Modest Trustees Engage Local Sculptors to Alter Copies of the Famous Apollo Belvedere and Adonis—Marble Copies of Statues Too Close Imitations of Nature for Approval.

(Journal Special Service.)
Pittsburg, April 28.—Artists who have visited the Carnegie institute are laughing over the altered appearance of many of the figures in the hall of statuary. Today the story was told of how the millionaire trustees of the institute were shocked by the original appearance of the statuary included in the institute. An agent was sent by the trustees to Italy and France to contract for exact replicas of famous statues. Three score or more figures arrived a couple of days before the dedication of the institute, and Director John W. Henry of the department of fine arts placed them on their pedestals. The trustees when given a view of the marble collection were shocked because Apollo Belvedere, Adonis and other characters were modeled too closely in imitation of nature. Local sculptors were summoned and before the hall of statuary was thrown open to the public they removed the features to which the modest trustees objected.

AFTER 42 YEARS BROTHERS MEET AGAIN AND CLASP HANDS

Two of the happiest men in Portland yesterday were T. C. Turley of Chicago and B. L. Turley of Portland, brothers who met yesterday for the first time in 42 years. When young men their parents died and the boys decided to come west and make their fortunes. Upon their arrival at Deaver T. C. Turley turned back and finally arrived at Chicago, where he has resided since and made a fortune. He is president of the Chicago Insulated Wire & Manufacturing company located in the Windy City. B. L. Turley came to Portland, where he has resided ever since. Mr. Turley is inspector of the Portland water department. The meeting of the brothers yesterday was by chance. Several months ago Mr. Turley of Chicago met a music teacher traveling in the east who said that she had for one of her pupils a child of B. L. Turley. He knew that his brother was in the west but did not know that he was located in Portland. A few weeks ago it was necessary for him to make a business trip to Los Angeles. He extended his journey to Portland. Coming up the coast Mr. Turley was accompanied by William Knight, who arranged a meeting between the long separated brothers at the Portland hotel. At first the strangeness of their relations embarrassed the men, but they were soon lost in recounting memories of their boyhood days. Hours slipped by and the day waned, but in a cozy corner the brothers had forgotten the time. Midnight came and they were still relating stories of their lives. When they finally parted, it was only to meet again today to arrange a family reunion between their families and another brother and sister whom Mr. Turley of Portland had not seen since he came west.

Suburb Opposite St. Johns in Midst of Unusually Vigorous Building Activity.

Linton, across the Willamette from St. Johns, has caught some of the spirit of that enterprising little city and is just now in the midst of an unusual building activity. Several business houses and a large number of residences are under construction there. Within the past year the town has gone forward very rapidly. Linton's most pressing need is direct street connection with Portland, which will no doubt be established during the present year. The Northern Pacific railroad is making some extensive improvements there, building a new depot and laying nearly half a mile of sidetrack in order to accommodate the Willamette Box & Lumber company, a concern that has recently located at Linton. The Clark-Wilson Lumber company has largely increased its output, which is now about 150,000 feet a day. Linton is already the largest place between Portland and St. Johns on the Northern Pacific line and is confidently expected to become the largest and most important place between Portland and Astoria on the Astoria & Columbia River railroad.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC IS ORDERED TO PAY FINE

United States Attorney William C. Bristol appeared before Judge Charles E. Wolverton in the United States district court this morning and asked that judgment of $100 be ordered paid by the Southern Pacific Railroad company in the safety appliance case which the government won against the railroad company several weeks ago. Attorney W. D. Fenton, who represented the company, stated that his client did not care to make further effort to stay the judgment and Judge Wolverton issued the necessary order. The point at issue was that the company had violated the interstate commerce law by not providing safety coupling devices on cars engaged in interstate traffic.

Upon the return of summer weather we are compelled to cancel our winter rates and hope our effort to induce increased consumption of our product by continuing the low rates so long has been appreciated. The greatest menace to woman's permanent happiness in life is the suffering that comes from some derangement of the feminine organs. Many thousands of women have realized this too late to save their health, barely in time to save their lives. If a woman finds that her energies flagging, that she gets easily tired, dark shadows appear under her eyes, she has headache, headache, bearing-down sensations, nervousness, irregularities or the "blues," she should start at once to build up her system by a tonic with specific powers, such as

CORDRAY GIVES UP NEW THEATRE

Abandons Plan to Use East Side Rink—Noted Actresses Will Not Come.

John F. Cordray has abandoned the idea of bringing Mrs. Fiske, Mary Manning and other independent theatrical attractions to Portland during the summer. The decision was reached after many obstacles and objections had been overcome. Mr. Cordray arranged with the management of the ice-skating rink on the east side to convert the place into a theatre for the purpose of housing the independent attractions. For a time the city council withheld permission, but finally consented that a special permit be issued. Mr. Cordray, however, has decided that the ordinance regulating the use of buildings for theatrical purposes are good ones and should not be molested under any circumstances. He is willing, he declares, to abandon his proposition rather than infringe upon the ordinance. "The proposition looked good to me," he said, "and I am deeply appreciative for what the council and city officials did in my behalf. But there is no doubt but that the ordinance covering the use of buildings for theatrical purposes are good ones and no one should attempt to get around them. I believe the city should be very jealous in protecting the public and that stringent laws with reference to theatres should be enforced. I shall devote my attention to the building of the new east side theatre."
