

LORD CHARLES BERESFORD SPENDS FEW HOURS IN CITY

British Admiral in Command of World's Greatest Navy Lacks the Doughter-Know Mannerisms—On His Way to Canada After Settling Brother's Estate.

"Lord Charles Beresford—England." On the register at the Portland this morning the casually curious could find the above legend. It reads 205, those very fortunate might have found a short, gray-haired man, pleasant of speech, quiet of manner, poring over a mass of cable messages, telegrams and official documents.

Had the visitor been so fortunate he would have been in the presence of the fighting admiral of the British navy, the man under whose word the great floating forts of England move.

Lord Beresford is a wholesome sort of man. He has no pomposity of bearing, none of the mannerisms usually looked for in one from across the English channel. He is an English gentleman first, an admiral second, then a lord. To look at him one would judge him to be 55 or thereabouts; to talk to him one would think him middle-aged.

"I took this northern route and came by way of Portland from San Francisco on account of the picturesque scenery," the admiral said in opening an interview this morning. Then he pushed back a pile of untended correspondence wearily. "This," he continued, "is a fairly good article for too much scenery."

"I am behind in my correspondence. I had no opportunity to attend to it in San Francisco, and as a result stopped a day in Portland to attend to it. I am now due to raise my flag over the channel fleet, and so am hurrying through lands and past sights which I would like to see at leisure. I am forced to leave Portland at 3 o'clock in order to be in Canada on the time set for my business there, but I would like to remain and visit the city of which I have heard many pleasant things."

Turning from the scenery to the subject of his visit to America at this time, Lord Beresford explained that he had been called to this country by the death of his brother, Lord Dalmeida Beresford, who was killed in a recent train wreck in Dakota, and who left estates in the United States, Mexico, England and Ireland. All of these estates have now been admitted to probate, and the admiral has been compelled to visit the properties in the work of administering the estate.

"I thought I knew something of law," the admiral said, in speaking of his work, "but I find there are many points I must have overlooked. I feel confident, however, that I will know all about the probating of wills and the law of estates when I finish my present work."

Lord Beresford is a warrior in spirit and theory. He believes in the navy as a complement to the dove of peace and is not an advocate of the disarmament of the nations.

"I have told your people," he said, "what I think of the navy and the battleship. Battles cost more than battleships. National armament is, in my opinion, an earnest of national peace. The people are the arbiters of peace or war in the present age. Parliaments and congresses do not declare, they reflect the warlike sentiment of the people when they order their armies into the field. The people then look upon national armament as a national insurance rate; the more formidable the armament the less danger of war. This I have always said and I believe it still."

Believes in Big Navies. "I have told your people," he said, "what I think of the navy and the battleship. Battles cost more than battleships. Parliaments and congresses do not declare, they reflect the warlike sentiment of the people when they order their armies into the field. Declines All Invitations. George S. Shepherd, president of the city council, paid his respects to the visitor and tendered to him the freedom of the city in behalf of the mayor. British Consul James Laidlaw also called.

Nov. A. E. Barnays, chaplain of the Seaman's Institute, invited the admiral to visit the institute, but the visitor was forced by his accumulated business to decline the invitation. He expressed his sympathy with the work, however.

The admiral, accompanied by his secretary and his attorney, Orlando D. Hammond, of New York, left over the Northern Pacific at 2 o'clock for Canada.

McGARRY IS OUT FOR CITY ATTORNEYSHIP

Has Indorsement of Federation of Labor and Expects Support of Union Members.

William H. McGarry has announced himself as a Republican candidate for the nomination of city attorney and will go before the primaries as such.

William H. McGarry.

Mr. McGarry's entrance into the race reveals the first contest for the office. Heretofore John F. Kavanagh was the only man who had announced himself as willing to accept the city attorneyship.

Mr. McGarry's strength is said to lie largely in his support from the labor classes. He has the indorsement of the Federation of Labor. He is known as a popular rights man and will probably receive a large share of the labor vote.

CALIFORNIA JAPANESE THREATEN FRUIT MEN

Vallejo, Cal., March 12.—Residents of Solano county, and especially the fruit-growers of Yaca valley, are facing a very serious problem in regard to the Japanese who reside in this section, numbering several thousand.

The Japanese have become very bold during the past few months, and have gone so far as to threaten orchardists of the county with a labor famine if the wishes of the Japanese are not granted.

Practically all other labor has been driven out of the country. A prominent fruit man was approached by the Japanese to rent an orchard. They wanted the ranch for $1,000 a year. This the fruit man would not take, but asked them a much higher sum.

To his surprise the Japanese told him that if he did not take the offer of $1,000 they would see that he did not get the help necessary to harvest the crop. Other fruit-growers have been threatened in the same manner.

The Hood River News-Letter alludes to a Wasco member of the legislature who voted against Hood River county. "Misrepresentative Hendricks of Cascade Locks honored (7) Hood River with his presence Tuesday, for a few hours."

DOMINATES MAY PROPOSE VOLIVA

Zion City Has a New Prophetess, Who Has a Vision and Forebodings.

(Special Special Service.) Chicago, March 12.—A new "prophetess" has arisen in Zion City, following the death of John Alexander Dowie, Mrs. D. L. Coleman, a wealthy member of the community, predicts a terrible calamity in Zion if its people do not mend their ways and renounce the worldliness to which Mrs. Coleman declares they are returning.

Her forebodings are based on a vision in which she says she was visited by an angel of the Lord. She had a following among the Zionites people which grew stronger today as the hours passed.

Further preparations for the funeral of Dowie were made in Zion City today. The dead apostle will be accorded a great public funeral Thursday afternoon, and it is likely that the inhabitants of the city will lay aside factional differences during the hours of the funeral of the man whose genius created the religious municipality.

A prominent member of Zion said that the deposition of Voliva is possible as a move to reestablish the credit of the community. He predicted that the removal of the recent general overseer might occur at a church conference next September.

WILL SHELTER EVELYN WHEN THAWS DISDAIN

Mrs. Holman Turns Motherly Toward Her Daughter All at Once.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 12.—Mrs. Holman, mother of Evelyn Thaw, defies the Thaw family, saying: "Let them cast her off after her sacrifice. She is my daughter and will return to me in time."

Hereto the mother has shown only resentment against Evelyn, but is now anxious to effect a reconciliation with her daughter. Mrs. Holman says she did her best to be a good mother.

"Florence will realize this when she is a little older and away from her present influences," said Mrs. Holman.

SETTLERS UP IN ARMS

(Continued from Page One.) months past. At the time Governor Chamberlain and the state land board visited the section on an examination that day, the misrepresentation of the company and its failure to make good its promises to the settlers were brought to the attention of the board.

At an indignation meeting held at Laidlaw, Governor Chamberlain advised the settlers that they should in the future refuse to make the balance of their payments to the company or pay the interest on their notes, until the company has lived up to the terms of its contract and complied with the regulations prescribed by the state officials. He took the company strongly to task for issuing circulars which purported to have the sanction of the state board.

The first intimation that preparations were being made to oust the company came a couple of weeks ago when Columbia Southern Irrigating stock fell a few days from its par value of $100 to $55.

In the charges preferred against the company it is cited on April 1, 1904, the company applied for patent to 13,253 acres. The application was signed by W. A. Laidlaw as the state selecting agent, and A. E. Hammond, state engineer. It certified that an ample supply of water had been furnished to the average sufficient to irrigate and reclaim the land and raise ordinary crops, and the board caused the application for patent to be presented to the interior department.

Contrary to this showing, settlers allege there was not sufficient water to reclaim the tract, and that during the following summer there were approximately 1,100 acres which had no water for irrigation purposes, and that a few thousand acres served consumed all of the water available for the entire segregation of 27,000 acres.

Rules of Board Violated. In the fall of 1904 the state board made an apportionment of the land prices on the land and in so doing the company in a position to sell the lands, but it had already sold or received deposits on a large part of the land before that time.

A second application for patent to 6,250 additional acres in the segregation was made by the company upon a certified showing that the land had been duly reclaimed according to law in March, 1905, but in November of that year this application was withdrawn, presumably upon information received by the board that the application was not warranted.

The company, it is charged, has also made contracts to furnish water to persons owning lands outside the segregation, contrary to the rules of the board. Timber lands, which were a part of the original selection, are also held by the company, and the settlers say that such ditches as have been constructed are wholly inadequate to furnish water to the tracts.

Other charges of a more serious nature, it is said, will be lodged against the company when the storm finally breaks. The outcome of the trouble at present is a matter of conjecture, as an annulment of the company's contract would only complicate matters unless the government should see fit to take up the project. Even in this event the $18,000 paid by scores of purchasers would still be involved.

PASSENGER BOAT COLLIDES WITH OIL TANK STEAMER

Coming up the Columbia river yesterday afternoon the passenger steamer F. A. Kilburn collided with the oil tank steamer Rosencrans. Neither vessel was seriously damaged, but the cargo was a close one. The Kilburn carried nearly 100 passengers, who were on their way to this city from San Francisco via Eureka and Coos bay.

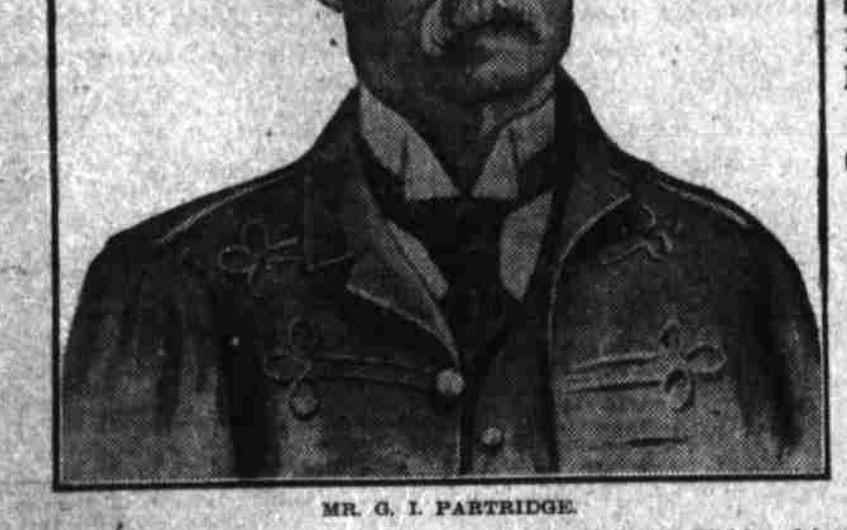

The oil tank steamer Rosencrans was bound for the tanks below Swan Island. How the craft got in so close proximity will be brought out at the hearing which will be held before the government inspectors of hulls and boilers. The hearing may be held tomorrow morning, since both Captain McDonald of the Rosencrans and Captain McLellan of the Kilburn are here.

The collision occurred on the Columbia river about 40 miles from Astoria. The Kilburn reached the Oak street wharf late last evening and is scheduled to leave tomorrow night.

ACCOUNT OF POISONING DOGS AT ARLINGTON

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Arlington, Or., March 12.—Frank Babbe was arrested here today on a warrant issued by Justice Collins charging him with scattering poisoned meat all over the city with the intention of poisoning dogs. Constable Shanks took the prisoner before a justice and his preliminary hearing was set for Saturday, March 15. Babbe was released after furnishing $100 bond for his appearance.

MR. G. I. PARTRIDGE

Mr. G. I. Partridge, of Franklin, Mass., who is in his 84th year, led his famous band through the streets of Cambridge at the head of the Knights' Templar Parade.

Mr. Partridge has played the fife since he was 13 years old, and at the time of the Civil War was appointed to recruit the regimental band of the 18th Massachusetts Regiment, and had charge of the field music. Later he helped to recruit Neal Dow's famous regiment.

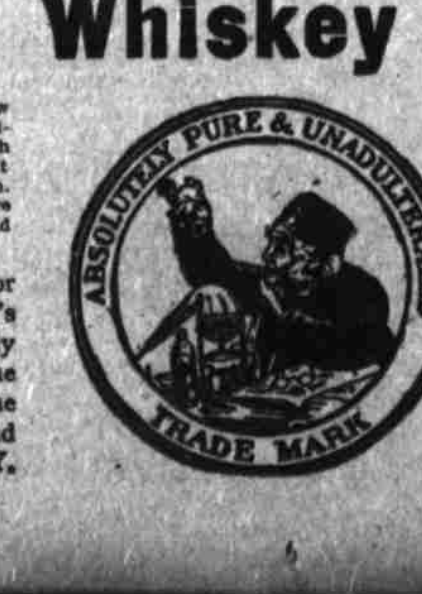

In an interview Mr. Partridge said: "Last April I took a sudden cold, and I was laid up with neuralgia in my shoulder, which brought on fever and took away my appetite, but by using Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey I came out all right, and on Memorial Day I was leading my band and playing as well. I think my Malt Whiskey is just the medicine to tone up and keep up the strength of old people. Hoping your medicine will prove beneficial to others, I can truly recommend it as a valuable help."—G. I. PARTRIDGE, Franklin, Mass., Sept. 1, 1906.

Despite his advanced age, Mr. Partridge can still do as good work as men two score years younger.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

If you wish to keep strong and vigorous and have on your cheeks the glow of perfect health, take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey regularly, according to directions, and take no other medicine. It is dangerous to fill your system with drugs, they poison the body and depress the heart, while Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey tones and strengthens the heart action and purifies the entire system. It is recognized as a medicine everywhere. This is a guarantee. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has stood severe tests for fifty years and has always been found absolutely pure and to contain great medicinal properties.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. It's the one absolutely pure medicinal malt whiskey and is sold only in sealed bottles; never in bulk. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist" on the label, and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Price $1.00. Illustrated medical booklet and doctor's advice free. RUEF TWICE REFUSED

(Continued from Page One.) jurisdiction, as the case was now before the supreme court. The session was brief, an adjournment being taken in order to give Ruef an opportunity to prepare an affidavit in rebuttal of those filed yesterday by Ruef and the Actus Bonding company, in which they charge Judge Dunne with bias and prejudice and therefore with being incompetent to sit in the case.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the useful uses of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Not less marvelous in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of women's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as it is simply attested by thousands of patients' testimonials contributed by it of catarrhal pelvic inflammation, sterility, irregularities, nervousness and other ailments caused by irregular menstruation, and many other ailments which have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic inflammation, sterility, irregularities, nervousness and other ailments caused by irregular menstruation, and many other ailments which have been cured by it.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were originally with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with all of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle—free.

Rainier, Or., March 12.—The organizers of the Industrial Workers of the World held a meeting here for the purpose of creating a strike, but met with a cold shoulder. A business men's meeting was held to talk over the situation, but decided to wait until the meeting of workmen.

The I. W. W. meeting was attended by all the workmen of the town and was held at the Masonic Temple. Of all the men present, only four were in favor of agitation. The other men all claimed to be thoroughly satisfied with their wages, and, considering the fact that the city men must pay, decided that they are already drawing the wages that the city men are striking for.

G. L. Putnam, ex-state librarian, is at the Imperial for a short business visit in the city.
