WEATHER REPORT.

The high pressure area yesterday off the north California coast has increased in magnitude and this morning it is central over southwestern Oregon. It has caused fair weather on the Pacific slope, with temperatures below normal. Sharp frosts occurred this morning in western Washington, western Oregon and in California as far south as Los Angeles. The storms yesterday over Colorado and the lake region have formed a trough of low pressure, which extends from Texas northeastward to New England. Heavy rains have fallen in the Ohio valley and snow is reported generally throughout Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota. The high pressure area yesterday overlying the eastern slope of the northern Rocky mountains has advanced to the Dakotas.

The indications are for fair weather in this district tonight and Thursday, with rising temperatures Thursday. It will continue cold tonight with light frosts in western Oregon and western Washington.
