

LANE NOMINATED BY DEMOCRATS

DEVLIN VICTORIOUS IN REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES

NAME PUT ON BALLOTS BY VOTERS

Instant Response Is Made to Suggestion of Journal Though He Makes No Effort

DEMOCRATIC TICKET
For Mayor—Harry Lane. (Lane received 287 votes, against 409 for G. H. Thomas.
For City Auditor—George I. Smith.
For Councilman at Large—Robert Andrews.

By an overwhelming majority the Democratic voters of Portland have made Harry Lane their nominee for mayor. Nearly 300 Democrats went to the polls yesterday afternoon and wrote Lane's name upon the ballot.
The nomination was thrust upon Lane by the insistent demand of his party. It was absolutely unsought. His name was not upon the ballot; he had explicitly refused to be a candidate, and he was without organized support of any character.
Two years ago, when Lane was the regular Democratic nominee and when his name was printed on the ballot he received in the primaries 493 votes, while the Republican ticket, headed by George H. Thomas, his competitor, was snowed under, receiving only 409 votes.
Thomas Loses Home Precinct.
In some precincts Lane's vote was four, five and even six times that cast for Thomas. In precinct 51, there Thomas had the vote was 12 for Lane and 7 for Thomas. In precinct 46 Lane received 24 votes, while Thomas had but 2. Lane was especially strong in the residence districts.
The first public effort to make Lane the Democratic nominee for mayor was made through the columns of The Journal last Thursday afternoon. It met with instant response and expressions of approval poured in from all quarters. Mayor Lane himself refused to make any effort to secure the nomination, saying simply that he was not a candidate. His attitude makes the result of the primaries the more remarkable.

DR. HARRY LANE, DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE

IAN MACLAREN ON DEATH BED

Dr. Watson, Author of Beside the Bonnie Briar Bush, Lying in Critical Condition in Hotel at Des Moines.
(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.)
Des Moines, Iowa, May 4.—Dr. Watson (Ian MacLaren), author of "Beside the Bonnie Briar Bush," is lying in a hotel at Mount Pleasant, Iowa. The famous English author was stricken on a train about two weeks ago while en route from Minneapolis. It was necessary at that time to wire ahead and make arrangements to have him taken to a hotel where he has since been lying in a semi-conscious state.
He was first taken sick with tonsillitis and for a time it was thought he would improve. Last night he suffered a relapse, followed by forming of an abscess in the ear. He was unable to sleep and has been troubled with insomnia ever since he was stricken. His doctor does not hold out much hope for his recovery and says his condition is precarious.
Dr. Watson is going on 40 years of age and his advanced years tell heavily on him. His wife, who has been constantly at his side, was said to be near a nervous breakdown.

SWIFT INDIANS WIN RELAY

Chemawa Runners in Salem-Portland Race Defeat the Trained Sprinters of the Portland Y. M. C. A.
Indian couriers brought a message from Governor George E. Chamberlain at Salem to Mayor Lane at Portland, a distance of 82 miles, in six hours and 20 minutes in a relay race in competition with the Portland Y. M. C. A. yesterday.
The race was one of the longest relays in the history of modern athletic achievement and has been established as a permanent feature between these two institutions. The Chemawa team won over the Y. M. C. A. team by 12 minutes.
Mostly Fullbloods.
Those who represented the Y. M. C. A. were Rasmussen, Kees, Newcom, Arbutnot, Street, Talbot, Backus, Newell, Leonard and Wetterberg. They are clerks working every day in Portland and training under A. M. Grilley, physical director, at the Y. M. C. A. The Indian runners who constituted the winning team were Walter Haight, Sam John, Peter Seymour, Michael Wilson, Robert Brothers, Nick Mack, Frank Dan, Peter Casey, Apis Goudy, and Amos Smokin. Most of the Chemawas were fullbloods of temperate habits. They were chosen from an eligible list of about 50.
The start was made at Salem at 9 o'clock and the winning Indian came into Portland about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, with his little packet for the mayor safely tucked away. The first course of five and one half miles was won by Haight over Rasmussen by 8 minutes, which gave the Indians a fatal lead. Rasmussen was not in condition, having been substituted at the last moment, which accounts for the lead gained by the first Indian. On the next course the Y. M. C. A. gained 8 minutes, but could not overcome the Indian advantage.
Use Autos Next Year.
Each relay was about five miles in length. The runners were distributed by the train and picked up in the same manner, which proved to be a very crude method. The plan next year will be to provide automobiles to take up and distribute the men just as they finish and enter their race.
Each of the men finished strong and in perfect condition. Williamette university is planning to enter the race also next year, when the plans will be better perfected for the big race with a year's experience to work from.

50,000 MEN HISS PRESIDENT'S NAME

Labor Parades New York City and is Loudly Cheered by Spectators—Roosevelt's Offense to Labor Widens Gulf.
(Publishers' Press by Special Leased Wire.)
New York, May 4.—Denouncing President Roosevelt for his characterization of Moyer and Haywood as undesirable citizens, 50,000 laborers tonight paraded the streets of New York, greeting with hisses, groans and shuffling of feet every mention of the chief executive's name.
Socialism played a leading part throughout and as the parade passed along the men sang and shouted that they "would know the reason why, if Moyer and Haywood should die."
Thousands of persons lined the sidewalks while the parade passed by and cheered the marchers enthusiastically. The parade was capped by a huge mass meeting at Grand Central place, where speeches were made in favor of the miners now awaiting trial, and condemning the attitude of the president in the matter.
Washington, May 4.—President Roosevelt has sent the piteous of criticism to labor's well once too often, by his denunciation of Haywood and Moyer as "undesirable citizens," according to some of the best-informed labor leaders here. And among these are some of the executive's warmest admirers. They say that not in the history of the coun-

THE MURDERED BOY

BOY'S BODY TAKEN HOME BY SLAYERS

Father Says Little Horace Marvin Was Victim of Amateur Kidnapers

Condition of Corpse Shows That Babe Could Not Have Been Dead Long and It Is Believed Thugs Were Frightened Into Returning Remains.

(Hearst News by Longest Leased Wire.)
Dover, Del., May 4.—The body of little Horace Marvin Jr. was found today upon his father's farm under circumstances which lead his father and all who have followed the developments of the case, to declare that the baby boy must have been murdered within two weeks by the persons who stole him from the strawstack in the farm yard two months ago. No medical examination has yet been made of the child's body, but the place where the body was discovered and the conditions surrounding the discovery are such as to give the strongest possible evidence that the child could not have accidentally met his death 51 days ago in the place where he was found.
Throughout the countryside tonight the one opinion is heard, that is that the kidnapers of the boy became frightened at the developments of the last two weeks and that the boy was killed and brought back to the farm so that his body might be found and suspicion be diverted from his captors.
Found By Hunter.
The body was discovered by Oliver Pleasanton, a young farmer who was out hunting. The child's body was lying in five inches of water which had accumulated over night, owing to the heavy rains. For several weeks, before the last heavy rainstorm, there had not been one inch of water at this spot, and during the two weeks of hot weather in the latter part of March there had been no water at this particular spot and the grass had all been burned over. Spilling out of the low water today were the burned tops of the grass, yet the boy's body when found showed that no fire had reached it at any time. Detectives had fringed time and again over the exact spot where the body of little Horace was found. Only yesterday old Mr. Marvin had been working within a few feet of the spot and there was not one inch of water there at the time to have concealed the body.
The little pool formed over night is almost three quarters of a mile from the strawstack where the boy was seen. To have reached it, the little lad who never walked 300 yards without sitting down to rest, would have been obliged to walk across rough ground in the face of an icy wind, cross a deep ditch which is difficult for a grown person, climbed through two dense barb wire fences and then have lain down to die in a spot where at the time the ground was either dry or covered with ice.
Dead But Short Time.
The condition of the boy's body points above all to the absolute conclusion that he had not been dead more than two weeks. The body is in an excellent state of preservation, an impossibility had he died two months ago, in view of the continuous warm weather when the thermometer registered 90 degrees for three successive days over one month ago.
The sheriff, who took charge of the body when it was found, refused to permit any examination of the body this afternoon, but expressed himself as convinced that the child had been murdered in some manner and his body brought back to the farm.

HORACE MARION JR. AND COPY OF NOTE RECEIVED BY HIS FATHER SHORTLY AFTER HIS DISAPPEARANCE

COMMISSION MEN MAY MOVE

Front Street Dealers Would Be Only Too Glad to Find a New Market District
An agitation among front street produce merchants to seek a new district in which to establish their commission houses and which will afford them relief from present crowded conditions, exorbitant rents and other inconveniences, is assuming such form that it is believed the move will result eventually in a wholesale exodus from the street which has long been the commission center.
Four of the largest commission houses on the street have signified their intention of moving into a new district if they can find capitalists to build the necessary buildings, and on these they state they would only be too glad to take long-term leases. It is the general sentiment that if these firms leave their present quarters, as they now signify their intention of doing in the near future, the whole street will follow suit, and a new commission district will be established. Just where is an open question, opinion favoring one corner section of the city more desirable than that now occupied.
High Rents, Poor Buildings.
The laying of the rails of the United Railway company on front street is said to be responsible for the present agitation to seek new quarters. The

WILL PHOTOGRAPH BEAUTY FREE

In order that the winner may enter the national beauty contest, The Journal closes its contest this week. Hundreds of photos of beautiful Oregon women have been sent to The Journal office. A few have been published. Others will be. But no more entries can be made after May 10.
It is the last chance to show your patriotism for Oregon. Winners in 23 other state contests have already been chosen, and shortly the national commission will pass upon all of these winners in order to find the most beautiful woman in America.
Great interest has been aroused in the contest throughout the state. Many beautiful women, however, are not represented. It is the duty of their friends to see that their photos are sent in at once.
Photographers of Portland have caught the spirit and are anxious that a Portland girl should be declared the most beautiful. Moreover, each desires to take the winning photograph.
Moore, the photographer whose studio is in the Elks' building, Seventh and Stark streets, Butterworth, whose studio is at 345 1/2 Washington street, and Grove, whose studio is at 445 Washington street, will any of them take the photograph of any beautiful girl who wishes to enter the contest, free of cost to her.
These photographers are acknowledged to be among the best in the country. They cannot, of course, nor will they try, to make a prize winner out of a homely girl, but all the aid that photography can lend to beauty, and it is considerable, will be at the command of any beautiful girl.
Beautiful women, this is your great opportunity.
