DR. MORRISSEY ON MAN'S DUTY

Same Laws Govern World Now
as in the Ancient Time, the Speaker Declares.

RIGHTS OF PROPERTY THE SAME, HE SAYS

Final Judgment of Man Will Be Based Upon the Actions Which Characterize the Every-Day Life of the Individual.

The very Reverend Dr. Andrew Morrissey, provincial of the Congregation of the Holy Cross of the United States, who for 12 years was president of Notre Dame, spoke at St. Patrick's church yesterday morning on the subject of "Man's Duty to God and His Fellow Man."

Dr. Morrissey argued in his address that the same laws governed the conduct of the people of the world today as held in ancient times. The laws against theft, blasphemy and all crime were the same, the result of their violation the same as in ages past. Man had the same rights, the same duties, the same obligations, changed only by the changing conditions of the present day life.

The rights of property were the same in the present age, the speaker urged, as they were in that time when man was given the command that by the sweat of his face should he earn his bread. The final judgment of man will be based upon the actions which characterized the every-day life of the individual.

Dr. Morrissey said that the people of the present time were apt to lose sight of the things spiritual through their striving after the things temporal, but in spite of this man would be judged by the good he had done in his life. Man is a social being and years for the company and association of his fellows. For this reason each has an influence over the other for good or evil. The world admires the man who uses his power for influencing others to good ends. Such a man becomes a public benefactor and a man of honor.

Each man has a duty which he owes to his country, the speaker taught, and this duty was in hand with the good works of life. The man who was not a good citizen was lacking in his qualities as a man and did not carry out the obligation owed by him to his fellow man.

A large audience greeted the distinguished speaker.

$5 per day each to wait upon him, and his display of wealth fairly dazzled people. He was much embarrassed by the lack of accommodations, and declared that within the next year he would return and build a $50,000 hotel on Nisart's beach. He predicted that this beach would become the most popular beach on the coast, and said he would return once a year with a party of German friends for a season of hunting big game. His first bear in Tillamook county cost him $5,000, counting the money spent from the time he left home in Germany.

Syndicate to Build Hotel.

A syndicate of Portland men will beat the county's time on the hotel proposition. They have organized a company and purchased a tract of 412 acres on the peninsula, with the ocean in front and Nisart's bay back of it. In the syndicate are W. W. Cotton, Louis G. Clark, William W. Woodward, Phil Mettschan, Phil Mettschan Jr., W. H. Morrow, Chester G. Murphy, Judge Murphy, Ben Albers, John Manning, H. M. Adams, B. E. Haney, C. G. Moore, all of Portland; E. H. Snouffer, Tillamook; W. Ferguson, Astoria; Judge Hamilton, Roseburg. It is proposed that a complete ocean beach resort be laid out, and a hotel of 400 rooms will probably be built by Phil Mettschan & Son.

Mr. Ferguson, who is said to have sold more seaside resort lots than any other man in Oregon, is interested at Seaside, North Beach, Long Beach and Cannon Beach. He is quoted as saying that the prospects for ocean beach development at Nisart's bay are extraordinary. Another syndicate has purchased 160 acres remaining of the peninsula, and is planning an exclusive resort which will be reached by a trestle bridge across the neck of the bay.

OCEAN BEACH IS CHANGING HANDS

Great Activity in Real Estate in Vicinity of Tillamook and Nietarts Bay.

OVER FORTY HOUSES NOW CONTRACTED FOR

Portland Syndicate Plans to Build
Hotel and Establish Exclusive Resort—One Thousand Acres of Beach Land Changes Hands.

Practically the entire ocean beach in the vicinity of Tillamook and Nietarts bay is changing ownership, in anticipation of the developments attending the building of two railroads connecting with Portland. It is believed in various quarters that Tillamook beaches, with railroad transportation, will become the most popular beaches on the north Pacific coast.

reality at Tillamook City. The building of about 40 houses is now contracted for and construction will be carried on this winter.

"Tillamook is one of the most active business points in Oregon today," said B. O. Snouffer at the Imperial hotel yesterday. Mr. Snouffer, who is in Portland on real estate business, is an old-time merchant and one of the best known men in Tillamook county.

"The Astoria & Columbia River railroad is surveyed from Seaside to Tillamook City, and about one half of the right of way has been secured. Condemnation suits for a third of the remainder have been started. The survey of the Pacific Railway & Navigation company is completed to Tillamook City, rights of way are purchased excepting five tracts on the route, and terminal grounds are bought at Tillamook. Ground has been broken in the city, and grading is under way. The tunnel at Hobsonville has been opened and work in it will be carried on all winter. Tillamook City is sure of two steam railroads and there is strong probability of an electric line from Portland. You can just say that things are moving out Tillamook way."

Lead Changes Hands.
More than 2,000 acres of beach lands have changed hands in the last 30 days. The prediction of a German visitor, Count Von Lauterbach, who hunted bear in Tillamook county six weeks ago, is coming true much sooner than was expected. He came all the way from Germany to hunt bear in Oregon, and spent nearly two weeks in Tillamook county. He took three bear and a number of cougar and was delighted with the country. It is said he has five men at

FROM THE POOR HOUSE TO LUXURY

After Thirty-Seven Years, James R. West is Rewarded for Saver- ing Bride From Drowning.

(Journal Special Service.)
Manfield, O., Nov. 25.—Last night I slept in the poor house. Tonight I leave for Washington in a palace car.

James R. West, a wanderer over 30 years of age, made this statement just before he boarded a train which will take him to Washington, District of Columbia, and wealth.

Thirty-seven years ago West was on the ill-fated Powhatan, which burned on the Potomac river, with a loss of over 200 lives. There was a newly married couple on board when the fire broke out; they became separated. West swam to shore with the bride. The husband was also rescued. The years passed on. West became a wanderer on the face of the earth. He was admitted to the poor-house here last summer.

The young couple raised a family and grew old. Then the groom of 27 years died, and two years ago the bride, Mrs. Janette Cammack followed him. She bequeathed property valued at over $5,000 to West, besides money to the amount of about $1,000.

The heirs endeavored to find West, but without avail. West wanted an easy chair. He wrote to an old friend in Washington for $10 to buy it. The friend communicated with the Cammack heirs, and West received a New York draft to-day.
