sheriff Denholm, who made the arrest, was able to show that his requisition papers were correct.

Embroiderers claims they paid the farmers as they sold their product, but the market took a slump and they found themselves unable to clear off their debts.

RAID AT BUTTE REVEALS SMUGGLED JEWELRY

Pair of Procurers Are Apparently Defrauders of Revenue, as Well.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Helena, Mont., Nov. 23.—On evidence secured by immigration inspectors and deputy United States marshals it is likely the federal grand jury will be asked to indict Charles Charlier on the charge of smuggling jewelry into the United States from France.

Charlier was arrested recently with Eugene Pierre on the charge of unlawfully bringing girls into the country for immoral purposes. The place was raided and a large amount of jewelry secured, including diamond earrings, rings, a diamond studded bracelet, gold watches, gold purses and a variety of other articles of personal adornment.

It is said the officials have positive evidence that much of this plunder was smuggled into the country. The jewelry has been forwarded to Customs Collector Webster, who states in a letter to the marshal that he will take the matter with District Attorney Hatch with the view of having Charlier prosecuted on a smuggling charge.

Claims of the United States to smuggle goods take precedence over all other claims or attachments. As a consequence the attachment suit brought by the girls for damages will have to wait until the claims of the government are satisfied.

EIGHT DIVORCES

Frederick William Fry testified that Hannah Elizabeth Fry deserted him in July, 1904, and afterwards refused to take money from him when he tried to give it to her for her support. He said his wife left him because she no longer loved him. They were married at La Crosse, Wisconsin, in April, 1892. Fry appeared as her attorney.

Erma W. Jack was granted a divorce from Claude D. Jack because of desertion beginning in August, 1905. They were married at McMinnville, Oregon, in January, 1904. Mrs. Jack was allowed to resume her maiden name, Erma W. Maulding. Giltner & Sewall appeared as her attorneys.

Nina E. Hutchinson testified that Oscar S. Hutchinson deserted her in this city in October, 1905, and was allowed a decree. She was also permitted to resume her maiden name, Nina Edna Brandon. Attorneys were granted in Vancouver, Washington, in March, 1902. Attorney J. E. Magers appeared for Mrs. Hutchinson.

Daisy Adelaide Richardson testified that she was granted a divorce from Charles Richard because it was shown that she had been deserted by her husband at The Dalles, Oregon, in July, 1905, two days after their marriage. She was awarded the custody of their 8-month-old baby, Clara. W. S. Ward appeared as attorney for Mrs. Richardson.

Sarah McMillen testified that R. H. McMillen finally deserted her in September, 1902, after so many desertions that she was unable to remember them all. They were married in Portland in 1898. Mrs. McMillen was granted a divorce and the custody of her 8-year-old child, Terzah L. McMillen.

Ruth Timmons said she had borrowed money to bring a suit for divorce from Abe Ruef. Billy Finnegan, the saloon-keeper, she said, Timmons became intoxicated whenever he could get liquor, and beat her, and threatened to kill her. She said she was granted a divorce and the custody of their 8-month-old baby, Clara. W. S. Ward appeared as attorney for Mrs. Timmons.

PLOT OF POLITICIANS

This fact of immunity purchased, the place was arbitrarily closed last Sunday in the interest of the notorious municipal brothel at 614 Jackson street, which was benefited.

Concerned in the matter were Herbert Schmitt, the brother of the indicted mayor; Henry Ach, attorney for Abe Ruef; Billy Finnegan, the saloon-keeper; one of Ruef's political henchmen; Emilio Lastrero, an attorney who has been associated with Ruef, and George W. Maxwell, formerly secretary of the fire commission.

Determined to lay bare the hideous corruption which has existed in the municipal administration of San Francisco, the detectives of the district attorney's office have accumulated a mass of evidence which will astonish even those who thought they knew something about municipal graft in the Chinatown district dives.

Dick Crockett, an old-time politician, who was called before the grand jury, said: "I paid over to Abe Ruef personally $250 a week as protection for a house of prostitution at 712 Pacific street. The place was allowed to run at full swing until it began to cut into the earnings of the house at 620 Jackson street in which Ruef and Mayor Schmitt are said to have been interested. Then it was closed."

Crook county expects to build a court house that will be sufficient for 100 years.

BABY'S LEFT ON FRONT PORCH

Child Deserted and Found by Mrs. P. F. Olsen of the Astor House.

DETECTIVES DETAILED TO WORK ON THE CASE

No Clue Found to Lead to Detection of Parents—Little Six-Weeks-Old Wail Is Tenderly Cared for at the Baby Home.

A most astounding discovery was made by Mrs. P. F. Olsen, proprietor of the Astor house, 301 Seventh street, shortly before 10 o'clock last night, when, upon turning to re-enter her residence after bidding adieu to a caller, she found wrapped in a coarse woollen shawl, on a rocking chair on the porch, a six weeks' old baby girl benumbed and almost exhausted from exposure to the cold.

Mrs. Olsen had just said good-night to her departing guest and was about to step inside the doorway when she noticed a peculiar-looking bundle on the chair. It was her first impression that her friend had left a package behind, but upon closer examination she was astonished to find that the bundle showed signs of animation. It was but the work of a moment to remove the covering shawl and a little brown-eyed infant in swaddling clothes was discovered lying underneath.

Mrs. Olsen lost no time in carrying the little one into a warm room and then telephoned for the police. An investigation brought to light a bundle of cheap clothing, a milk bottle and a bottle of baby food lying alongside the chair on the porch. There was no mark on any of the articles that would tend to establish the identity of the parents.

The infant was taken to police headquarters and Mrs. Sifton, in charge of the Baby home, was prevailed upon to suspend the rules providing for the medical examination of every child admitted, as the infant could be taken care of at once. Patrolman Fields was detailed by Captain Slover to take the child to the "home" and he acquitted himself most creditably.

Detective Heiliger has been detailed on the case by Inspector Bruhn. It will be a most difficult matter to discover the parents of the wail as the police have absolutely no clue to work on. Mrs. Olsen did not notice any one approach the premises for an hour prior to the time of finding the child. The only hope of establishing the parentage of the wail is through the clothing or by some one who can furnish a description of the person who placed the bundle on Mrs. Olsen's porch, but so far the police have not made any headway along these lines.

SOCIETY LEADER

Palmer and Potter Palmer Jr. who is also a steward on the car, who runs shavings.

When the train reached the union depot this steward, the first man off the train, told Pullman car officials what he wanted and what he didn't want. His wishes were law. Here are some of the things he ordered for the car independence, in which the party is traveling.

Coal, coke, gas, milk, ice, bananas, potatoes, carriages and many other things which required stenographic notes so rapidly were the orders given. Mrs. Palmer may lead society and her son Eugene may be a successful politician from the Twenty-first ward, but they all trail behind the steward when traveling.

The steward told the officials that he did not want the car washed, that he would clean it himself; that he did not want it moved, and if he did he would tell them where he wanted it stationed and when. A few more orders given so hurriedly that only an experienced trainman could understand and his highness, the prince, turned to look out the window as his rival for favors passed majestically through the car.

Potter Palmer Jr., whose chief claim to fame lies in his name, was observed to move hurriedly to another portion of the car. Other members of the party made way for the steward and his highness, the prince, turned to look out the window as his rival for favors passed majestically through the car.

Where was Mrs. Palmer? Sleeping. Although the hour was 10:30, she must have her beauty nap and she was taking it as the puffs of the locomotive were drowned in the rush of escaping air when the brakes pressed the car wheels. Not long afterward, however, she arose and was driven about the city with her party.

Of course she likes Portland. Its clear snappy air and the wild from the river reminded her of the lake breezes that have made Chicago famous. The mountains rose in robes of white to salute her and she was satisfied. All thoughts of the rains and floods of Seattle were driven from her mind as she stood on Council Crest and looked over the intervening valley to Mount Hood.

The return drive through the beautiful residence district that she probably forgot that she was snubbed once upon a time by Infanta Eulalia, as a tavern keeper, because she owned the Palmer house.

She returned to her car well pleased and late this afternoon was waiting patiently for the hour of her departure for San Francisco tonight.

Mr. Josiah Zeitlin, 101 years old July, 1906, lives with his daughter, Mrs. Isaac Krinsky, Brooklyn.

He says that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has prolonged his life, and is the medicine to restore health and vigor in old people.

He writes: "Although I was 101 years old on July 23 last, I still feel that I am good for several years. I was born at Loda, in Poland, and after a lengthy business life in the old land came to this country in 1882 to reside with my daughter. I have used Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for many years and find it very beneficial. It invigorates and gives me strength. I feel that it has helped me to live 191 years. It seems to be the very medicine old people need to restore their falling health and strength."—Josiah Zeitlin, 136 Lexington Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., August 10, 1906.
