

FRAZER SAYS MANNING EXCEEDED AUTHORITY

McAllister's Appointment as Attorney of Juvenile Court is Cause of Difference.

JUDGE WANTS GALLOWAY TO FILL THE POSITION

Asserts Law Gives Him Sole Right to Choose Officer to Work With Him—District Attorney Takes Opposite View.

The announcement of District Attorney Manning that Attorney R. S. J. McAllister will be appointed as deputy district attorney to be attached to the juvenile court does not meet with Judge Fraser's approval. He prepared the following statement for publication:

"The amended juvenile court law provides that the district attorney shall appoint such person as deputy district attorney as shall be satisfactory to the judge of the juvenile court, and it shall be the duty of such deputy district attorney to prosecute cases arising under this act, and to prepare the necessary papers for the same, and also, by and with the consent of the district attorney, and under his control, to prosecute all cases."

"If Judge Fraser has the appointment of this deputy, I do not want it. I am willing to let the three judges of the circuit court, Judges Cleland, Gantenbein and Sears, or any reputable attorney of the city, interpret this law as to who has the right to make the appointment."

"If I have the appointment of this deputy, I am going to make it; and I am convinced I have the right. The statement that I said I was going to appoint whom I pleased is a mistake. I did not say any such thing."

"Judge Fraser has nothing to say about the appointment of a deputy to the juvenile court. I will appoint whom I please."

"There is another reason, aside from the provisions of the law, why I should be consulted in this matter. While the appointee could be technically a deputy district attorney, he would in his duties be more an officer of the juvenile court. His duties would require him to be in almost constant attendance upon the juvenile court, and his office should be in or about the quarters of that court."

"Even in his investigation and prosecution of adults for contributory delinquency and for other offenses affecting the welfare of children, the prosecution would or should be carried on from the child's standpoint of view, not so much of punishing the offender as of safeguarding the interests of the children. His duties all centering about the juvenile court, he would in fact be a member of my official family, not of Mr. Manning's. I must be in constant touch with him; Mr. Manning but seldom."

"Much as I esteem Mr. McAllister as a friend, I know of another whose name I have already suggested to Mr. Manning—not on his invitation, however, whom I believe to be better qualified for this particular work by training, experience and natural aptitude."

STRANGE PREDICTIONS

Planetary Professor Foretells Events and Quickly Reads the Lives of People, Through Thousands of Miles Away.

Sends Letters to the Rich and Poor Alike, in Which He Advises Them About Business, Marriage, Speculation, Love Affairs, Wealth, Etc.

Offers Free Readings to All Who Write and Send Date of Birth.

In his office in New York City, surrounded by charts and disks of strange design, Prof. Albert H. Postel studies daily over the lives of men and women who have written him for advice on affairs of business, love, speculation, travel, marriage, health, and generally, the events of life. The following letter gives an idea of Mr. Postel's ability:

MISS ETTA M. TRYON.

Prof. Postel—You are certainly the most wonderful astrologer living. Every one of your predictions came true. Consider that you not only saved me from an awful death but prevented the loss of hundreds of dollars. I trust that many people will profit by your advice. Sincerely,
MISS ETTA M. TRYON.

The accuracy of recent predictions made by this eminent astrologer has caused many of his friends to believe that he possesses a supernatural power, but he modestly asserts that his predictions are due alone to a scientific understanding of natural laws. The many thankful letters Prof. Postel has received from people who have benefited by his advice furnish ample proof that he is sincere in his work and has a kindly feeling toward humanity.

Readers of this paper can obtain a reading free of charge by addressing a letter to Prof. Postel, Dept. 117, No. 126 West 14th St., New York City. Simply say you wish a reading of your life, stating your birth date, sex and whether married or single. If you wish to do so, you may include 10 cents (value of stamps) to pay postage and clerical charges. However, if you prefer, you may simply say, "I wish a reading of my life," and you will receive a reading of your life.

BURN BODY OF JUNK HANG HO IN BREAKERS ON THE BAR

Inhuman Mother Places Child Under Sidewalk So Weather Will Kill It.

CREMATES REMAINS IN FIREBOX OF COOK STOVE

Neighbors Smell Scorching Flesh and Are Frankly Told of Crime Which Their Gossiping Finally Discloses to the Police at Milwaukee.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Milwaukee, Wis., May 11.—The gruesome tale of Tolstoy's "Powers of Darkness" which was forbidden on the Russian stage because of its horror, had its prototype here today, in the alleged confession of Anna Ellenberger and Katherine Goldman, who are said to have admitted they murdered Mrs. Ellenberger's infant in a horrible manner. The child was frozen to death by exposure to zero temperature and its body was burned in the family cooking stove.

"What is that? It smells like burning pork."

Mrs. Goldman is reported to have replied: "Oh, that's only Anna burning her baby."

According to the confession, Mrs. Goldman and Mrs. Ellenberger planned the murder of the baby before its birth.

Mrs. Ellenberger was the unmarried sister of Mrs. Goldman's husband when she was betrayed by a man who fled to Europe. Mrs. Goldman, the police say, took Goldman into her confidence and the couple agreed to marry the girl, Conrad Ellenberger, a Slav widower, employed in a junk shop, was induced to wed the girl. When the time for the maternity approached, Ellenberger fled, and the girl had to undergo an operation. He assisted and by this ruse the two women concealed the birth. A healthy infant boy was born February 13.

The Goldman and Ellenberger families lived in the same house. The women discussed the disposition of the child. The nurse suggested that it be given to some one who would provide it a home.

After her departure the women are said to have decided to freeze the child. It was wrapped in part of a carpet put into a soap box and shoved under a sidewalk. It cried lustily, but its wails were unheeded. The baby froze to death. Its body was taken out from its improvised coffin two days later.

Mrs. Goldman built a fire in the cook stove. She then visited a neighbor, it is charged, while the mother burned the body of her infant, sitting by the stove and watching the flesh crackle and disappear in the roaring flames of the funeral pyre. Gossip of the neighbors led to the arrest of the woman.

TURNS OFF WATER TO EJECT TENANT

Landlord Kresendahl Thereby Violates City Ordinance and Suffers Arrest.

Were it not for the serious nature of the offense charged, the arrest of E. Kresendahl by Patrolman J. Murphy last night would have been a mere violation of the ordinance prohibiting the turning off of water by any one except a duly appointed official of the water board, the semi-humorous affair might aptly be entitled "A Landlord's Mistake," or "The Mystery of the Meter."

Kresendahl was taken into custody upon complaint of Chester Hare, a well known barber, who occupies one of the defendant's premises, between Sixth and Seventh streets.

Kresendahl, who is a "refugee" from San Francisco, purchased a choice lot on Mill street, upon which he erected four modern buildings. Upon the completion of the buildings he rented the same and claims to have been given a verbal lease for one year. Last month, according to Hare, Kresendahl notified the Hares to vacate immediately. Maintaining that he had a lease for one year and the fact that the requisite 30 days' written notice had not been served, Hare refused to move and Kresendahl thereupon started suit.

The complaint is now on file in Justice Reed's court, but the wisdom of the delay that jurist, the matter has not come to trial. Chaffing under the delay Kresendahl is said to have determined to resort to more radical methods and yesterday he turned off the gas and water in the flat.

Upon endeavoring to light her gas stove to prepare the evening meal, Mrs. Hare was astonished to find that the fuel supply had been stopped and upon investigation ascertained that the gas had been disconnected. A still greater surprise was in store for her, however, when she found that water was also lacking.

Pending consultation with his attorney, Hare borrowed sufficient money for immediate use, but was compelled to take his family to a restaurant for food. The matter was laid before Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald yesterday morning and a warrant was issued for Kresendahl's arrest.

In addition to the circumstances surrounding the affair, the prosecution is one of the first to be instituted under the ordinance. Kresendahl put up $50 to guarantee his appearance in court, and the case will come up before Judge Cameron tomorrow morning.

Fox as a Decoy.

From Country Life.

Some 20 years ago a tame fox was kept at the Berkeley Castle duck decoy in Gloucestershire.

This animal understood the whole art of decoying wild fowl and showed himself to the duck warden and ten on the decoy lake used by gently waving his tail and moving gently and fro, to attract the attention of the curious fowl.

The birds were fascinated by the fox's motions and, following him up the decoy pipe, fell easy victims to the concealed fowler.

It is a well known fact that the old decoy fowling is invariably secured, if they were able, a red dog as near in color to a fox as possible for the difficult part of decoying duck from the pool to the netted pipe.

Hawser Attached to Towing Vessel is Parted by High Seas and the Crew of Four White Men Are Now at the Peril of the Wave.

SHAKE UP IN POLICE CIRCLES

Five Newly Appointed Sergeants Will Keep Check on Patrolmen While on Duty.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Astoria, Or., May 11.—Four white men are riding out a fearful sea on the Columbia river bar in a Chinese junk tonight and it is a grave question whether they will be alive in the morning, for at any moment one of the monster waves that roll in from the ocean may swamp the strange craft. The crew of the junk is standing by and looking on helplessly. The junk is the Whang Ho which was brought here from San Francisco by the steam schooner South Bay for exhibition at Astoria and Portland. All went well until in the afternoon at 4:40 o'clock when the South Bay began to haul the junk over the bar. A nasty sea had been kicked up by the southerly gales of the past two days and when about half way over the bar a tremendous breaker boarded the three-masted craft and carried the mizen mast over the side.

DOES NOT WANT SCHWAB MONEY

Miss McGorray Spurns Offer of Two Million Dollars for a Wedding Present.

(Special News by Longest Leased Wire.) Cleveland, May 11.—"We are going to live the simple life and consequently we do not want any $2,000,000 as so much money would spoil all our plans."

This was the statement today of Miss Edith McGorray, niece of Sheriff McGorray, who will wed Edward M. Schwab, youngest brother of Charles M. Schwab, the millionaire steel magnate, in this city June 18.

"Mr. Schwab has a law practice and also teaches at Notre Dame university and he will keep right on practicing and teaching after we return from our honeymoon in the east," continued Miss McGorray.

Her remarks were called forth by a statement that the eldest Schwab had decided to give the young couple $2,000,000 as a wedding gift.
