

LOGGING KINGS TO CONTROL FREE STREAMS

Settler in Humptulips Valley Takes Fight Into Courts of Washington and Boom Interests Array Themselves on One Side in Battle for Conclusive Legislation.

A final fight is on in the Washington courts that will determine the status of riparian rights along a logging stream, a question that is of immense importance to settlers and boom interests in the future development of Oregon. It is alleged that if the logging company in the Washington case defeats the settler, it will amount to turning over every considerable stream in Oregon and Washington to the Weyerhaeuser syndicate and a few other interests that now control the larger part of the standing timber.

At one time the press of the entire state was ranged on opposing sides of the question. The Burrows party won out at every trial of strength, and finally secured an opinion from the supreme court declaring that the settler had riparian and navigating rights that the boom companies were bound to respect. Then the Humptulips Boom company made a move that now promises to give it ultimate victory. It is secured from the supreme court a writ or stay that will, it is said, enable it to keep possession of the stream indefinitely, and meantime the company has begun condemnation proceedings to enable it to acquire ownership of the lands along the banks of the stream.

Case Taken Into Court.

As a result of the long fight in the courts, which culminated a few days ago in a supreme court order advising the settler, the boom company has permitted the logging operations to lag and there are at the present time fewer logs in the stream than have been known for years. The company now has only 5,000,000 feet of logs stored in the Humptulips and ready for delivery, and in several places the settlers are able to cross the river in canoes or gasoline launches.

The Humptulips valley is said to be one of the richest agricultural sections in Washington, and as fast as the forests are cleared away large crops are produced from the ground. The valley is tributary to Grays harbor, and the towns of Aberdeen and Hoquiam are supplied from it. As Grays harbor is the largest lumber-shipping point in Washington, there is an increasing demand for vegetables and all products of the farm.

Burrows Shut in by Logs.

It is said Burrows' fight against the boom company originated from the company's selfish disposition to appropriate the entire stream and both banks and making it impossible for the Burrows family to cross the river in journeying to and from the ranch. Burrows employed an eminent attorney, Judge Robinson of Olympia, and the fight has raged from the lower courts to the supreme court of Washington and through a session of the legislature, where the logging interests attempted to secure the enactment of legislation that would defeat the Burrows contention.

COFFEE INVALIDS Cause of Trouble Often Unsuspected.

A confirmed coffee-drinker who found himself rapidly becoming a chronic invalid was puzzled as to the cause, consulted her physician and under his advice was warned without the use of drugs. She writes:

"After 20 years of coffee drinking I suddenly found that I was beginning to have trouble with my heart palpitations and a smothering sensation, and my occasional sick headaches were becoming an almost daily occurrence.

"I did not suspect that coffee had anything to do with it, and began to take medicines, but kept on drinking coffee.

"Finally my heart trouble and headaches grew so much worse and my nerves became so shattered that any unusual noise would make me jump and shake all over as if I had the ague. Medicines did not help me and I could not do my household satisfactorily, so I asked my physician if coffee was good for me.

"He at once replied, 'No, I would not advise you to use it. Will Postum hurt me?' asked. Not at all, it was his quick response. In fact Postum was beneficial.

"The doctor was so emphatic, I bought some, and had it carefully prepared according to directions on the box. I found the new beverage delicious and refreshing, and the craving for the old kind of coffee disappeared, and I grew very fond of Postum.

SHORTAGE OF ROLLING STOCK CAUSES DELAY

Need of Permanent Structure Across Sullivan's Gulch at East Twenty-Eighth Street Emphasized by Trouble of Fire Department.

General Manager F. L. Fuller of the Portland Railway company, said this morning that the all-east-side car line would be put into operation as soon as the weather would allow the use of open cars. The Portland Railway company is also troubled with a car shortage. A number of cars have been ordered and are being shipped, but as far as possible, according to Mr. Fuller, the weather will have to be depended upon to relieve the present conditions.

Switches and curves have been laid and overhead wiring is just now being completed. The latter with the scarcity of cars has delayed the immediate operation of the line. With pleasant weather the line could have been put into service at once and within a few weeks there will be no hindrance in the way of the all-east-side line.

"We have been unable to provide our regular lines with enough cars," said Mr. Fuller, this morning, "and we have been putting out our open cars every afternoon that the weather conditions would permit. The arrival of cars from the east is very uncertain and in all probability we will have to depend on our open cars to operate the east side line."

On account of the construction of the new branch railway to Rose City park, which follows along the south side of the Sandy road, it has been found necessary to cut that road down 15 feet where it rises to Gravel hill. This will materially reduce the grade on that road and make it a much more satisfactory highway than it is at present.

Work on the grading for the electric railway is progressing rapidly although the disagreeable weather of the last few days has retarded the work. The laborers have been working on East Twenty-eighth street down the Sandy road to East Sixteenth and thence on East Davis, finally connecting with the Irvington line.

A permanent bridge across Sullivan's gulch on East Twenty-eighth street is one of the essential needs both of the city and of the railroad company. The transportation of fire apparatus across the gulch in this vicinity is becoming to be a daily demand upon the fire department.

FIRE CAPTAIN WEDS MISS ROSE EDWARDS

William D. Heath, captain of hose and chemical companies No. 1, was married Thursday evening to Miss Rose Edwards at the bride's home, 287 Fourth street, Rev. F. L. Elliot, pastor of the First Unitarian church, officiating. After a short honeymoon, the couple will return to Portland to receive the congratulations of their friends.

The bride has a wide circle of acquaintances and friends in Portland, where she was born and raised, and the ceremony at her mother's residence was the result of a meeting with Mr. Heath some months ago at the society of Lieutenant of engine company No. 3 to his present position and during the 12 years of faithful service in the Portland department has held the esteem and confidence of his brother fire fighters and officers.

Only the relatives of the contracting couple were present at the wedding ceremony, but the bride and groom were the recipients of a host of presents.

DAVEY SAYS EASY MONEY IS LEGAL

Ex-Speaker Declares It Is Nobody's Business What He Gets for Compiling Statutes.

YET THE STATE MUST PAY BILL FOR WORK

Governor Chamberlain Calls Attention to Remarkable Power of Legislature to Pass Resolution Carrying Appropriation.

Frank W. Davey, speaker of the house of representatives during the last session of the legislature, takes exception to The Journal's article published last Thursday which exposed the details of Davey's resolution providing for the payment of fees in compensation for transcribing the journals and compiling the session laws. He makes an extended denial in the Salem Statesman of all the assertions made by The Journal, adding that it is nobody's business what the state should pay for doing the work under his supervision. Nevertheless, the state will foot the bill and will pay Davey a salary which he says does not concern the people.

Davey's resolution provides that to meet the expense attached to compiling the session laws the secretary of state shall be allowed such compensation as is provided by law for like services in other cases. The law referred to is section 222, of the Laws of 1905, which provides that for making copies of any record or file the secretary of state shall be allowed to charge 25 cents for each folio.

Will Cost Three Thousand.

Under this provision the cost of compiling the session laws of 1907 and transcribing the journals will cost the people of Oregon approximately $3,000, and out of this sum will come Davey's salary. The actual cost of compiling the laws should not exceed $1,500, according to those competent to place a trustworthy estimate on the work, yet if the provisions of Davey's resolution are carried out there will be an additional sum of $1,500 or more of the people's money to dispose of.

Under the flat salary law any and all fees and commissions of any kind, name or nature collected by the secretary of state for any service performed by him in his official capacity shall be paid into the treasury of the state on or before the tenth day of the month following the collection thereof.

Davey's Defense.

The secretary in this instance will collect some $250 in fees over and above what should be the actual cost of the work. If the secretary should accept this as payment to himself he will directly violate the flat salary law, section 2 of which provides that "if any state officers shall fail to pay over to the state treasurer any and all moneys collected by virtue of his office, he shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement, and shall be punished accordingly."

On the other hand no portion of this amount collected above the actual cost of the work could be paid to another person without working a graft against the state. Mr. Davey, in his reply to The Journal states that the work will be paid for by "fees prescribed by law and will be no less and no more than the amount which the work will call for on the face of the books." Mr. Davey says $2,000 or possibly a little more.

FORMER STATE EMPLOYEE MOVES TO PORTLAND

Frank K. Lovell, for nearly 20 years an employe of the office of secretary of state, is in the city visiting friends and taking a much-needed vacation, the first in over 20 years. Mr. Lovell is one of the best known men in official circles in the state and perhaps knows more about the work of the secretary of state's office than any other man in the state. He resigned from his position a short time prior to the convention of the legislative session and was elected calendar clerk of the senate.

PURITY OF PROMISE

"Make Good" and you'll Be Prosperous

ADVERTISING is a PROMISE. It is also a CONTRACT. When we agree to do certain things, we have to "make good." Otherwise we lose the confidence and faith of our patrons.

The principle we adopted in 1896, when CASCARETS CANDY CATHARTIC were put on the market, was to make no PROMISE in our salesmanship, that was not characterized by PURITY and TRUTH and HONESTY, so that we could always DELIVER what we AGREED. It was our own PURE DRUG LAW and our PROMISE has always been FULFILLED.

The best inducement we can offer our friends in our advertising, past and present, is to TRY CASCARETS only ONCE! We promised and promise now, that these dainty, little candy tablets, if faithfully tried, would prove to be the most perfect Bowel Medicine ever placed before the American family,—as dependable for their effects as nature herself.

In our eleven years of PROMISE, we have never failed to fulfill, and that's why we have gained the friendship of millions of the American people, who have experienced the reliable quality of our product.

If the ONE TIME that we can induce the reader to try Cascarets proves to be a failure and disappointment, it means a BROKEN PROMISE and NEVER a repetition of his patronage. The fact that at the present time over ONE MILLION of boxes of Cascarets are sold every month PROVES that we believe in "Purity of Promise" and have delivered the goods.

So we ask you with the endorsement of the American people behind our statements, to accept our promise and try Cascarets as the best all-around personal and family medicine for all STOMACH and BOWEL troubles, especially CONSTIPATION and all its complications. Nearly every serious illness is caused by a derangement of the Stomach and Bowels. Cascarets will strengthen the walls of the weakened intestines and make them act exactly as nature intended them to do—NO VIOLENCE, but plain, soothing action.

Another PROMISE we are willing to make is that Cascarets will prove to be a great PREVENTIVE OF DISEASE. They are anti-septic, destroy disease germs all through the FOOD-CHANNELS, and are what soap is for the outer body—a perfect cleansing means for the inside body. One of our mottoes has been: "Keep clean inside!" and Cascarets will help you to do it and avoid disease resulting from internal neglect.

If you have never tried Cascarets before, go to your druggist TO-DAY and buy a little 10c box. It will convince you. BE SURE TO GET WHAT YOU WANT.
