Vancouver Resident Predicts Flooded Streets in City When Snow Begins Melting.

COOL WEATHER CHECKS FEEDERS IN MOUNTAINS

Forecaster Beals Believes Continued Period of Hot Weather Without Cool Nights Will Bring Biver to Twenty-Five Foot Stage.

That the Columbia river will be on a rampage within the next month, is the opinion of many who have noted and compared with former seasons the weather conditions of the high water period. While the average temperature for April was normal, it was not a snow melting month. The days were comfortabily warm, but the frosty nights all over the watersheds of the Columbia and Snake rivers checked all tendency of the snow to melt.

all over the watersheds of the Columbia and Snake rivers checked all tendency of the snow to melt. The engineer of the Vancouver ferry who has been running on the river for the past 25 years, predicts the highest water since the spring and summer of 1904, when all records were broken.

1904, when all records were broken. Expects Flood in Vancouver. "The weather conditions of the past two months were very much like those of the same period in 1904," said he. "It would not surprise ine to see water in the streets of Vancouver by June I. "The river has risen very slowly and there is an immense amount of snow water yet to come out. Three weeks of hot weather in the watersheds of the Columbia and Snake will pile the water mountain high in the lower Columbia." Forecaster Beals of the weather bureau does not take much stock in the high water theory. Beals Not Alarmed.

Seals Not Alarmed. "No living man can tell what the Columbia river will do," said Mr. Heals. "I have tried for a long time. It all depends upon the amount of snow in the mountains and the temperature of the next few weeks. My information is that the snow in the mountains is not deep, therefore I don't look for high

"However, if the snow in the basins of the Snake and Columbia should come out at the same time, there might be a 20 to 25-foot stage of water here; but I don't look for any such condition as prevailed in 1904."

Bellwood, was dedicated yesterday afternoon under the most propitious circumstances. Nearly $2,000 were raised during the day, which was amply sufficient to pay off the debt incurred by the erection of the church edifice and to leave some funds remaining for other expenses.

President J. H. Coleman of Williamette university delivered the dedicatory sermon yesterday morning and $1,550 was raised at that time. Dr. B. F. Rowland, presiding elder, Rev. C. A. Lewis and Rev. A. D. Wagner assisted. During the entire day services were held by one organisation or another. Others who took part in the services were: Rev. J. W. McDougal, Albany; Rev. Alfred Thompson, Gresham; Rev. D. A. Thompson of the Sellwood Presbyterian church, and Rev. John Flinn. The church, building cost about $5,500. If you had an orchard of fine fruit adjoining your home, no one could make you believe that fruit shipped in a refrigerator los-car from some other city of state was better than your own home-grown fresh fruit. It would be nonsense for any one to tell you that fruit that laid in cold storage for a week or two could compare in any way with yours.

It is the same with meats. Smith's meats are Oregon meats-home-grown and fattened - and are absolutely fresh. Why should you eat the Beef Trust's ice-car, cold-storage meats? And you have no one but yourself to blame if you pay almost double Smith's prices at the Beef Trust's retal markets.
