Dr. Robbins made a stubborn fight for life and as late as last night it was thought he might recover. Yesterday afternoon Drs. Wheeler and Ralph Matson inserted a needle close to the spine and drew off the matter which had collected. The operation relieved the patient somewhat, but later in the night he began to sink rapidly.

Another case of the dread disease was reported to Health Officer C. H. Wheeler at $:20 o'clock this morning. Ernest Smith, a young man II years of age, who has been working for the Union Mill company in Clarks county, Washington, was removed from his room in the Edelbrau hotel, First and Morrison streets, to the Good Samaritan hospital. He is unconscious and Dr. Wheeler says his condition is such that there is little possibility of his recovery. The first symptoms of the disease manifeste themselves last night and this morning his condition was so gerious that the health authorities were immediately communicated with.

L. Japson, a teamster in the employ of the Hazelwood Creamery company, died at St. Vincent's hospital yesterday afternoon less than 24 hours after the malady had attacked him. He was removed from his home, 315 Flanders street, about noon and before Dr. Wheeler arrived at the hospital had lapsed into unconnectousness, dying a few hours afterward.

Word was sent last night to his mother at Fish Hawk, Oregon, and a message was also taken to his sister, Mrs. Ells Borg, who lives at Nineteenth and Kearney streets. After being taken to the hospital Japaon remained conscious long enough to tell his residence and that he had been in good health the day previous. His body was taken in charge by Coroner Finley pending arrangements for the funeral, which will be made as soon as his mother is heard from. Ethel Bowell Improves
