

DR. MORRISSEY IS IN PORTLAND

Prominent Catholic Educator on an Official Visit to Columbia University.

SEES GREAT FUTURE FOR PORTLAND SCHOOL

Declares Time Will Come When Portland Will Be Known as Notre Dame of the West—Will Remain Here Two Weeks.

The Very Rev. Dr. Andrew Morrissey, provincial of the congregation of the Holy Cross of the United States of Notre Dame, Indiana, is visiting at Columbia university. Dr. Morrissey is perhaps the best known educator of the Catholic church in the United States today, and is in Portland in his official capacity as general head of all the catholic educational institutions of the United States.

Dr. Morrissey reached Portland on Wednesday and on Thursday was the guest of honor at a banquet given at the university and attended by all the Catholic clergy in the city, including Archbishop Christie. On that occasion the visitor was welcomed to Portland in an address prepared by the students of Columbia university. Dr. Morrissey responded to the ardent welcome in happy manner, dwelling on the opportunities of the institution which he hoped in a few short years would be known far and wide as the "Notre Dame of the West."

Will Remain Two Weeks.
The distinguished visitor expects to remain in Portland for a couple of weeks. While here he will confer with President Gallagher in regard to the future of the university, the improvements to be made and the work to be done during the coming year. It is believed that with the present rapidity of growth a new dormitory will have to be constructed at the university in a short time, and this matter will be taken up and discussed by Dr. Morrissey during his stay here. Future additions to the present faculty will also be gone into, and it is possible that it will be decided to add new chairs to the present course of instruction next year. This depends to a certain extent, however, upon the attendance at the college.

His Record at Notre Dame.
Dr. Morrissey was for 12 years the president of Notre Dame, the leading Catholic college of the United States. Two years ago he asked for a leave of absence and for a year traveled in Europe as the companion of the superior general of the congregation of the Holy Cross, who is in charge of all the educational institutions conducted by that order in the world. Returning from his trip abroad Dr. Morrissey was in Portland for a short visit last June, and since that time has been placed in charge of the Catholic institutions of the United States.

The visitor is enthusiastic over Oregon and the future of the west. He considers that the young man of the west has great opportunities for development and he hopes to aid in this growth by the upbuilding of Columbia university.

"I hope the time will come," said the visitor yesterday, "when on my visits to the university, I will see river banks here dotted with college buildings. I trust that in the near future it will come to pass that Columbia university can be truthfully called the Notre Dame of the west. That will mean a great deal, as those who know Notre Dame appreciate, but I trust that the time will come."

Upon leaving Portland Dr. Morrissey will continue on his round of official inspection of the different Catholic colleges and universities of the United States.

JUDGMENT GIVEN AGAINST UNITED RAILWAYS CO.

Judge Fraser in the state circuit court yesterday afternoon gave Attorney George V. Hazen judgment for $2,250 against the United Railways company. Attorney Hazen alleged that he had been retained by the company as attorney and real estate broker, and that an accounting was had at which it was determined that the company owed him the amount sued for. The company admitted that service had been rendered by Attorney Hazen, but contended that they were not worth $2,250.

Judge Fraser found that the contentions of Hazen were supported by the facts in the case, and gave him judgment for the full amount sued for. Former Attorney-General C. M. Idleman appeared for Hazen. The United Railways company was represented by Attorney A. C. Emmons.

And still the demand for timber claims increases and the price advances.

Leading Clothier BEN SELLING Leading Clothier

As the master with his ship, a boy with his dog, so is "Grandpa" Jennings, of H. Jennings & Sons, with his great furniture store. Carelessly he goes through his broad noles, pausing with lingering fondness on the platform of each spacious floor, playing a joyous game of "peek-a-bob" in and out of the smaller, more exclusive departments, laying his hands on certain pieces of furniture and favorite figures in statuary with the tenderness of a father for a child.

Keep the money produced in Oregon in the state; that's the slogan—in a nutshell—of many of the new large firms, notably, Oregon Life Insurance company, which began business last April, and has written close onto 500 policies, up to the present, for amounts ranging from $1,000 to $10,000, every cent received being invested right here in Oregon. A very praiseworthy feature of this company is its plan of children's policies—a very different plan from others that have brought criticism upon child insurance. The child is insured at any age after one year, and should he die before reaching maturity, the amount of the premium actually paid in with interest compounded annually at a per cent per annum is returned to the parents; should he live, at 21 he receives the full amount that the policy calls for, and is thus started in life with a snug bank account. This arrangement removes the disagreeable idea of parents gaining by the death of the child, and provides very satisfactorily for the uncertainties of the future. L. Samuel, general manager, has been many years connected with the life insurance business.
