MOUNT SCOTT DISTRICT WANTS BIG SCHOOLHOUSE

Principal Declares Structure Contain ing Twenty Rooms Is Necessary at Laurelwood-New Industries Are Springing Up in Sellwood.

The East Side Improvement association, at its meeting this evening, will start the movement for the erection of a steel bridge to replace the Madison street structure. Nothing definite has been decided upon concerning the plans for the new bridge, but at this evening a meeting committees will be appointed to investigate every particular in regard to replacing the old bridge, which is thought by many to have served its time and become unsafe.

Whitney L. Boise, president of the Improvement association, this morning said: "The need of a new bridge cannot be ignored. The bridge was not built for the heavy traffic that it now carries in the big O. W. P. care that pass over it every few minutes, some of them heavily loaded trains. It will take three years at least to complete fine bridge, and no time should be lost in getting to work at it. The improvement association will appoint committees tonight and get right to work on it so as to lose as little time, as possible. From our experience of the Morrison bridge if we get the proposition before the people next June, arrangements with the railway company will consume some time, and figuring on a year for construction we cannot expect to have a new bridge within two years and a half from next June."

When asked as to the probability of the new bridge being built from Jefferson instead of from Madison, street, Mr. Boise said that that would have to receive further consideration, and that he was not aware of what the consensus of opinion was on the matter.

A 20-room schoolhouse was what the Mount Scott Improvement association decided must be provided to furnish the district immediately surrounding Laurelwood with adequate school facilities instead of the 16-room building as suggested by the board of education."

Principal Miller reported that the conditions were such that a 20-room building my was necessary to supply the needs of the district. In his report it was stated that the school children were scattered over the district to the number of 400 in rooms holding from 40 to 60 pupils. In these rooms 25 were without desks. Mr. Miller said that there were enough pupils in the district to fill 13 rooms now, and that if the increase kept up a 10-room building would not be too large. It was reported that 200 shildren had come into the district in the last six weeks.

All kinds of vegetables will be used as well as condemned fruit. He believes that fruit can be obtained along Front street at aimost nothing, merely for the asking, which will make his profits large. Mr. McDole is confident that the farmers will soon see that the profits from vegetables raised for the alcohol industry will be mrger than most any other use that they can put their land to, and that his enterprise will grow accordingly.

Opening of Mills Delayed.

The Sellwood woolen mills were to have started last week, but when the time arrived it was found that several little things that had been overlooked in the hurry had to be provided before they could handle any wool. It is not known now just when the mills will be opened, but it is thought that everything will be in readiness by the first of the year.

"Tou don't mean to say that you can sell pianos with everything looking topsy-turvy and all this work of rebuilding and remodeling going on." said a caller at Ellers Piano House yesterday. We had to admit that things were in a rather chaotic state, to all appearances, at least, and that things were in a rather chaotic state, to all appearances, at least, and that things were in a rather chaotic state, to all appearances, at least, and that the constant of the said that the said of the said that the said of the work of practically installing a five-floor building in one originally intended for but two.

But to show him that even under these circumstances pianos can be sold we showed him our sale report for yesterday and for Saturday, which, of course, astonished him. "Nothing astonishing about it," we said. "The only wonder is that we haven't sold out nearly all of these fine pianos at the emergency sale prices, representing a reduction of from $100 to $125, yes, in some cases as much as $200 from the price at which these instruments are usually sold by retail realers.

When we are offering here to take $154 each for choice of four largest size fancy cased Ludwig upright planos, which to all appearances look as though they had never been used at all, and are willing to take $24 or even $14 cash, and the balance at $7 or $8 a month, it seems to us they ought to be taken up quickly. Here is a Krell plano that is new. It is a mahogany case. Some dealers ask $255 for it. We'll take $188 cash or $9 a month for it. A splendid Jacob Doll plano, good and serviceable, for $195, for which other dealers have asked as much as $350, yes, even $275. A superb little oak-cased Kimball upright, not yet seven years eld, goes now for $228, and another fancy mahogany case Steinway upright is now $285, and $8 less takes a splendid medium-sized mahogany case Kimbal. Per hearing here, can be secured for $286. A very good mahogany case Steinway upright is now $285, and $8 less takes a splendid medium-sized mahogany case Knabe. Remember these last named pianos are not brand new, but we doubt if even an expert could tell them from a new one. Fischers, Mathushek, Mehlin, Decker, Hallett & Davis, and other brands, all at corresponding reductions.

But the Sale Beport.

Here is the report of Saturday's and Monday's plane selling. We have sold more than these at yarious times, during the past three years, in a single lay, but we doubt if anywhere in the United States so many planes ever were sold under circumstances, twice or three times more favorable, in so far is display and chance to show the instruments is concerned. We are still really very much disarranged, but that is the reason why prices have been made so low and that is the reason why discriminating purchasers secure planes of we are still really were than waiting until everything is again in apple pie order.

Mrs. H. G. Sladen purchased a Marshall & Wendell.

Mrs. Fors Butler, a Story & Clark.

Miss M. Leman came in from Lafayette, Or., and purchased a Marshall & Wendell.

Mr.a. F. A. Hogan bought a self-playing electric plano.

A Bush & Gerts was secured by Mr. Llese, and the very finest fancy mahogany cased Weber upright plano was purchased by E. F. Patterson.

Mr. H. Bauman, of the Bauman Hotel, bought one of the fancy exhibition style Kimball uprights, which was also specially ordered for the opening.

Mr. James Pullen bought another of the popular Marshall & Wendell planos, while the Misses Pauline and Rosa Joss bought one of the fancy, finany-toned Wesser orchestral planos. The order was received from the Delta Alpha fraternity for another one of the Marshall & Wendell planos.

Mr. H. J. Dunn decided upon a Steck Planola Plano, and a Planola was sold to Miss Josephine Duncan.

Mr. Fritz Howe bought a Weber plano in fancy mahogany case. A Bailey plano to be used as a premium in a prize contest was ordered by the Press Publishing Co. Mr. C. C. Gildes bought a nice little Kimball organ.

Another one of the fancy exhibition instruments ordered for the opening was 41.50 Chickering Baby Grand in crotch mahogany. Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Day bought it vesterday for their new home. ... fine Stuyvesant Planola Plano (the $550 kind) was bought by Dr. H. Aligrove. Another Planola was purchased by Mr. J. R. O'Neil.

Miss Emma Neely decided upon a slightly used Milton piane, and a Hobart M. Cable piano, the medium size, was bought by Mr. Norman R. Totten.

Mrs. J. G. Aldrich and her sister-iniaw, Mrs. W. H. Moots, each purchased the same style of the Marshall & Wendell upright: Another Bailey piano went to Miss Eva McRea. A Kimball organ was purchased by Mr. W. H. Later, asso a mail order.

One of the famous Chickering grands, which have become so popular in homes of wealth of late years, was, secured by Mrs. A. Closan, and still another Kimball organ was purchased by Mr. C. S. Gregg. A very large fancy oak-cased Kimball orchestral upright went to Miss Jennie McLeod, while another beautiful fancy English buri wai piano was purchased by Mrs. John Raymond.

The above are sales at Eilers Plano House for Baturday and yesterday. Could say better or more definite proof of the genuineness of our offers be adduced? We think not. We are anxious to sell planos, and in our extremity shall not refuse any reasonable offer as to terms of payment now. But come in today or tomerrow. We are getting under way and as soon as we are thoroughly installed in the new premises this emergency sale is over.

at Christmas time is what give "a mere man." Why not use common sense and give him something he'd really like to have, though perhaps he hasn't had time to think about it? At M. Sichel's, among the new men's furnishings, there are beautiful pale gray waistcoats, with ties and gloves of the same pearly tint, about which there could be no two opinions; there are lovely moonstone links and buttons that have superseded pearl ones for full dress, and there are "Books, bonbons, bouquets—nothing else from young gentlemen, my dear," said the mothers of a past generation; and so say they today—but with variations. However, the three ancient b's afford a less restricted choice than might seem to be the case at first thought. Take books, for instance; go to the J. K. Gill company's store and rummage around. If the young lady in question has dainty taste, she can be easily charmed by one of a line of which "The Violet Book" is a representative. The author is Bettina Van Hutten, the story a pretty one and the pearl ones for full dress, and there are the most dainty handkerchiefs, in silk and linen, one style being criss-crossed in checker-board effects, another with colored heavy thread borders and an-other embroidered in pure white. A box of fine imported handkerchiefs is a gift a number of young women have had put aside for certain destinations of tender associations, and it is certainly a sensible choice.
