(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.) San Francisco, April 13.—The death of James Henry, (Silent) Smith at ioto, Japan, on March 27, was caused blood poisoning, the result of a glected ulcerated tooth, and not from the ravages of a cancer as previously, reported. The deceased New York mil-lichaire, accompanied by his wife who was the widow of William Rhinelander Stewart, Miss Anita Stewart, his stepdaughter, and Duke and Duchess of Manchester, was a passenger on the Pacific Mail company's steamship Korea from Hong Kong to Yokohama where he disembarked for Kito to place him-self in the hands of a corps of prominent Japanese surgeons for an opera-

Miss Anita Stewart and the Duke and Duchess of Manchester accompanied them. The tour extended through the Mediterranean and the Buez and when at Rangoon one of his teeth became ulcerated. He was advised to have it attended to, but preferred to have it done at Hong Kong or in Japan.

Another specialist, however, did not concur in this opinion and Mr. Smith ordered the steam yacht to return to New York, and with his party he took passage on the liner Korea. Dr. Noble was also taken along.

On the run from the Chinese port to Yokohama the patient's face swelled to a considerable extent. After the first day out he was kept to his room and it is said.

On the run from the Chinese port to Tokohama the patient became worse. Despite the efforts of the specialist the patient's face swelled to a considerable extent. After the first day out he was kept to his room and it is said that his sufferings were intense.

When Tokohama was reached his condition was so bad that he was unable to walk, and the crew had to carry him ashore on a stretcher.

A special train was engaged and Smith was taken to Kloto. The best surgeons in the empire were secured, when a consultation was held, it was agreed that an immediate operation in which a large part of the jaw bone would have to be cut out was imperative.

It is probable that the operation was too late as when the Korea sailed away word was received from Kloto that blood poisoning had set in. At Honolulu those on the liner learned the news of Bellingham, Wash., April 13.—C. X.

Bellingham, Wash., April 13.—C. X.

Larrabee, a wealthy Portland man and rancher in Montana, has shut off James J. Hill from five miles of water front just south of Bellingham. It has developed that Larrabee has bought all the tidelands and secured a 10-year lease of the harbor area in front of uplands held jointly by him and Hill. There is absolutely no way for Hill to reach deep water, except at a few narrow places, without bargaining with the Portlander. As the two men have not been on the best of terms since Larrabee, as alleged, held up the railroad king for a right of way, it is not likely Hill will find it easy to get concessions. The waterfront in question is worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, and is valuable for wharfage. Hill has made repeated but vain attempts to induce Larrabee to agree to the segregation of their joint upland interests.

Mr. Larrabee is president of the Oregon Real Estate company. If he limits the offenses to but one crime, there can be no greater fine than $20,000, and possibly the defendant might escape with a fine of $1,000. On the other hand, he has power to rule that each shipment constituted an offense, and the company may be fined the entire amount of the aggregate of maximum fines, nearly $20,000,000.

The ruling will be most important in the federal jurisdiction, as it will determine whether or not the federal laws against railread discriminations are enforceable. If he limits the offenses to but on he could not vote after having exercised the rights of citizenship for 35 years. Clerk Fields informed Gleason that he would have to show his father's natur-silisation papers, and as the actor could not do this he told his troubles to At-torneys John A. Logan and A. Walter Wolf.

TRUSTED EMPLOYE TRIED THE OVERALLS DISGUISE

Helena, Mont., April 13.—Press dispatches from Seattle tell of the arrest in that city of Elijah Smith and describe him as an absconding cashier of the Malta bank of Helena. This erronsous statement is probably due to the fact that Smith was formerly in the employ of the Helena hank, having gone from this city several years ago to accept a position with the Malta bank. Last May Smith disappeared and an examination of his books showed a shortage of $6,000. He was cashier of an institution at Malta and had been trusted implicitly by his employers. His faithful performance of duty was insured by a security company, and this concern footed the shortage. The guaranty companys detectives located Smith in Alaska. Because of the difficulty of winter passage it was determined to wait until spring or until Smith should return to the states. He did return and was located near Seattle, having accepted employment as a day laborer. He was placed under arrest and will be taken to Ghasgow for trial.
