"I have been quite anxious that the Philadelphia orchestra, under Wm. H. Sherwood for the coming season, and it may be that a vacancy will still occur for some of the concertists during the present season. He is available, and I am sure that there is a demand for just such a pianist. Your audience; I am sure, would like to hear him. (He has without doubt the greatest reputation of any American pianist at the present day), and it is quite fitting that for an American audience the American pianist should have something of a show. I am sure that if you will experiment along this line you will find it turn out very satisfactorily.

He will appear at Marlark hall, Twenty-third and Washington streets, Tuesday evening, March 19.

Plant Sibson's Roses.—Rose bushes you buy from the Sibson rose nurseries are lifted from their fields especially for your planting. Well grown, full of vigorous roots, true to name and quite different from small house-grown ones, unripe, dried up plants with shoe-pile roots frequently offered. Sibson's roses are celebrated as the best and cheapest in the market. Buyers welcome to inspect them at the foot of Bond street, off East 13th. Take Sellwood car. Office and nurseries 1180 Milwaukee avenue. Do not delay planting if you desire early flowers.

Elsewhere in today's paper will be found the advertisement of the Butte Boys' Consolidated Mining company, which should be read by every Journal subscriber before the close of the paper aside. This company has absolute title to 160 acres of land in the heart of the Goldfield mining district in Nevada, and owns not a cent to anybody. There are five quartz claims on this land, each showing immensely rich free milling ore, which it is confidently believed will develop into one of the greatest gold producers in that precious metal state.

While testing the new high-pressure main of the Portland Gas company's works at the foot of Bond street at noon today a joint of pipe gave way, resulting in a small explosion which tore off a few slate shingles and broke several panes of glass in the building. The damage was not exceed $50, including the broken joint of pipe. The new main is one that was recently laid to the east side to supply a new tank, and was being tested for leaks at the time of explosion.

The Maternal Benefit association, a corporation, has recently been organized in this city. This is the first association of the kind in Oregon, and as the name implies, the object of the association is the payment of benefits at the time of childbirth. The purpose of the society is to charge certain dues and at the birth of a child return a cash benefit which will enable the mother to take the required rest, and have the necessary medical attendance and nurse.

Don't Forget.—Tonight, at 7:30 sharp, Rev. Dr. Dickey, the noted tract lecturer, will speak as usual in W. O. W. hall, Eleventh street between Washington and Alder, under auspices of Missioners & Mediums Spiritualist association, chartered by State Spiritualists of Oregon; subject, "The Occult Side of the Planets and Their People, and Their Influence on the Earth." At the close of this service Gertrude Woodfield will give spirit messages. Public welcome.

A men's meeting will be held this (Sunday) afternoon in the Association building, Fourth and Yamhill streets. Rev. E. W. Darst, evangelist, will deliver an address on "Judge Lot of Redness." The musical program will consist of a concert by the M. C. O. orchestra at 3:00 p. m., followed with a solo by Mr. Reuben Adams.

KEEP EMMET'S MEMORY GREEN

Irishmen Will Hold Memorial Services in Woodmen Hall Today.

PATRIOT'S SPEECH IN DOCK WILL BE REPEATED

Songs Loved by Every Son and Daughter of the Emerald Isle to Be a Feature of Services—Large Attendance Promised.

Irish-Americans from all over the state will be in Portland today to attend the memorial services which will be held in the Woodmen hall, Eleventh and Alder streets, in commemoration of Robert Emmet, the young Irish patriot who was executed at the age of 25. Wallace McCannant will preside at the celebration tonight. An address will be given by Judge William Munly and William McGinn will deliver the patriotic speech which Emmet delivered from the dock. The program in full is as follows:

Overture, "Wearing of the Green," opening remarks, Hon. Wallace McCannant; "Emmet's Speech From the Dock," William McGinn; overture, orchestra; "She's Fay From the Land," Miss Mae Breslin; recitation, "Irish Brigade at Fontenoy," by Master Aloysius Hyland; overture, orchestra; "Kathleen Mavourneen," Mrs. Lavinia Whelan; address of the evening, Hon. Judge William Munly; "Oh! Breathe Not His Name," Miss Elizabeth Harwar; "Is Your Mother In Molly Malone?" E. D. Hennessy, president; A. G. H.; "Star-Spangled Banner," by the audience.

Robert Emmet entered Trinity college at an early age, but his ideas of freedom and government were such that he was expelled. Leaving Ireland he went to France to enlist aid in a revolution which he planned for his native country, and it was while carrying out these plans on the island that he was arrested and later executed.

A large attendance is expected at the services this evening, the program for which has been arranged by the committee in charge, consisting of John O'Hare, chairman; E. H. Deery, F. J. Smith, Edward Kilfoather, Dr. W. Lane, J. W. McGinn, J. E. Malley and E. D. Hennessy.

A TWILIGHT REVERIE

DELICATE ROMANCE TOLD IN OUR MUSIC SECTION TODAY

T. Mayo Geary, the successful composer, contributes a choice number to your music collection, and you will find it in the musical part of this paper. The composer's theme is a delightful romance—a twilight recollection of days that were full of love and happiness.

Watching burning embers invariably revives sentiments of long ago, and Mr. Geary portrays this mood with fine skill. His pastoral is tinged with a plaintive little love sentiment that plays upon the emotional side of one's nature.

This song will suit when a quiet mood is upon one, and it will prove a pleasing alternative for songs of a more vivacious character. "Where the Mocking Birds Were Singing" has the color of the southland, and green fields and running brooks are reminiscently pictured.

BRILLIANT FUTURE FOR GEARHART PARK

Costly Improvements Going on at This Ideal Summer Resort on the Ocean Front.

With the coming of spring the Portlander's eyes turn beachward as naturally as the Kansas sunflower follows her god, the sun; and when it is a beach, a little piece of which one actually owns along with an outlook on the Pacific unobstructed to the orient, the tourist is bound to be many degrees more satisfied than otherwise. There is a homey satisfaction in going year after year to the same dear woodland and sea-rimmed nook; in rediscovering the familiar haunts of last season; in making the resting place of the summer months cosy and convenient, and in gradually fitting up and adding to that which is one's own—besides the perpetual delights of old ocean that are in themselves sufficient to drain the interior of every man, woman and child who can manage to drop business and everyday affairs long enough to get a good breath of life-giving salt air.

The spacious new offices of the Gearhart Park people, on the first floor of the Macloy building, on Washington street, have been the Portland weather vane showing which way investments in summer homes are going since they were opened a short time ago. Every Portlander who has been yearly going down to the coast knows the beauties of Gearhart Park; and the most potent argument being used with strangers by the agent for this seaside resort, is a railway ticket to Gearhart. The lots sell themselves. As an investment, they appeal at once to the far-sighted man; as a site for a summer home, they present every pleasing possibility.

Great improvements are being made; Mr. Kraus, the owner, has concluded here for some years one of the splendid hostleries for which he is famous is developing the place with the artistic appreciation of an owner on his own great private estate. A magnificent new hotel, with a 24-foot frontage, every room facing the sea, is in course of construction; the Neacoxie stream has been dammed, providing a lake for boating, electric launches, etc.; an elegant depot, a wide macadamized roadway from the station to the beach, electric lights, mountain water, provisions for perfect seawater, a dairy farm on which are kept the highest bred Holstein cattle, absolutely free of disease, glorious golf links, tennis courts—all these things will be found by the visitor to Gearhart this summer. Mr. Kraus is sparing neither money nor pains to make this the finest resort on the northwest coast, and naturally every cent he reinvests in the place adds to the value of each resident's investment.

Besides Mr. Kraus, who has long efforts, nature has given Gearhart two advantages that would seem to point to special favoritism on the part of the old dame; first, is the wonderful sandy beach without a pebble to mar the long silvery stretch—16 miles of the finest driving, at low tide, in all the world; and second, the natural park—a moss-capped, wreath-hung, druid-haunted retreat for dreamers, and a lovely children that seems actually a bit of fairyland—too good to be true. The good old dame must have transplanted it from some Parnassian mount, saving it unscathed from the wreath of money-mad moderns back to the realms of poetry and art.

The hotel is open the year round, and many enjoy the splendid surf bathing quite as much in the winter as the summer. All in all, Portland is fortunate in having so ideal and accessible a resort, and the individual citizen will hardly overlook the opportunity to own his seaside home in so favorable a location and on such advantageous terms.

BOUGHT DOORS FROM HIMSELF

A. F. Biles, Formerly Manager of W. P. Fuller Company, Sued by W. D. Plus.

PLAINTIFF WANTS HIS NOTE DECLARED VOID

States in Complaint That He Was Led to Believe Fuller Company Was Buying All Its Doors and Sashes From His Rainier Plant.

Charging that A. F. Biles used his position as manager of the W. P. Fuller company to earn profits for the Central Sash & Door agency, his own firm, and fraudulently obtained from W. D. Plus a note for $1,000, Plus has begun suit in the state circuit court to have the note declared void. Plus says the note was given without consideration, under the fraudulent representation that Biles, as manager of the W. P. Fuller company, had gone out of his way to help Plus.

Plus is manager and part owner of the Columbia River Door company and was led to believe that Biles was buying all of the Fuller company's doors and like material from Plus. It is alleged that Biles is a majority stockholder of the Central Sash & Door agency of this city, and that instead of buying from Plus's concern he was diverting all of the Fuller company's business to the Central Sash & Door agency at prices exceeding those charged by the Columbia River company for the same material, thereby earning profits for himself.

Plus says that when he gave the note to Biles he believed that his firm was selling the Fuller company all its doors, and had he known that they were being purchased from the Biles concern he would not have given the note.

It is said that the Fuller company owns about half of the Columbia River Door company, and that the former company also supposed that their doors were being purchased at Rainier. Biles has since resigned from his position as manager.

Biles, in answer to the suit, denies all of Plus's charges, and says that the $1,000 note was in part payment of 2,000 shares of Columbia River Door company stock that he sold to Plus for $4,000.

FOUND ITS NAME HAD BEEN USED BY OTHERS

The Oregon information bureau, a new concern which plans to publish an annual book entitled "The Commercial Guide for Oregon," has just discovered that the information department of the chamber of commerce had previously adopted the same name. The new company will therefore change its name to the Commercial Guide Publishing company.
