East Gillan Remonstrators Win Out Before the Street Committee.

LOSERS DECLARE THEY WOULD GET NO BENEFIT

Montavilla Out in Force at City Hall, but Property-Owners Further West on Street Get Petition Referred.

All the men and women that Montavilla could spare from their business and domestic duties flocked over to the city hall yesterday afternoon to remonstrate before the street committee against the improvement of East Gillan street from Grand avenue to the eastern city boundary. There were also some petitioners in the gathering. The remonstrants, however, held the strong hand, and they succeeded in having the ordinance referred.

For the petitioners, C. B. Dickinson said his clients were willing to reduce the distance from Grand avenue to East Twelfth street. He said the street was designed for business purposes. For the remonstrants, Attorney Jeffreys said that the granting of the petition would cause the removal of 35 homes and damages would be heavy. Mr. Jeffreys retold the story of the widening of the street. His clients were willing to have the street improved to the width of 60 feet, but they did not want an 80-foot street, which would deprive them of land and give the benefit to the property owners. The present street would accommodate traffic for years.

Charles F. Lord, an attorney for other property-owners, said that the laying of a sidewalk pavement was proposed. This would mean the confiscation of property. From East Twenty-eighth street to East Thirty-third street the homes were built by working men. Some would have to be moved back 10 feet from the proposed line. Several would have their sidewalks moved to their front doors. Two stores would have to be moved back 10 feet. Twenty feet would have to be taken off the north side of the street. The cost of moving the houses back from the proposed street line would be about $500 each, but the store buildings would have to be torn down. The owners of the small homes were not rich.

SHEPHERD TOSSE COIN AND DECIDED NOT TO RUN FOR MAYOR

To Mayor Lane and several other listeners, ex-Councilman George S. Shepherd told the reason why he had decided not to enter the primaries as a candidate for the mayoralty nomination. It is because he believes in luck.

"I tossed up a coin," said the humorist, "and when it was in the air I called, 'heads I win, tails I lose.' The coin landed heads down. I have forgotten the nationality of the coin but I believe it must have been of foreign make. Anyhow, it did not turn up right."

"A little thing like that shouldn't discourage you," said the mayor.

"I believe in luck," said Shepherd.

Houses on Mill Street Inaccessible to Fire Apparatus—Opening Re-referred to Viewers.

Owing to the number of houses that would have to be removed, the council committee on streets decided yesterday to make an investigation before recommending the opening of Mill street. A petition had been presented for the extension of the street from Chapman street west and Thomas Jones spoke in favor of it. He said that vehicles cannot pass over the street and several houses were destroyed by fire because the department could not reach the scene. The engines, he said, sunk to their hubs in mud.

Henry W. Fries said the extension would ruin a number of small property owners. One man had been allowed only $150 damages. To remove his house and build a new foundation he would have to pay $700.

Milton W. Smith said that the two blocks proposed to be improved would cost the city $7,000. Five houses would have to be removed. He saw no necessity for the improvement. The matter was re-referred to the viewers.

Proceedings for the improvement of East Oak street from East Twenty-second to East Twenty-fourth were ordered discontinued. A. G. Parrott said that when the improvement was first proposed he had given up 80 feet of his property. Next he was assessed $39. Then a private engineer came along and cut his property line down about five feet more. Last, the council ordered the improvement for which he had already given 65 feet of land and $39 in cash, and cinched him for $100 more.

Mr. Parrott thought it was about time to protest. He did so and the committee decided that his complaint was just. He saves $100, but still he is out his 85 feet of land and his $39 in cash and he has not got his street improved.

DENIES THAT HE HELD GARRITZ WAS SHAMMING

In the Thursday Journal in connection with the verdict of the jury called to inquire into the mental condition of Peter Garritz, the young mill worker who shot and fatally wounded Anton Grohs, it was reported that Rev. C. E. Cline was the only one of the 12 men who contended that the defendant was shamming. The minister makes the following statement:

"The statement was made that I, one of the jurors, stubbornly contended against the rest of the jury that the defendant was shamming throughout. I beg to say that the opposite of this statement is true, and that at no time did I make such a contention, but I voted with the majority that Peter Garritz is at the present time insane."

CRAZED JAPANESE LEAPS TO HIS DEATH

Delirious from the ravages of typhoid fever, J. Kida, a Japanese laborer, recently employed on the O. R. & N., who had been confined in St. Vincent's hospital since Wednesday, eluded the vigilance of the nurses yesterday afternoon and leaped through an open window to his death. Kida fell a distance of three stories and sustained injuries which resulted fatally an hour later.

Coroner Finley took charge of the remains and announces that an inquest would not be held. A post mortem examination shows that Kida suffered a broken arm from the fall and death is attributed to shock.

MORAL WAVE ROLLING TOWARD BALLARD COPS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Seattle, April 12.—A sweeping investigation of the Ballard police department is likely to be the result of the discovery of a 14-year-old girl in the Monte Carlo saloon, a notorious resort, of the shinglo suburb. The proprietors of the resort, it is believed, will lose their license. The police are made the objects of sensational charges by Mrs. Nettie Simonson, the mother of the girl, Gussie Bert. She says a member of the force came to her home, told her a subpoena had been issued for the arrest of the girl, and that she had better leave town. When the girl said she had no money the policeman is alleged to have assured her that funds would be furnished her.

Mud Blockade in Wallows.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Enterprise, Or., April 12.—The merchants of this place say that they have over $50,000 worth of merchandise in Elgin which cannot be moved on account of the condition of the roads, and that it will be three weeks before the freighters can haul the goods to this place. This winter has been an exceptionally bad one for getting freight into the Wallows valley.

METHODISM'S GRAND OLD MAN

Seven of Dr. I. D. Driver's Great Lectures to Be Reproduced by the Pacific Christian Advocate.

By special arrangement with Dr. Driver The Pacific Christian Advocate is in a position to give the friends and subscribers of that paper an unprecedented opportunity. Beginning with the next issue they will publish "Driver's Seven Great Lectures," and as a special inducement they will send the paper to new subscribers from April 1 to January 1, 1908, for 75 cents, or in clubs of 10 or more 50 cents, an offer never equaled in journalism. In all cases subscriptions must be paid in advance. The Pacific Christian Advocate for nine months for the price of a six-month subscription, and the seven great lectures free.

Here are some of the opinions of the people and the press about Mr. Driver: "The man who met Robert Ingersoll, the great infidel lecturer, and tore his argument to shreds. Mr. Watt, the greatest infidel lecturer of England, came to Chicago to meet him and left saying, 'There is no question Driver cannot answer.'"

"I consider Dr. Driver one of the ablest men of the country."—D. L. Moody.

The editor of a college paper, "A College of Colleges," in his introduction of the different speakers at the great Moody conference, held in 1888, has this to say of I. D. Driver:

"Dr. Driver came before the conference like a gladiator accustomed to the arena. His masterly addresses made a deep impression, and his wit, logic and eloquence made him a general favorite. The Bible in his hand and on his lips seemed to be illuminated and many students' note books contained new thoughts from him on not a few passages formerly difficult and hard to be understood."

The Advocate has many more such notices but they are too numerous to publish. It will be well to subscribe at once so as to be sure and get all of the copies containing his lectures. Address all communications to Jennings & Graham, 409 Commercial building.
