

GOOD QUALITY OF COAL DISCOVERED

Southern Oregon Promises to Become Noted as a Coal Mining District.

SURFACE PROSPECTS OF EXCELLENT PROMISE

Development Thus Far Shallow—Coal is a Lignite and a Good Fuel Product—Will Do for Proposed Copper Smelters.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Grants Pass, Or., May 8.—That southern Oregon will eventually become noted as a coal mining district seems evident from the very flattering results obtained by development work on the several coal prospects in this part of the state. One of the recent strikes that is turning out well is that made in the Asbestos district. The coal beds being uncovered there are proving of enormous size and the product of very fair quality. The development thus far done upon them is shallow, and the real character of the coal cannot be fully determined till the tunnels are driven deeper, but the surface prospects are such as to lead the owners to believe they have a good thing and they are preparing to give the properties extensive development. R. E. Doan, one of the principal operators in the Asbestos district, has 700 acres of coal lands and these he is developing at several points. The vein which he is now opening is producing a fine quality of coal and this is being hauled to the railroad for local distribution and use. The coal of the Asbestos deposits, like that found in other districts of southern Oregon, is a lignite of good quality. It is a soft coal, but it is a good fuel product, and will be of great value in supplying necessary fuel to the smelters on the copper mines in this section of the state. Under existing conditions, all smelter fuel must be shipped in from outside states at an enormous expense.

You often hear people say of a man, "he has money in the bank," and he is spoken of with respect as one who is getting on in the world. It is a good thing for your standing to have money in the bank, and it's easier than you think, after you have made a start.

PUBLIC OPINION FAVORS JENNINGS

Josephine People Think Jasper Should Be Acquitted in Second Trial.

MUCH OF EVIDENCE DESTROYED OR LOST

Court Refused to Dismiss the Case, Although Urged to Do So by the District Attorney—Jennings Cabin Destroyed by Fire.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Grand, Or., May 8.—Although keenly disappointed because the court refused to dismiss his case, even after the prosecuting attorney had moved for a dismissal, Jasper Jennings, who will be tried again for the murder of his father, is one of the best-natured and well-behaved prisoners in the Josephine county jail. Jasper was recently here from Salem, where he has been confined at the penitentiary for the past year. When sent to the penitentiary it was to await the gallows, as he had been convicted of the murder of his father, and a sentence had been pronounced, but an appeal was made and the supreme court granted a new trial, basing its ruling upon technical errors that occurred during the hearing in the circuit court. Since his first trial public opinion has changed and young Jennings now has many sympathizers where he had none before. This sympathy has come to him largely through the subsequent acquittal of his sister Dora, who was jointly indicted with him. District Attorney Reames stated in his motion for a dismissal of the case that it was his belief that another trial would prove only an expense to the county, as an acquittal of the lad seems inevitable. Many of the more important witnesses have moved away and cannot be had for another trial; the old cabin at Granite Hill mining camp, in which N. M. Jennings was murdered while he lay in bed, has been burned, and other important evidence used in the first trial is destroyed or cannot be had. All of the Jennings family are here awaiting the second and what they confidently believe will be the final trial of Jasper. The mother has been seriously ill at a local hospital for the past two months, but is now recovering; one of the boys who was accidentally shot by his brother-in-law last winter while out hunting is recovering and Dora has returned from Washington, where she has been since her acquittal.

PORTLAND AND EUGENE MERGER FOR MINING

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Eugene, Or., May 8.—The merger mining company has been organized among Eugene and Portland capitalists for the purpose of working several properties in the Blue river district. The group of claims included in the merger are the following: The Doctor, Almighty Dollar, Idaho, Dewey, Geneva and Huckleberry; bounded on the east by the famous Lucky Boy, which has been successfully working from 15 to 40 stamps for the past 10 years. The merger company has 200 feet of the same ore worked by the Lucky Boy, cropping out about 40 feet wide in several places, carrying paying values at the surface. A great deal of development work has been done on the properties. The company is capitalized at $250,000. Pay your west side gas bills before Friday, 4 p. m. Positively no discount after that day.

PLANTIVE WAILS OF THE JOBOCRATS

If anybody asks you, Mr. Lane's a foxy guy. Did you notice, without comment, how he pushed Thomas' eye? Why, the latter, Tuesday morning, was found writing in a fit. And the only word he uttered was that "Harry Lane is it."

SHEEP QUARANTINE CASE NOW UNDER ADVISEMENT

Salem, May 8.—The state sheep commission and representatives from Washington met at the state house yesterday and presented their respective sides in the controversy arising from the request of the Oregon sheepmen that the governor proclaim quarantine against Washington as well as Nevada and California. State Sheep Inspector W. H. Lytle of Pendleton was present. The Washington men were represented by State Veterinarian S. W. Nelson of Pullman and H. R. Bryson, attorney for the Wenaha Wool Growers' association. The territory in controversy and in which Oregon sheep become exposed is the Wenaha reserve, on a part of which the Washington sheepmen have been granted the pasturage privilege by the federal government. Mr. Bryson denied the existence of scab in the southeastern Washington counties and furnished affidavits that the flocks of that section were not affected. The Oregon commission insisted that the flocks of those counties, while not so severely affected as in some other counties, were nevertheless subject to the disease and that in order to eradicate scab it was necessary that precautions be taken against Washington sheep on the Wenaha range. Commissioner Boylen, who is familiar with the controversy, was the principal speaker. "We are forced," he said, "to dip our sheep but we do not want to dip except in their own territory. We do not care to work any hardship upon them and are willing to give them five or six miles if need be after they get into Oregon territory to do their dipping. Every other neighboring state is quarantined and we must comply with their laws if we wish to

COMPULSORY SPRINKLING OF STREETS OF EUGENE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Eugene, Or., May 8.—At a meeting of the Eugene city council last evening an ordinance was passed imposing the cost of street sprinkling to the owners of the property abutting on the streets sprinkled. For two weeks the streets of the city have gone without sprinkling for the reason that the business men could not agree with the owners of the sprinkling service upon terms. In consequence there has been a great deal of unfavorable com-
