George Dart, who, with his father, crossed the plains in 1848 and settled in Oregon, died at the home of his son, William Dart at 7 East Eleventh street yesterday morning aged 87 years. His death was due to old age. He was a Mason and will be buried with the funeral rites of that order. In 1852, the father, Anson Dart, moved to Jacksonville, where he held the position of Indian agent. In 1855 George Dart married Miss Anna Tichner, daughter of Captain William Tichner. The widow, two sons and a daughter—William Dart, Harry G. Dart and Mrs. A. B. Carrington surivive the deceased. Harry is foreman of the art department of the New York World and William is a well known Portland newspaper man.

Examinations in criminal law and domestic relations were held for the junior class of the University of Oregon law school in the court room of department No. 1 at the court house last night. Circuit Judge Gantenbein, dean of the law school, had charge of the examination, and prepared the questions on criminal law. The examination on domestic relations was prepared by Judge Frazer. Two women and 33 men took the examination, the results of which will be announced next Monday night, when the same students will be examined on the law of contracts and of agency. This class is the first to enter the three-year course recently established at the university law school.

Senator Bourn has acknowledged the receipt of the resolutions passed recently by the Sellwood board of trade regarding the removal of the postal station. The senator assures D. M. Donaugh that he will give his attention to the matter. A petition from Brooklyn has also been sent to Senator Bourne, asking that the Brooklyn station be established as the postal department has recommended. This station will be ready by July 1 and it is the union of the Sellwood station with this new Brooklyn station that the Sellwood people are fighting.

The first of a series of lectures to be provided by the Sellwood Civic league will take place at Campbell hall, Sellwood, Wednesday evening, May 15. The league, recenty organized, is making a fight for local option in what is known as the “Oaks precinct,” and is incidentally making local option a feature in the campaign of many of the adjoining precincts. Illegal voting is one of the factors to be contended with in the Sellwood precincts, and is being met by the distribution of literature and personal canvass.

The suit brought by Mrs. Luella C. Parrish against Dr. W. H. Davis of Albany to collect $323 alleged to be due for caring for Mrs. Dora Davis, divorced wife of the physician, and for the cost of her casket and funeral expenses, was compromised in the circuit court yesterday afternoon for $100, after the plaintiff, Mrs. Parrish, had testified. The jury that had been empaneled yesterday morning was discharged.

Jacob Fryberger, the junk dealer who was recently sentenced to three months in the county jail for having received stolen brass nuts from three small boys, was paroled yesterday afternoon after paying a fine of $100 that had been levied upon him as part of his sentence. Fryberger was ordered to go out of the junk business and to stop teaching young boys to bring stolen goods to him.

PAYS SOCIETY WOMAN FOR LINEN STOLEN FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

“Fifteen years ago when I was in your employ I stole $10 worth of table linen. I have been converted since then and it has preyed on my mind so much that I want to pay you for the things I took,” said a plainly dressed, middle-aged woman to a prominent society woman after she had been ushered into the apartments of the latter at the fashionable Hobart-Curtis late Friday afternoon.

As an evidence that she was in earnest the stranger produced a $20 gold piece and asked for the change. Unable to remember the crime referred to and suspecting the woman's story the Portland woman reluctantly acceded to the request.

“I am not going to tell you my name, but it may occur to you later,” said the woman. “About 15 years ago I took a lot of linen from your house, as I was going to be married, and wanted the articles for my home. I married a good Christian man and was converted shortly afterward. It has bothered me so much that I have wanted to make restitution for a long time, so please accept the money.”

After the departure of her visitor the more the recipient pondered over the matter the more she became convinced that the $20 gold piece was a counterfeit and that she had fallen an easy victim to a clever swindler. Finally she determined to notify the police and in response to a telephone call Detective Sergeant Baty was detailed to make an investigation.

The coin was turned over to Sergeant Baty, but upon taking the money to a local banking institution the officer was informed that it was genuine and the cashier of the counting-house gave the detective a brand new, shining double eagle in exchange.

It has been ascertained that the woman communicated with several people during the past week in order to secure the address of the former employer, whose confidence she had betrayed.

SEATTLE PHYSICIAN CURES MENINGITIS BY LIGHT RAYS

Cure for malignant cerebro-spinal meningitis is believed to have been found in the Rogers therapeutic lamp and used with success in the two cases in which it was tried by Dr. F. A. Churchill of Seattle. Two cases which under ordinary treatment would doubtless have proved fatal responded to the treatment at once, and both patients are now convalescing.

The lamp used is a 500-candle-power incandescent therapeutic lamp, such as is found in the equipment of many physicians. The filament is large and the lamp is provided with a hood reflector, nickel-plated and made of copper to increase the light. The lamp may be attached to any lighting circuit.

“The rays of light,” says Dr. Churchill, in explaining the action of the treatment, “when applied to the affected portions, promotes metabulism; that is, the cell action in carrying off the waste matter and supplying new tissues. Light is a destroyer of all forms of germ life, and the rays from this lamp tend to promote circulation and strengthen the health forces of the blood.”

Dr. Churchill applies the lamp by holding it a foot away from the body along the spine and neck. A 20-minute application brought rest immediately to the patient that had been for four days unconscious. The patient is now recovering, as is the only other one where the treatment has been tried.

HEAVY SHORTAGE IN BEEF SUPPLY

Scarcity of Hoof Products is Greater Than at Any Time During Past Six Years.

INCREASED DEMAND IS PRINCIPAL REASON

Rapidly Growing Population in the Northwest Causes Greater Consumption—Officials Deny Wholesale Prices Are Lower on Sound.

There is said to be a greater scarcity of beef cattle in Oregon and Washington than at any time within the past six years. The meat packing establishments in Portland and on Puget sound have been unable to secure sufficient beef cattle in this territory to supply the demand and have been compelled to ship on the hoof from southern California.

Fat steers are now bringing 5½ cents, standing weight, in this market, which is a fraction higher than they have been at any time since 1901.

Up to May 1 the local packers had their buyers throughout eastern Oregon and Washington picking up the bunches of stall-fed steers that were to be found on the ranches. But this source of supply has been exhausted and the grass-fattened cattle of southern Oregon will not be ready for shipment before June 1 to 15.

Increased Demand Causes Shortage.

Local packers ascribe the unusual shortage in beef cattle this spring to the immense increase in demand for the finished product. Heretofore the packers have known about what to expect in the way of demand for dressed beef, but for the past year they say the demand has been abnormally heavy, so much so that the usual sources from which beef cattle are drawn were exhausted much earlier than in former seasons.

Officials of the Union Meat company declare that the large increase in the population of the Pacific northwest, and more especially of Portland and vicinity, is primarily responsible for this condition and that it is up to the cattle barons east of the mountains to raise more beef cattle.

Officials Deny Report.

It is denied by the officials of the Union Meat company that the wholesale price of meat in Seattle and Tacoma is lower than it is in Portland. In speaking of the matter this morning an officer of that company said that an examination of the market reports in the newspapers of the sound cities would show a difference of half a cent a pound in the cost of dressed meats in favor of Portland.

There is a warm contest on between the Union Meat company and the Puget sound packing companies for the control of the dressed beef trade in Seattle and Tacoma, but it has not yet reached the price-cutting stage according to the Union Meat company officials.

RIGLER MAY STUDY SCHOOLS IN EAST

No Industrial Departments Will Be Established in Portland Before Fall.

No action toward the establishment of industrial or trades schools will be considered by the school board until fall. Such was the decision yesterday afternoon. Superintendent Rigler will probably be sent east to study the methods employed in eastern cities where the trades schools are established in connection with the public school system. Philadelphia is the only city known to Mr. Rigler where such industrial schools are established.

Contracts were awarded as follows for work on the proposed addition to the Montavilla schools: Brick work, J. M. Merchant & Bridges, $18,488; plumbing, Robert Gillan, $3,094; contract to furnish glass, Central Door & Lumber company. These bids were the lowest received.

Some difficulty developed in considering the claims and amounts due Contractor J. E. Bennett, who was awarded the contract for erection of three additions to a schoolhouse. It was discovered that the claims amounted to more than the aggregate sum due the contractor. Architect Jones was ordered to carefully check over the claims, as it is thought that some may be for work done elsewhere.

STREET CAR COMPANY AGREES TO PAY $3,000

Settlement in Forty Thousand Damage Suit One of Largest Ever Recorded.

Instead of the $40,000 sued for by Mabel J. Eaton as guardian ad litem of 3-year-old Constance Eaton, for personal injuries inflicted upon the baby by a streetcar on Fifth street last June, $3,000 was accepted yesterday afternoon in settlement of the suit.

The accident occurred at 6:30 o'clock on the evening of June 21, 1906, on Fifth street between Main and Salmon streets. The little girl was run down by a streetcar, and frightfully mangled. For a long time it was feared she would not recover, but she gradually improved and passed out of danger, though she will be a cripple for life. The settlement agreed to by the streetcar company is one of the largest ever recorded in the circuit court.
