

McGINN IS CITED TO APPEAR

Must Show Cause Why He Shouldn't Be Punished for Contempt.

ORDER IS SIGNED BY FOUR JUDGES

Result of War of Words in Courtroom Is Second Adjudgment of Contempt Against the Attorney, Who Remains Firm.

As a result of the war of words between Attorney Harry E. McGinn and Presiding Judge Sears in the state circuit court yesterday morning, McGinn has been cited to appear before the court Saturday morning at 10 o'clock and show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court.

While McGinn and Judge Sears were the only participants in the discussion, it occurred in the presence of all four of the circuit judges, sitting on the bench, and the order directing McGinn to appear Saturday was signed by Judge Sears, Frazer, Cleland and Gantenbein. The order was made by the judges after a consideration of the events of yesterday morning, which resulted in McGinn being taken from the courtroom by Deputy Sheriff Penumbra Kelly at the request of Judge Sears. A stenographic report of all that was said was made by the official court reporter, and this report is made a part of the order. A return from the McGinn shows that the citation to appear Saturday morning was served on McGinn in person by Sheriff Stevens.

The proceeding has grown out of the attack made upon District Attorney Manning Saturday morning by Attorney McGinn. McGinn was adjudged in contempt for what he said then and was fined $25. When the fine was imposed by Judge Sears, McGinn stated that he wanted to repeat what he had said and the fine was increased to $100. Further remarks by McGinn resulted in the fine being finally fixed at $150. Yesterday morning McGinn appeared in court as usual, and Judge Sears refused to recognize him as an attorney. At this McGinn stated that he meant everything he had said to the court and would continue recalcitrant. Judge Sears asked McGinn to leave the courtroom. McGinn refused to go. The sheriff was sent for and McGinn finally consented to retire.

AMAZING DISCLOSURES IN CARUSO SCANDAL

Bishop, Several Ministers and Many Others Accused of Similar Offenses.

New York, Nov. 27.—Further amazing disclosures have grown out of the Caruso case, already one of the most scandalous sensations of the civilized world. Deputy Police Commissioner Mathot, who presented the case in police court against Caruso and who at the time of the trial hinted at more revelations, declares that the police have on their records one bishop, several ministers, one priest, one branch secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, lawyers, business men, physicians, musicians, actors, managers and others who have been arrested for the same offense for which Caruso has been convicted. The Young Men's Christian association secretary jumped his bail. The Journal is authorized for the statement that Mathot will make public the names of these offenders when Caruso's case comes up for hearing on appeal.

It is interesting to note in this connection that the day before Caruso's arrest a musician, Mrs. House, branch at the Metropolitan was fined $10 for an offense similar to Caruso's. The Central Park authorities are seriously considering the closing of the monkey house. Mathot has received several Black Hand letters from admirers of Caruso. A specimen letter reads as follows: "Produce Mrs. Graham or you will be among the missing." It is decorated with the usual skull and cross-bones.

STATE TEACHERS IN SESSION

Morning Session Is Devoted Largely to Departmental Work.

MISS GERTRUDE METCALF GIVES INTERESTING TALK

Deplores Slaughter of Oregon Native Birds for the Millinery Market and Pays Tribute to William Finley for His Work.

The morning's session of the State Teachers' association was largely taken up with departmental work, following some exercises of general interest in the auditorium. Professor Robert Krohn led classes in wand drill, club swinging and callisthenics, the ease and perfect time exhibited winning merited applause.

Miss Gertrude Metcalf, representing the State Audubon society, read an interesting paper and spoke strongly of the disgrace to Oregon of allowing native birds to be slaughtered in thousands for the adornment of millinery dealers in other states. She spoke in commendation of the work of a Portland man, William Finley, who has won more than a national reputation with his bird studies from life.

Dr. E. C. Moore of Los Angeles closed the morning's session with an able and well considered address on "The Older and the Newer in Education."

At the afternoon session yesterday the nominations were made. Election takes place by ballot and the results will be made known on Wednesday afternoon. For president, Miss Aphie L. Dimick and A. T. Moore of Salem; for first vice-president, R. F. Robinson; second vice-president, J. H. Stanley and W. W. Wiley of Tillamook county; for secretary, the present incumbent, George W. Jones of Salem; for treasurer, the present incumbent, Miss Caroline Barnes.

BUSINESS SUSPENDED DURING THE FUNERAL

Business was suspended in St. Johns yesterday in honor of a fellow-citizen James Crittenden Scott, whose funeral was being held from the family home. Mr. Scott, after a long illness covering several months, died in St. Johns, Sunday, November 25. Deceased was born near Fort Wayne, Indiana, in 1851, and came to St. Johns 18 years ago, where he has resided since. He has been active in promoting the welfare of that community, and has been prominent in all movements for the betterment of St. Johns.

James Crittenden Scott.

Mr. Scott developed the water system of St. Johns from a mere private well to its present large proportions. He represented St. Johns at the capital when they were asking the legislature for their charter, and has many times proved himself a useful citizen to St. Johns.

He was married when quite young and moved to Nebraska, where much of his life was spent. He was early converted to the Seventh Day Adventist faith, and was thereby attracted to St. Johns on account of the strong church at that place. A widow, two daughters and three sons survive him.

POSTAL CLERKS FORM UNION FOR MORE PAY

LEONCAVALLO IN CONCERT AT HEILIG

Leoncavallo is a composer, not a conductor. He can retain his place at the music desk with undisturbed honors, but behind the conductor's baton he is not a startling success.

To be sure, he is not the first brilliant composer who has thus failed to conduct an orchestra. Witness Richard Wagner. So no actual stigma attaches itself to this failure. But let us remember him as the composer of the great "Pagliacci," "Zaza," "Medici" and "Bohème," but not as a conductor. And let us deal lightly with his sins and forgive him the "Vive l'America March." Every great man has his falls from grace.

But, though Leoncavallo does not have the necessary fire and magnetism to make a good conductor—which does not mean that he should swing his arms and do the monkey-on-the-string act—through his orchestra, he is a conductor even though it is from La Scala, there is still much to grow enthusiastic over in the concerta yesterday. The matinee performance lacked life, and though the audience applauded and sang at good time, it was with about the same amount of spontaneity shown by the performers. There were some excellent numbers, but the best of these were repeated at the night performance.

In the evening the crowded house, the increased enthusiasm, and perhaps the feeling that their evening dress was no longer out of place, reacted favorably on the performers. The Italian fire was present in what they did. The Pagliacci program was greeted with cheers well deserved, perhaps because it is best known. The Prologue was sung indifferently well by Bellotti, but its favoritism created applause worthy of a better rendition. Rizzini's singing of the bird song of Nedda, the faithful wife of the barber, and the duet of Ferranti's rendition of the passionate love scene between Sylvio and Nedda was excellent. Rizzini has a delightful bell canto voice and though her low notes are not up to the standard of her open, high notes, she is a singer of merit and was greeted as such. Barbanti popularized himself by his ability to act. When his repetition of the afternoon's walk number from "Zaza" brought him back with the "Arioso" from Pagliacci, the dramatic song of Nedda's husband, Caruso with its marvelous feeling and tone broke upon the enthusiasm broke bounds, for there was shown real head work.

The seven-voice number from the "Medici" an excellent work. Leoncavallo's first opera which was not accepted for many years after writing and after the Pagliacci had popularized him, was good music and the clear women's voices balanced well against the orchestra and the five men's voices. It was repeated. Ferranti's last Muzette number was delightful, as were all her numbers.

But the whole program cannot well be reviewed in detail. Leoncavallo's productions took on added interest because of his presence; the singers all were of good voice and some exceptions; Signor Barbanti is a dramatic singer with rather good voice and excellent head. Signora Rizzini has an exceptionally clear bell canto tone. Signor Ferranti would not have to sing Italian because her beauty alone would win her applause. Signor Perza was delightfully funny in his one solo, a Roland number replacing the harlequin's song of "Pagliacci." Leoncavallo's provincial opera even though his "Suite Antienne" was dainty and pretty; the Italians are exceedingly courteous though often awkward and unpolite in their politeness and each was modest in disclaiming responsibility for his triumph; these were only a few of the facts that percolated through the minds of the observers. And altogether the audience remembered the presence of a great composer and so did homage forgetting the lesser errors of the program. And let us only fail to say that the great Leoncavallo deserves all the praise he gets and much more in some cases.

THANKSGIVING WORK BY THE VOLUNTEERS

The poor will be fed and clothed by the Volunteers of America this Thanksgiving, as usual, and donations of food, clothing and money are solicited. Captain Arents and his wife are again at the head of the spiritual and philanthropic work of the movement and ask the aid of the friends who have stood by them in the past. The working-girls' home of the Volunteers of America has been moved to No. 20 East Sixth street north, where the headquarters of the organization is also located. Send donations to headquarters or telephone to East 261.

NO EFFORT MADE TO MOB TILLMAN AT CHICAGO

Senator Surprised That an Attempt Should Be Made to Gag Him in Northern City.

Chicago, Nov. 27.—Senator B. R. Tillman arrived here this morning and was met by a guard of police. Hundreds of curious citizens thronged the vicinity of the station. To Mrs. Keller the senator remarked: "I would like to hire you for press agent." Mrs. Keller assented and Mr. Tillman said: "But you are too much of a genius." The crowd good-naturedly cheered him. No negroes were present.

The senator in a brief speech at the Ironquois said: "I am surprised at such a hullabaloo in a northern city. I am more surprised at the attempt to curtail free speech. A previous attempt caused a war and the remarkable that an attempt should be made to muzzle a United States senator. I shall speak along lines pertinent to the welfare of the people and you will hear nothing undemocratic and plenty that is white."

BISHOP POTTER REBUKED FOR HIS HIGH LIVING

New York, Nov. 24.—Edward M. Shephard, counsel for Dr. A. S. Crapsey, the Rochester clergyman who has resigned from the Episcopal church after being convicted of heresy, states that a conviction in these cases is his own advice, as civil courts would hold void the ecclesiastical tribunal decisions. In reply to Bishop Potter's remarks Mr. Shephard said: "Dr. Crapsey has not, ever since he entered the ministry, lived with the rich; he is not served today by a butler and a second man, and a footman and a coachman; he is not one of the chief figures at the dinner tables of the private palaces of his city; he is neither used to nor fond of sybaritic indulgence. But, although Dr. Crapsey is deficient in these, he has given his entire life to the carrying of Christianity to the industrious poor of the city in which he lives."

THANKSGIVING SERVICE OF THE SALVATION ARMY

The usual Thanksgiving service of the Salvation Army will be held Thursday morning at 190 Fourth street. The subject of the meeting will be "A Cheerful Giver." In the evening, "Gears on the Snow Did It" will be the title of a service of song. The army workers will not serve a Thanksgiving dinner Thursday, having decided to reserve all their energies and resources of this character for their annual Christmas dinner for the poor.

FORMER CONVICT BOUND OVER

Chick Houghton Is Held to Circuit Court on Robbery Charge.

DECLARE THAT POLICE ARE PERSECUTING HIM

Attorney for the Defense Says Officers Are Worrying Ex-Convict Because He Has Done Time—Evans Has Hearing.

"Chick" Houghton, ex-convict, charged with having robbed F. D. Lloyd, a barber, on Second and Main streets about 10 days ago, was bound over to the circuit court this morning by Judge Cameron. Bonds were fixed at $1,000. Houghton is now awaiting trial in the upper court on a larceny charge and until the time of his arrest on the robbery charge had his liberty on $1,000 bonds.

Houghton endeavored to prove an alibi by calling George Walton and J. Raudenbaugh to testify that he did not leave the Wigwam saloon when Lloyd left the place, but was busily engaged in a pool game at the time the robbery is alleged to have occurred. Two of the witnesses subpoenaed, Morris Simon and J. J. Smith, failed to materialize. Simon was taken into custody after the crime on suspicion of being implicated in the robbery, but could not be identified by Lloyd.

Houghton was placed on the stand to make a statement. He strenuously denied having robbed Lloyd and claimed that the police were trying to "job" him. He indulged in some choice unprintable expletives and was admonished by Judge Cameron to be more select in his language.

Attorney McMahon, counsel for the defense, in summing up the case, took occasion to state that Lloyd was prevaricating about the manner in which he lost his property. The attorney declared that the complaining witness was not robbed in the street but in the saloon and that the stolen articles were now in Vancouver. He characterized his client's great anxiety as an outrage and accused the police of hounding Houghton simply because he was an ex-convict.

Evans Given Hearing.

Carl Evans, former member of the fire department and now an expressman, was given a trial prior to the preliminary hearing of Houghton, on the charge of contempt of court in endeavoring to induce Lloyd to leave the city. Lloyd testified that Evans had approached him with a statement that an unknown man had jumped in his wagon and told him that the articles stolen from the complainant would be returned in addition to two weeks' pay, if he would leave town. Lloyd apparently agreed and immediately notified a patrolman to be on hand when Evans and the stranger returned. Evans put in an appearance alone, however, and stated that the deal would not take place. The witness stated that Evans had advised him to accept the offer. J. J. Loin, a barber, corroborated Lloyd as to Evans' visit.

The fireman in his own behalf declared that he was actuated solely by a desire to warn Lloyd and approached him the second time out of curiosity to see if the transaction had taken place. He testified that he did not know the name of the man who had jumped into his wagon and broached the matter to him, but would know the fellow again. He denied advising Lloyd to leave the city.

Judge Cameron took the case under advisement and will render a decision next week. In the meantime Evans is out on $250 bonds.

A Word About the Steinbach & Dreher Piano.

The Reed-French Co. Claim for it Extraordinary Merit.

We opened our warehouses, Sixth and Burnside streets, about three months ago; and we have always been mindful of the impressions people have of a business by the style of its advertising—we admit ours hasn't been very elegant, but we have tried to make it truthful—we are anxious to get off on the right foot in Portland.

It doesn't pay to overestimate—it is a one sided policy and in view of these observations of ours we want to say the STEINBACH & DREHER PIANO is an excellent instrument—it is intelligently made—it is made with the idea of meeting every requirement of the northwest—it is made durable and yet with a plainness about it which makes it ideally suited to the man of ordinary income—the tone is a five hundred dollar tone.

We invite you to try a STEINBACH & DREHER PIANO for a week or ten days and if satisfactory we will make the price right. See us tonight.
