

FIFTY-FOOT LEDGE ALL PAY ORE

Property That Promises to Make Windy Hollow Still Further Famous.

SOLID MILLING QUARTZ CARRIES NO STRINGERS

Finds Made of Rock Blazing With Richness, but What Holds Practical Mining Men Is the Hollow's Mammoth Low-Grade Veins.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Grants Pass, Or., Jan. 14.—M. Marks, manager, and Fred Briggs, secretary, of the Lakeview Mining & Milling company, owner of extensive mining holdings in the New Windy Hollow district, near Lakeview, have been here for the past few days in the interest of their company. They state that though the weather has been bad in that part of Oregon for the past month, with considerable snow, there has been little or no cessation in mining activity. The several claims that have been and are being developed in Windy Hollow are proving richer and better with depth, and every day it becomes more apparent that the Windy Hollow will be as lively as many of the famous Nevada camps within the next few months. "The main ledge on our own property is being developed by tunnel," said Mr. Marks. "I have just received word from the foreman that the showing of the ledge matter is daily growing better, and from what I know of the property from my careful inspection of it before leaving I am convinced that it will make one of the biggest milling propositions on the coast. We do not claim to have a ledge that will run up into the thousands of dollars per ton, but I know we have a ledge fully 50 feet wide that carries from 14 to 24 tons, and that it is all milling quartz with no stringers in it. The same is true of the other properties being developed over there. While there were several fabulous finds made on the surface, the thing that is attracting the best mining men and capital to the district is great width, the stable character and the average values of the ledges." Mr. Marks has just made a trip to Seattle in the interest of his company, having several associates in the sound city who are interested in the district. He is on his way back to Windy Hollow and will personally superintend operations on the claims.

COURT EXCUSES CONTEMPT AND SMILES ABOUT IT

William Yorty Had Load of Coal and Defied Process Server.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Walla Walla, Wash., Jan. 14.—"Tell the court I've got a load of coal and can't come," was the reply Yorty, a witness in the Bremmer assault case, sent to Justice of the Peace J. J. Huffman by Constable Neils Peterson, who had been sent to serve a warrant on him. "In consideration of the weather I will not have a bench warrant issued," said the court, amid the laughter of the spectators in the courtroom. So precious have black diamonds become in the northwest that it has become a common thing to hold up a train and steal them, but Walla Walla believes it has the distinction of showing the first instance on record where the mandate of a court has been openly defied through joy over one load of coal secured. Yorty said he would come as soon as the coal was unloaded, but the prosecuting attorney solved the dilemma by saying the witness was not absolutely essential and ordering the subpoena cancelled.

BEAT THE MAN HE IS SAID TO HAVE WRONGED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Walla Walla, Wash., Jan. 14.—Horace W. Keith was fined $50 and costs in Judge Huffman's court for assaulting Henry Bremmer, husband of a woman whom it is said he induced to run away with him from Canada several months ago. Bremmer followed the man, whom he accuses of breaking up his home, to this country, and finally located him at Walla Walla, 30 miles from here, where he is reported to have been living with Mrs. Bremmer and her 3-year-old son. The father began an action for adultery against her, but later changed this to a habeas corpus proceeding for possession of his child. Judge Brents of the superior court placed the child in the custody of the Gregory family, living in Walla Walla. Bremmer accused him of it. Keith replied by drawing a heavy riding whip from under his coat and beating Bremmer over the head with it, which assault he was fined by the judge.

ANTI-CLERICAL RIOTS DISTURB SPAIN'S PEACE

(Journal Special Service.) Madrid, Jan. 14.—The proposed anti-clerical law will cause the downfall of the ministry, and it is doubtful if the Liberals, even with their majority, can form a new cabinet. In many cities there were anti-clerical demonstrations, accompanied by rioting. Some people were injured at Bilbao, and in San Sebastian 30,000 people paraded, but there were no general clashing with the police.

POPE THANKS AMERICA FOR HER SYMPATHY

(Journal Special Service.) Rome, Jan. 14.—The pope received the students of the American college in this city yesterday, and in the course of his speech, discussing the French situation, said: "In the war that is being waged between the clergy and hell, the expressions of unity and sympathy from Catholics throughout the world are the greatest consolation. America, especially, has distinguished herself in this way. Indeed, America is a great credit to us. When you return to your glorious country, follow the clergy and the people this luminous example of solidarity in the tremendous conflict against the church."

GROWERS ORGANIZE—WILL INCORPORATE

Enthusiasm Marks Session of First Farmers' Institute—Inspiring Addresses by Renowned Specialists—Next Meeting in February.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Roseburg, Or., Jan. 14.—Considering the inclemency of the weather, Roseburg's first farmers' institute opened with a good attendance. Among the prominent men present were Professors James Withcombe, C. I. Lewis and A. E. Corley of the Oregon Agricultural college, A. T. Buxton, master of the state grange, and A. I. Mason of the Hood River Fruit Growers' association. Interposed among the discussions were some splendid and well received musical numbers. The remarks of the speakers were given the closest attention and applause marked the end of each address. The institute opened with an address of welcome by Attorney Louis Barzee, one of Roseburg's most public spirited citizens. Response to Mr. Barzee's remarks was made by Dr. James Withcombe, who stated that Roseburg is a favored spot and that the fruit, mineral and timber resources of the Umpqua valley are unexcelled. In speaking of the object of the institute Prof. Withcombe said: "If you will organize, you will have a quantity and quality of fruit second to none in the state; your opportunities are immense. Be loyal to your own section and let it be known that your section is unsurpassed." Advertisers get the presentation. Prof. Lewis talked on "Management and Location of Orchards." He told of the prizes Oregon had won on her fruit abroad and the reputation, he asserted, that has been established and is being maintained by only a few sections of the state. This, he said, has created the impression that only these localities are in the business of fruit raising. Professor Lewis told of the profits being made by fruit growers in Jackson and Josephine counties, apples, for instance, selling as high as $4 a box. "You don't have to sell apples for $3 a box to make a profit," he said. "If you give your attention to apple growing you can realize 50 per cent profit in selling them at $1 per box and the price will never be lower." How to Plant and Grow. Professor Lewis made the following suggestions: A deep clay loam is the best for apples; heavy soil forces a too rapid growth of the tree to the detriment of the fruit. Apple trees, upon planting, should be placed at least 30 feet apart; the lowest branches should not be over 18 inches from the ground; root growth alternating crops of vetch, clover and rape and then plow it under—the best humus for the orchard. The professor was followed by W. Buxton, who gave a 20-minute talk on organization. To Be Incorporated. A committee of three was appointed to draw up articles of incorporation for a permanent organization to be known as the "Umpqua Valley Fruit Growers' association." The next meeting will be held in February in the court house in this city, when it is expected the above named organization will incorporate. This will mean much for the development of Douglas county's fruit industry.

Writing from Chicago she says: "In December, 1902, I was laid up with a sick spell, at the expiration of which I was very weak, nervous and extremely fatigued. I was unable to eat and I attempted to resume rehearsals with a faintness seized me that I was compelled to stop. "My strength returned very slowly and I spent my time in lying down and worrying till my mother persuaded me to try Grape-Nuts food for my breakfast. I confess I had but little hope that it would do me any good, but made up my mind to give it a good fair trial. "I am more than glad that I did. It quickly brought back my lost strength, made my nerves strong and healthy again, and gave me increased health and weight. I always carry it with me now, as I find that some hotels do not keep it. POPE PIUS MAY URGE PEACE, GOOD WILL TO MEN (Journal Special Service.) Rome, Jan. 14.—It is said the Vatican will not have a representative at the peace conference at The Hague, as Italy will not recede from the position taken in 1899, and France would offer a serious objection to having the papacy represented. While the Vatican may not be represented among the nations, it is probable that the pope will issue an encyclical in favor of peace and the limitations of armaments. W. T. Stand has communicated with the papal secretary of state pointing out what a tremendous moral influence the pope could create by such action.
